All About Prosperity.
Ford Talks Sense.
Good News From Hoover.
Everybody Push.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MR. HOOVER'S "supergalaxy" of business talent reads like a who's who in the upper brackets of high finance. Fords, Du Ponts, Rosenwalds, Youngs, Sloans, are listed to tell the nation how to "spur trade." The names will inspire confidence, but there are too many to do any actual work together. The President will listen and do something.

Already money is cheaper, and that is 50 per cent of the battle.

A WISE Italian said "give light and the people will find their own way."

Prosperity says "give credit, and business will find its own way."

The nation ought to find out who is responsible for the outrageous usury that disgraced the country and precipitated panic, and who is responsible for the shameless stock issues that lie on the financial market like a ton of plum pudding on the stomach of a child.

The people reading the list of big guns brought into action, to help business, ask themselves "what is the matter? What is there beside the slumping of a Wall Street gambling mania of which we have not been told?"

THE American farmer, listening to the radio for the prices of wheat and corn, might muse as follows:

"How busy they all get when anything happens to Wall Street.

"How quietly and calmly they take it, when things happen to the farmer."

IT is refreshing to read Henry Ford's ideas about "stabilizing and increasing prosperity."

Invited by President Hoover to join the army of advisers, Ford begins by announcing "an immediate increase in wages among his own employes."

HE says "the only thing that should be high priced is the man who works. Wages must not come down, they must not even stay at their present levels. They must go up."

TO that statement, rankly bolshevistic to many gentlemen with plenty of money, Ford adds, "We must see that increased wages are not taken away by increased prices that do not represent increased values."

FORD even says that middle-aged men, that have done their duty by the country, and are most frequently laid off, should be protected and kept at work. If all that is not rank "Bolshevism" and "Socialism" what on earth would you call it?

IT WAS cheerful yesterday, prices up from $2 to $13 a share. The Bank of England reduced the discount rate to 5½. Ours is 4½. London usually stays one point above us.

President Hoover was expected late yesterday to say something pleasing about business.

NOTHING better can be said by anybody than what Ford says about wages. Wages are to prosperity what sunshine and rain are to crops.

THE big man can get only his part of what the little man earns. The little man by the way can only get his part of what some other worker produces.

IT IS hard to make big men understand that their own prosperity demands liberal pay for the little fellow.

It is hard to make many workers realize that when they fail to do a fair day's work they cheat themselves and other workmen.

LATER, a statement, from the White House, shows that things can be done when somebody takes hold.

Big concerns have promised the President that they will spend more money in 1930 than they have been spending in the past.

Mr. Gifford, of A. T. & T., the great telephone organization, spent in 1929 more than $600,000,000. It will spend more than that in 1930.

SCORES of other business and industrial leaders have promised the President to expand construction, which means giving more employment "in every prudent direction" to cover any slack in employment.

Power, gas and other public utilities are going to spend money freely.

THE railroads are ordering quantities of steel, and the steel industry will undertake large construction programs, replacing antiquated and obsolete plants.

It ought to be a good year.

PAY CLERK, $15,000 GONE

Westinghouse Employe Steps Out of Office, Then Fails To Return; Search Starts

An employe of the paymaster's office, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, East Pittsburgh, disappeared with $15,000 of the company's payroll before noon today, according to a report to the city detectives.

East Pittsburgh police asked detectives to aid in the search for the missing man, said to be Milton L. Carren, 43, of 118 Shaw avenue, East Pittsburgh.

Detectives were informed that Carren was engaged with others in the paymaster's office, counting out the money for the payroll this morning.

Carren was seen to leave the office, leaving his hat and coat on a rack.

"I am going over to another department," Curren is said to have told his fellow-employes.

CHECK BARES SHORTAGE

When Carren failed to return, a check was begun which revealed the shortage, according to the report to the detectives.

A search for Carren failed to reveal any trace of him.

Westinghouse Company police broadcast this description of the missing man:

Five feet one inch tall, weight 116 pounds; dark brown hair. Has a small wart on his nose. He was wearing a brown suit.

Company police said Carren recently had talked of going to Chicago to visit a woman friend. They have notified Chicago authorities to be on the lookout for him.

Police throughout this district were guarding railroad stations.

DESCRIPTION BROADCAST

Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren had 30 men scattered out through the district guarding all railroad depots, bus and interurban street car lines.

All radio stations broadcast a description of the missing man.

State highway police and constagulary guarded highways.

The treasury department of Westinghouse made this statement:

"The sum of $15,000 is missing from one of our shop payrolls. This was discovered between 10 and 11 a. m.. One of our employes has been missing since 9 o'clock. The company is amply protected."

CLEMENCEAU'S DEATH NEAR

PARIS, Nov. 22. —(INS.)—Former Premier Clemenceau's condition apparently took a further turn for the worse this afternoon when his son, Michael, rushed from the Clemenceau home and ordered his chauffeur to obtain an electrical ozone machine with all possible speed.

Scores of journalists surrounded the Tiger's son for a statement, but the latter said only that his father's condition was unchanged.

Nevertheless, the hurried call for a machine to administer oxygen was taken as a bad sign. Oxygen is usually administered only as a last resort.

ASKS SIMPLE BURIAL

Belief that Clemenceau is slowly sinking was expressed by Emile Pons, playwright and composer, upon leaving the Clemenceau home.

"It is certain he can't last long," Pons said. "M. Clemen-

Frelinghuysen Again To Seek Senate Seat

2 RESCUED IN FIRE AT PITCAIRN

One Fireman Injured, Three Overcome in 4-Building Blaze; Loss Over $50,000

Fire swept four buildings in Pitcairn's business district today and threatened to destroy the rest of the block.

One fireman was injured. Three were overcome by smoke.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Salyards, in whose apartment the flames started, were carried from their sick beds by firemen.

Fred Wright, Hose Company No. 2, was crushed while carrying a dresser across the street, when he slipped on the ice. The three overcome by smoke were revived and resumed their duties.

The loss was estimated by firefighters at more than $50,000.

The flames spread from the two-story Salyards Building at Highland avenue and Broadway to the two adjoining Broadway buildings occupied by Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. John Cutshaw and their two children and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hirsch and family.

In a fourth building on Highland avenue, the interior of an apartment occupied by Mrs. L. M. Bailey and her daughter, Cora, was almost completely destroyed.

The three buildings facing on Broadway were badly damaged within and without. One, a three-story structure, was left little more than an empty shell. It was its second fire within a year.

The stock of furniture in the Salyards Building was entirely destroyed, according to M. D. Salyards, president of Pitcairn Borough Council, who owns the building and who is a brother of Jack Salyards. It was he and Chief of Police John McDowell who carried Mr. and Mrs. Salyards, who had been ill from the influenza, out of the burning building. The sick were taken to the home of the man's mother, Mrs. D. E. Salyards, Wood street, Pitcairn.

A high wind encouraged the flames and old structures across the street were endangered by flying embers.

Fire companies from adjoiining towns hurried to a call for aid.

Police blamed the fire on an overheated stove.

Policeman Rescues Woman in 45th Street Fire

A few minutes after Mrs. Josephine Kovaleski, 55, started for the market today, fire broke out in the flue of her home at 188 Forty-fifth street.

Her neighbor, Mrs. Helen Jordan, 35, rushed into the house to save the household effects, was partly overcome, by smoke and was led to the street by Patrolman Thomas Mulvihill with two blankets under her arm.

One fireman, Hoseman David Wilson, of No. 6 Engine Company, received lacerations in smashing a window.

Damage to the house, which is a two-story frame affair, was estimated at less than $400.

Wales Disappoints Lassies at Dance

GLASGOW, Scotland, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Lassies of this and surrounding bailiwicks, were keenly disappointed last night at a dance aboard the Transylvania in dock here when the Prince of Wales sat and watched instead of dancing. The prince looked very tired after a busy day in Edinburg. He sat with the Duchess of Montrose and despite many anxious glances from the fair dancers did not take the floor.

Taylor Abandons 'Street Scene' Opera Plan

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Giulio Gatti-Casazza, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, announced that Deems Taylor had abandoned his idea of writing an opera from "Street Scene," and instead had decided to compose an opera from DuMaurier's "Peter Ibbetson."

Taylor, American composer, wrote the "King's Henchman," which was given its world premiere at the Metropolitan Opera House. Critics hailed that opera as the first successful effort to reconcile English words with operatic music.

P. & W. VA. SALE DENIED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(INS.)—The Pittsburgh and West Virginia has not been sold to the Pennroad Corporation, a holding company for the Pennsylvania Railroad, and no change in the road's management is contemplated, Charles F. Taplin, of Cleveland, counsel for the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, told the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

This developed during oral argument on the commission's complaint against the B. & O. charging that it held control of the Western Maryland in violation of the Clayton anti-trust act.

Sheldon, U. S. Steel Branch Head, Dies

DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Samuel B. Sheldon, president of the Minnesota Steel Company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, died unexpectedly at his home early today. Death was due to heart disease.

Sheldon, who was 61 years old, had been at his office at the steel plant all day Thursday. He had not been ill recently.

He was born at Manchester, Mass., and was a graduate of the Massachusetts School of Technology at Boston. He was employed by the United States Steel Corporation at Pittsburgh for a short time after his graduation.

HOOVER MEETS U. S. BUILDERS

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The construction kings of the country—the men who influence building and those who supply the materials for building—came to Washington today to contribute their bit toward President Hoover's effort to carry American business through the oncoming winter on a basis of prosperous activity.

The President attaches great importance to the keeping of construction activity at a high level, as evidenced by the great expansion he has ordered in the government's program, and he turned to the builders today for further support along this line. He found the builders eager to co-operate.

CONFEREES NAMED

Those summoned to the White House today for another of Mr. Hoover's far-sighted business clinics included:

T. T. Flagler, president of the Associated General Contractors.

Sam Hotchkiss, president of the National Association of Builders' Exchanges.

Frank H. Smith, president of the Portland Cement Association.

Harry H. Culver, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

YOUNGSTOWN NOT TO CUT PAYROLL

Tube and Sheet Company's Head Asserts Confidence In Industry's Prosperity

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—There will be no reduction of wages of workers in the steel industry, J. J. Campbell, president of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, declared today. Campbell, who has been in conference with business and industrial leaders in New York, said that from all reports received general business conditions are sound.

"Confidence is returning," Campbell said, "but while the depressing influence of the stock market depression is passing away people will hestitate in buying and this is now being reflected on business.

"We have found that fundamental conditions in the country are favorable for continued prosperity. The only handicap was tightness of credit, but this has been remedied to some extent and credit will now be available for all legitimate and constructive enterprises.

"It will take a little time for the country to adjust itself and during this period we can't hope for business to be as good as it was last winter, but the turn for the better is not far away."

FARMERS' POWER INTACT

Campbell said reports from agricultural sections show the farmers' purchasing power has not declined and that conditions are sound.

The political situation is viewed with concern by Campbell.

"President Hoover's policies are absolutely sound and constructive and for the best interests of the nation. He should not be hampered by a handful of politicians seeking personal ambitions and political success, but should be encouraged by millions of people."

INCREASES BANK DEPOSITS

Campbell said he had increased his company's deposits in local banks so the banks would have funds to lend for constructive business.

Campbell's declaration was taken as an answer to widespread rumors that wages in the steel industry might undergo a revision downward.

With mills in the Youngstown district operating at not higher than 55 per cent of capacity, work will be divided between employes so that all may have some earnings, Campbell said.

NO CUTS PLANNED HERE

Most executives of steel companies and other manufacturing concerns of the Pittsburgh district have not returned from eastern conferences. From what could be learned, no reduction in wages is contemplated in this district.

Steel companies said that orders are coming forward in satisfactory volume and "business as usual" will be the rule. One steel man said that if the steel companies would end their year right now, they would show the most profitable period since the World War.

Gas Man, Wife Save Pair Overcome by Fumes

First-aid methods learned by Eugene Farrell, 35, of 3907 Howley avenue, meter reader for a gas company, enabled him and his wife to resusciate a newly wedded couple overcome by gas fumes early today.

Farrell was aroused by a faint rapping at his bedroom door about 1 a. m. Answering the summons, he found Mrs. Carl Winkler, 20, who with her husband occupies two rooms on the second floor of the Farrell home.

"Help!" she whispered, then collapsed.

Farrell detected the odor of gas and immediately began resuscitation methods to restore her.

Absence of Winkler alarmed Farrell. Leaving Mrs. Farrell to continue the work of resuscitation on Mrs. Winkler, Farrell found the husband unconscious on the kitchen floor.

For half an hour Farrell and a neighbor, William Brenner, of 3905 Howley avenue, worked on Winkler before he regained consciousness.

The victims were recovering at their home today. Physicians said they would suffer little ill effects. They were married June 5.

The gas is believed to have leaked from a stove in the Winklers' bedroom. It had been turned off when they retired last night.

Farrell is employed by the Equitable Gas Company.

Charge Sunday's Son And Model Indiscreet

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—A Hollywood cloak model and George M. Sunday, son of the evangelist, were sought today on complaints charging indiscretions. Simultaneously with announcement that the complaints had been issued, the younger Sunday's wife, Mrs. Harriet Sunday, revealed her attorney is preparing a divorce suit, naming the model, Mrs. Mauryne La Salle.

Charges made by Mrs. Sunday led Deputy District Attorney George Stahlman to issue complaints against Sunday and Mrs. La Salle.

Bonds of $10,000 were set for the couple, who are said to have disappeared. Sunday was reported to have dropped from sight November 1, while Mrs. La Salle has been missing since her appearance at the district attorney's office for questioning soon after investigation was begun at Mrs. Sunday's request.

Sunday and Mrs. La Salle were surprised in the Sunday home on the night of October 27, according to the charge of Mrs. Sunday, who claimed she and four witnesses, including Frank Loewe, Sunday's secretary, and R. A. Deininiger, traffic agent of a commercial air line. Loewe was said to have undisclosed information about the case and Deininiger told investigators Sunday rented an airplane in October, 1928, in which he took Mrs. La Salle to Bakersfield, Cal.

Mrs. La Salle, who was divorced last year, is the mother of a 5-year-old son, while the Sundays have two children, George, Jr., 15, and John Mason Sunday, 13.

'OTHER MAN,' VICTIM'S WIFE HELD IN CHICAGO KILLING

STOCK CRASH BLAME PUT ON SENATE

Banker Repeating Statement To Lobby Investigators Grilled by Glass, Borah

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Fred I. Kent, director of the New York Bankers' Trust Company, today reiterated his statement before the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee's attitude on the pending tariff bill was partly responsible for the recent crash in stock prices.

He asserted the failure of the Senate to make progress on the bill because of the opposition of the insurgent Republican-Democratic coalition "had had a psychological effect on business generally."

FOUR REASONS GIVEN

The banker, who is deaf and had a mechanical instrument set up by his side so he could hear the questions, was severely grilled by the committee about his published speech blaming the fall of the stock market upon the Senate.

Kent blamed the market depression to four causes:

1—Attitude of the Senate coalition on the tariff bill.

2—Enormous increases in the capital gain tax.

3—Issuance of more securities than the public could absorb.

4—Astounding increases in brokers' loans.

Senator Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, formerly Secretary of the Treasury, entered the debate, "to uphold the integrity of the federal reserve system."

HOLDS PRICES TOO HIGH

Glass told Kent that had Wall street obeyed Federal Reserve laws the crash would not have occurred.

"The curse of the law is that 15-day clause which allows banks to borrow on government bonds for that period from Federal Reserve banks," Glass said.

Kent partly agreed with this, but said that "no one crowd had anything to do with this market."

The banker agreed that stock prices were above their actual worth, but refused to say they were above "any reasonable expectation of earnings." He was asked where he got the views expressed in his speech and said he had talked with "countless people" and from the whole of a number of views expressed had formed his opinion.

"Will you tell us some of those with whom you talked?" Senator Caraway (Dem.), of Arkansas, committee chairman, said.

BROKER LOANS ARGUED

"I don't remember anyone whose statement I used by itself as the basis of my opinion."

Glass asked Kent how he came to the conclusion that the Senate caused the crash when it all began with tremendous brokers' loan increases before President Hoover was elected and the Senate met.

"The crash didn't come at that time," said Kent.

"If a stock market isn't fictitious, how could it lose $2,500,000,000 in values over night?"

"Paper profits are not value."

"But you can find suckers who will buy them," interjected Caraway.

BORAH ENTERS DEBATE

"The vice of the whole situation," Glass remarked, "is the money that comes from the outside. Outside corporations are dumping their money into the stock market for betting purposes."

Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, told Kent the coalition wanted to leave the industrial schedules alone and asked how he conceived the idea the coalition's work created uncertainty over the tariff in industry.

"The general impression and psychology," the witness said, "was one of uncertainty. When the Senate is working on a tariff bill and it reaches a point where it seemingly cannot function, those whose business is affected by the tariff become much excited."

"Have you made a study of the tariff bill?"

"No. I get my opinion from a feeling that the Senate is not functioning."

"FAMILIAR PHRASE"

"That seems to be a familiar phrase, 'the Senate is not functioning.'"

"That's the way it struck me," Kent said after admitting he had not familiarized himself with the Senate proceedings."

"Do you think it's fair to blame the Senate when you haven't done this?" Borah asked.

"But, if I'm not mistaken, at one time the majority wrote a bill and brought it into the Senate."

"Then you think that the majority bill should have been brought into the Senate, and that the Senate should have made it unanimous."

"No, but I think those people in one party, if they are a minority and couldn't convince the majority, might have stopped to think they were wrong."

LINKED WITH GRUNDY

"We understand you perfectly now," Borah replied.

"Are you any kin to Mr. Grundy?" Caraway interrupted.

"No."

"Well, you ought to be, because you and he are kindred spirits; and James A. Arnold would make a good thir din that outfit."

A SONG WITHOUT WORDS—By Quin Hall

the National Association of Fire Underwriters.

Fred J. Reimer, president of the American Road Builders' Association.

STATE ROAD OFFICIAL

Samuel Eckles, of Harrisburg, Pa., president of the Association of State Highway Builders.

E. L. Carpenter, president of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association.

F. W. Reimers, president of the Southern Pine Association.

Arthur W. Berresford, president of the American Engineering Council.

W. M. Wood, president of the American Institute of Steel Construction.

A. Creischmann, president of the Home Modernizing Bureau.

PITTSBURGH BUILDER

D. T. Riffle, of Pittsburgh, president of the National Building Trades Employers' Association.

A. M. Lewin, president of the National Retail Lumber Dealers' Association.

Darwin P. Kingsley, president of the New York Life Insurance Company, one of the greatest home-financing organizations in the country.

The President was able to lay before this company of builders and building financiers the assurance that they could look forward to a winter's work secure from the threat of wage and labor troubles, for yesterday Mr. Hoover extracted a pledge from the great employers of the country that they would not take advantage of the present situation to drive wages down, and from the labor leaders of the country he obtained a similar pledge that they would not start wage controversies at this critical time.

AID TO EMPLOYMENT

Mr. Hoover believes that the assurance of a good winter's building activity will go a long way toward carrying business over the rough spots, and at the same time insure the continuance of employment at a high level.

The conference with the builders was the last that Mr. Hoover will hold this week. Monday he will receive the farm organization leaders to discuss agriculture's share in the renaissance of business, and later next week the representatives of the great utilities interests of the country.

The series of business clinics which Mr. Hoover has been conducting with railroad heads, manufacturers, industrialists, merchants, bankers and men of large affairs generally, has resulted in bringing forcibly to public attention an imposing array of favorable factors which support the view that business conditions are basically sound, and that prosperity is still a part of the national picture.

RESULTS SUMMARIZED

Briefly summarized, these factors, as developed by the White House conferences, are:

1 The great railroad systems of the country are planning to spend $1,000,000,000 during the next year for equipment and in expansion activities.

2 The utilities interests are mapping out an expansion program for next year greater than they carried through this year. An indication of what this means may be gleaned from the fact that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company alone spent some $600,000,000 this year.

FORD WAGE BOOST

3 Henry Ford is going to raise wages in his plants. His experts are now working out the plans for percentage increases in all classes of employment, and the history of such increases has been that industry generally follows an example to higher levels.

4 Steel manufacturers have assured the President their prospects are good for the next year, and that instead of retrenching they are going ahead with plant extensions and replacements.

5 Automobile manufacturers informed Mr. Hoover that while production this year may drop off somewhat from last year's abnormally high figures, they are counting on normal production and normal expansions.

6 Employers and labor heads have both given their word to President Hoover that the wage question will not be agitated during the present emergency—the employers not to cut wages, and labor not to demand increases.

7 The outlook is for easier money conditions, as reflected in lower rediscount rates, and the diversion of an enormous amount of cash heretofore going into stock speculation to the channels of productive business, large construction.

The President considers this latter factor a most important one. It was emphasized in the statement to which the President and his score of "big business" callers subscribed at the conclusion of their confidence.

'It was considered," said the statement, "that the absorption of capital in loans on the stock market had postponed much construction and that the flow of this capital back to industry and commerce would now assist the new construction."

URGES BUILDING

One of Mr. Hoover's pet theories is that when any country is building houses and factories, that country is a prosperous country, for the ramifications of the construction industry extended onto every line of business. Hence his particular interest in encouraging construction activity at this time. The government itself, at his direction, has enormously expanded its own building plans for the next year.

Out of the conferences which the President has held this week and which he will continue next week, has developed, also, a definite policy of close co-operation between ordinary business and commercial agencies and those the government maintains.

The large group that conferred at the White House yesterday, which included such industrial figures as Henry Ford, Owen D. Young, Pierre du Pont, Alfred P. Sloan, Myron C. Taylor, Julius Rosenwald, Homer Ferguson, Clarence M. Woolley, Eugene G. Grace and Walter Gifford, was turned into a temporary advisory committee which will function through the present unsettled period.

Julius Barnes, chairman of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and long associated with Mr. Hoover, was given the task of creating an executive committee from this group to work out a definite program for expansion of construction activities and maintenance of employment.

Later Barnes announced the meeting would be held in the capital within two weeks, and will include representatives of all major industries of the country.

Henry Ford was the only one of the group to expound his views at length and in public. The principal trouble at this time, in Ford's opinion, is that the people generally have reached the limit of their purchasing power.

By the simple expedient of raising wages, therefore, the automobile man proposes to increase the purchasing power of his own employes. His theory is, if they get more they will spend more.

Ford's announcement of his intention of raising the wage level in his own industrial plants, coupled with his statement, constituted an indirect challenge to his fellow industrialists to follow the lead. For the most part, however, they did not comment on it.

NO WAGE CUTS

After the conference with the various chiefs of the American Federation of Labor the White House issued a statement in which the employers agreed "they will not initiate any movement for wage reduction, and it was their strong recommendation this attitude should be pursued by the country as a whole."

"The President was also authorized by the representatives of labor," the statement continued, "to state that in their individual views and their strong recommendation to the country as a whole, that no movements beyond those already in negotiation should be initiated for increase of wages."

"The purpose of these declarations is to give assurance that conflicts should not occur during the present situation which will affect the continuity of work, and thus to maintain stability of employment."

TOLL OF DEATH IN TIDAL WAVE REACHES 40

Relief Ship Due at Scene of Devastation Today; Loss Of Food, Fuel Is Serious

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—The toll of death and damage from a tidal wave which swept the coast of the Burin Peninsula after Monday's earthquake mounted today as scattering reports filtered in here from the devastated sections.

A heavy snowstorm was reported along the coast, threatening to interfere with rescue work and cause further suffering.

Reports conflicted, but a checkup indicated that at least 40 deaths had resulted. Owing to interrupted telegraphic service, few details were received at government offices here, where relief work was being organized.

The government steamer Neigle, carrying doctors and nurses and medical supplies and provisions, was sent out from here and is expected to reach the scene of devastation this afternoon.

HAVOC GREAT

Reports indicated that the full force of the tidal wave spent itself on the lower end of the peninsula where it was said the wall of water rushed inland for a considerable distance, tearing away roads and smashing bridges nearly a half mile from the shore.

Damage to property along the coast was heavy, homes and fishing schooners in the harbors and at the piers having been swept away, in some instances with the loss of provisions and fuel for winter.

Many firms, it was reported, had lost their season's catch of fish, valued at thousands of dollars.

The heaviest losses of life were reported from Point Aux Gauls and Burin. At the former place 10 deaths from drowning and injuries were reported and in Burin nine. Others reported were:

Taylor Bay, six; Lord's Cove, four; Allan's Island, Lamaline Harbor, two; Kelley's Cove, two; Port Aux Bras, seven.

The French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, near the Burin coast, also suffered severe damage, according to reports.

SHIP SAFE

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—The coastal steamer Fernfield, which sailed Monday from St. Pierre for Burin, N. F., for which fear had been felt, was reported safe at Burin today by the vessel's owners, Farquhar & Co.

All of the ship's cargo, including a supply of foodstuffs, was distributed among the fisherfolk whose provisions were swept away in the huge wall of water.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Arnold Rothstein, "A. R." to his pals, was slick—maybe too slick. Maybe that's why Broadway's "King of Gamblers" was "rubbed out."

The solemn-visaged jurors at the trial of George A. (Smiling George) McManus, charged with murdering Rothstein, are getting a mental picture of the mysterious and shadowy "A. R." that is interesting, if not educational.

Today, the story that is unfolding from the witness stand has to do with the last big poker game "A. R." played in—the so-called "Game of Death" that was staged in the apartment of James Meehan, a young "commission broker," on the night of September 18, 1928.

FEUD BLAMED

It is the contention of the state that this game precipitated a gamblers' feud which culminated in the fatal shooting of Rothstein in McManus's room—No. 349 of the Park Central Hotel—less than two months later, November 4, 1928.

What a nice little game it was! "Five grand" ($5,000), was bet on the turn of a card. "High spade" they called it. Statisticians on the cost of living estimate that a family of six can be well supported for one year on $5,000.

NO LIMIT ON GAME

Martin (Red) Bowe, who sat in on the game, was one of three witnesses who described the "no limit" game. The other two were Meehan himself and Sam (Boston) Solomon.

"Get me a deck of cards and I'll show you," said Red Bowe, business-like, when Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora asked him to explain to the jury how this 'high spade' game is played. Red, a pale, soft-voiced man of uncertain age and poker face, is a gambler, and he admits it. He can make cards talk when he is inarticulate himself.

Reluctantly and cagily Red told who won and who lost. Well, he "dropped" $5,700 in cash himself. McManus lost something like $51,000, which he paid in cash and by check. Titanic Thompson won $25,000. Nigger Nate Raymond was the biggest winner—that is, on paper. He won $200,000, mostly in "I. O. U.'s" from Rothstein.

LOST I. O. U.'S, WON CASH

Did Rothstein win or lose? Red hesitated. That was a poser. Well, Rothstein lost more than $200,000 in "markers" (I. O. U.'s), but whenever there was money in a "pot" he won he crammed the cash into his pockets. And so when the game ended A. R. had lost a lot of paper and won a lot of cash.

The state contends that this "got under the skin" of the gamblers, especially since A. R. was in no hurry to pay the I. O. U.'s.

16 BELOW REPORTED

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Winter has pitched his snow-frosted tent on the plains of the Northwest and has sent his soldiers, armed with icicle bayonets, to the Northern fringe of Dixie.

Thief River Falls, Minn., stole whatever distinction there was yesterday in being pre-seasonally cold, having a temperature reading of 16 below zero. The red line, however, dropped below the cipher in many other thermometers in Minnesota, the Dakotas and Wisconsin.

The Southwest and the Rocky Mountain regions did not escape the cold. Temperatures went below zero in Montana, and there was sleet and raw weather in the Texas panhandle, and unseasonal cold in Arkansas.

PLOT TO GET INSURANCE CHARGED

Pair Facing Coroner's Jury In New 'Snyder-Gray' Case Tell Conflicting Stories

By FRANCIS F. HEALY
International News Service.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—A triangle that now has only one angle—that of murder—faced a coroner's jury here today after a Snyder-Gray love killing unfolded itself to police with the death of a husband, killed, it is claimed, by a wife and her alleged clandestine lover, because of his insurance and because of the age-old story that he was "in the way."

Mrs. Genevieve O'Brien, 22, expectant mother, and Samuel Howard Dorr, dapper insurance agent, in cells today babbled conflicting stories, the wife's marked by grief and remorse and the insurance agent's by cockiness, both unaware that the alleged victim of their machinations, William O'Brien, had died of three bullet wounds. Both are to tell the final story to a coroner's jury today.

SORDID STORY UNFOLDED

Into this—one of the oldest stories of mankind—is woven all the sordidness of a woman who loved wrongfully and a man, married, father of two children, who crept from the very threshold of his home, to make love to the wife of a man who worked not only all day, but nights as well, to provide luxuries for a wife who, police say, was unfaithful to him.

Dorr, in his various confessions, admitted firing the four shots at O'Brien while the latter was in his apartment preparing to go to work, yet, in view of Mrs. O'Brien's statements, and Dorr's earlier declarations that Mrs. O'Brien fired several of the shots, detectives said they were not yet convinced they had the true story.

'SNEAKED' INTO HOME

The night before O'Brien was fatally shot, Dorr, according to his own confession, "sneaked" into the O'Brien home while "Bill," the victim of the tragedy, was "catching up" on long-needed sleep.

When Bill came in to kiss his wife good-bye he went to a closet and there, the confessions reveal, Dorr was in hiding.

There were shots. Dorr said he fired at O'Brien and even when the wounded man staggered to the stairway, Dorr dropped him with a final bullet, he confessed. Dorr said yesterday Mrs. O'Brien fired the first shot and that later he aided her.

The night before Dorr had approached "Geno," as he called her, and said, according to his statement to the police: "Geno, Bill is too cruel to you. I can't stand this sneaking any longer. We've got to find some way of getting rid of Bill, collecting his insurance, making away with my wife, Rose, and living together in happiness. You can mother the kids. (He has two). The first chance I get I'll bump him off."

UNAWARE OF DEATH

Geno admits she said nothing to discourage this horrible declaration.

Last night Bill died. Geno insisted Bill had been cruel to her, yet he worked more than 15 hours a day to provide her with a home and luxuries which she is alleged to have desecrated by her affair with the landlord of her building.

Mrs. Dorr, patient woman, who knew nothing of her husband's alleged infatuation for the attractive young wife, clung to her husband in his cell today, expressing disbelief that her husband could have killed a man.

Dorr radiated a rather "smart Aleck" attitude—he does not know O'Brien is dead.

Geno was only a pitiful little woman who realizes—too late—that love is something that can stand no trifling beyond the bonds of marriage.

Several firemen had narrow escapes when the roof crashed in. They had difficulty in reaching the flames, which burned between the walls of the building. It was necessary to tear down a portion of one wall to get to the fire.

Timpson asks $7,600, alleging he was discharged in violation of a two-year contract.

BLIND POLITICIAN, GIRL SEEK CURES AT PRIEST'S GRAVE

PITTSBURGH PILGRIMS LEAVE

Detective Takes Daughter, Wife Goes With East End Leader to Malden Shrine

Two Pittsburghers, a political lieutenant and a little girl, were among those seeking cures today at the grave of Father Patrick Power, dead 60 years, in Malden, Mass.

They were Michael DeRosa, of 532 Paulson avenue, Republican leader of the Twelfth Ward, and Lois, 6, daughter of James Teets, 3639 Liberty avenue, a precinct detective at the East End Police Station.

BLIND NINE YEARS

DeRosa has been blind for nine years. Lois was born with a crippled left foot, her parents said.

Members of their families had seen photographs in the newspapers of the throng visiting the grave of the priest in the Holy Cross Cemetery of the Massachusetts town, and determined on the pilgrimage.

DeRosa, accompanied by his wife, and Lois, in care of her father, left yesterday for the shrine, over the Pennsylvania Railroad.

PILGRIMS BRAVE SNOW

MALDEN, Mass., Nov. 22.—The scene at Holy Cross burying ground became fittingly unearthly. The snow fell thick through the damp air in large flakes.

But, in the semi-darkness, some 1,500 pilgrims, muffled in

The falling snow did not check the fervency of those who came nor the word of miracles that had occurred by night. Two miracles had been worked, it was whispered. The visual evidence was a pair of crutches and a child's iron leg brace. These had been picked up from the chapel steps by the sacristan, and placed near the altar. To whom they had belonged, nobody knew.

ARRESTED AS FAKER

Police yesterday arrested Samuel Cohen, 23, of Chicago, as the first obvious fake "cure," at the grave. Cohen ran out of the cemetery chapel shrieking that he had been cured of a foot ailment, and flung his crutches in the snow.

He held out his hat to the impressed onlookers and received charity donations of nearly $100. He said he had hitch-hiked all the way to the shrine from Chicago. Later he said he was from Philadelphia.

Police became suspicious and, taking Cohen aside, unwrapped his voluminously bandaged foot. It proved quite normal, they said.

BERKEY TRIAL IN FEBRUARY

Judge John A. Berkey, president judge of the Somerset County Common Pleas Court, and 15 other defendants indicted with him charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, will not be tried until next February.

United States Attorney Louis E. Graham so announced today. The chances are that the cases will be heard during a special session in February.

Attorney Joseph M. Marcus, of Pittsburgh, representing Judge Berkey, called on the United States attorney today for information regarding the date of the trial.

Mr. Graham said the Somerset cases would be handled the same as any others. There are about 350 criminal cases on the calendar to be disposed of.

Attorney E. L. Falter, special assistant to the U. S. Attorney General, who conducted the grand jury investigation here, has been assigned to conduct a similar investigation in Duluth, Minn. For this reason also Mr. Graham believes the Somerset case cannot be heard until the second month of 1930.

Eight of the defendants have posted bond.

10 TO 20 YEARS GIVEN PATCH

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—William Moore Patch, formerly of Pittsburgh, promoter and former publisher of a theatrical magazine known as "Patches," was sentenced today to 10 to 20 years in the Eastern penitentiary.

Patch pleaded guilty two months ago to nine counts of forgery and fraud. He was accused of defrauding Thomas McKean, his former partner, of between $300,000 and $1,000,000.

The defendant, who was brought into court on a stretcher, was permitted by the court to sign his own bail of $25,000 so that he may remain in a hospital until a committee of physicians, chosen by the district attorney, certifies that he is able to begin his sentence. He is suffering from a stomach ailment.

Patch, 45, a native of Lebanon, Pa., operated the Pitt Theater for several years after taking it over in 1913 from the Kenyon interests. He operated a stock company and later showed feature motion pictures there. He disposed of his interests to the Shuberts and until two years ago conducted a general insurance agency in the Arrott Building.

When in Pittsburgh he lived at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

Doctor Flies to Aid In Island Epidemic

SAN JUAN, P. R., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—An epidemic of some undetermined disease on the Island of Antigua has caused Dr. J. J. Pawan, chief bacteriologist of Trinidad, to make a hurried trip by airplane to Saint Kitts. This word was brought here by Pilot Brooke who said he landed the plane at Saint Kitts, more than 100 miles from Antigua, to avoid quarantine of the machine. He said the doctor would continue to the stricken island by ship.

Trinidad officials are noncommittal, but it is currently reported that there have been many deaths in Antigua.

INDICT WOMAN IN DOPE FRAUD

Mildred Schlott, alias Mrs. Anna Landis, alias Mrs. Mildred Hostetter, believed to be from Lancaster, Pa., was indicted by the federal grand jury on a charge of violating the Harrison narcotic act. The bill of complaint accuses her of forging the name of Dr. E. P. Roop, of New Market, Md., to fraudulent prescriptions for morphine.

She was arrested October 5, after she was alleged to have attempted to have one of the prescriptions filled at a Squirrel Hill pharmacy. After being taken to the Squirrel Hill police station she tried to escape from Desk Sergeant Joseph L. Pierson, and when the latter gave chase he fell and dislocated his right shoulder.

16 Hunters Killed In Present Season

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Hunting accidents in Pennsylvania this year have claimed the lives of at least 16 gunners. The State Game Commission announced that up to and including November 15, there were 16 fatal accidents and 95 hunters injured. About 25 per cent of the total were self-inflicted, mostly caused in climbing fences and stumbling over rocks.

For the same period last year 16 hunters were also killed. The non-fatal accidents totaled 116.

Mince Pie Jails Driver, Then Wins Him Freedom

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—There is no law against it, but Harry R. Grunke was arrested for eating mince pie.

Really, the charge was drunkeness and reckless driving; but the court decided it was mince pie.

"I had eaten two fine, big slabs of mince pie, your honor," explained Grunke. "The pie was highly flavored with wine. I like it that way. I never drink."

The arresting officer said that although Grunke's breath bespoke alcohol, Grunke appeared perfectly sober.

$20,000 AUTO RECOVERED

Twenty thousand dollars' worth of automobile which was stolen in Wallingford street at 2 a. m. today was recovered this afternoon in Rural street, East End, its gas tank empty.

The automobile was a Rolls Royce, the highest-priced car ever stolen in Pittsburgh, according to police. J. L. Hebberd, manager of the local Rolls Royce branch, had loaned the car, a demonstrator, to a customer.

The thief apparently abandoned the auto for want of gasoline, which costs 25 cents a gallon.

SNOOK APPEAL DENIED

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Dr. James Howard Snook, convicted murderer of Theora K. Hix, Ohio State University co-ed, today was denied a new trial by the Second Ohio District Court of Appeals. Snook, sentenced to be electrocuted the night of November 29, was expected to carry his case to the state Supreme Court.

Snook had filed an error proceeding, claiming he was not given a fair trial, and was not given sufficient time in which to prepare his case. The appeals court affirmed the lower court's finding and sentence of death.

Counsel for Dr. Snook said they would move for a stay of execution and would then appeal to the State Supreme Court.

The Appeals Court, in its opinion, said "upon a fair consideration of the whole case, consisting of 3,125 pages, practically all of which every member of this court has read, we are unanimously of the opniion that no error prejudicial to the defendant has intervened in this record. Should it be desired to file a motion for a rehearing, it may be done and it will be overruled and exceptions noted."

Hunter Mistakes Own Horse For Deer, Kills It

OGDEN, Utah, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Mistaking his tethered horse for a buck deer while hunting in the Powell National forest, Wallace M. Riddle, supervisor of the reserve, killed the treasured animal. He blamed the act on the fact he lost his course while tracking the deer. When the tawny hide of the buckskin steed appeared through a clump of trees, the hunter fired.

GLENFIELD FIRE LOSS $11,000

Fire early today destroyed a two-story brick building at 110 Beaver street, Glenfield, with an estimated loss of $10,000. An adjoining building was damaged $1,000, according to firemen.

The fire is believed to have started in the poolroom of Thomas Steck on the first floor, quickly engulfed the structure, and spread to an adjoining building housing the Neads confectionery store.

Firemen were handicapped in their fight by the cold.

The destroyed building is owned by J. T. Giovengo.

ceau is even now discussing his own funeral arrangements. While I was in there he drew my head down close to him and whispered to me: 'I abhor a national funeral. I won't have it. I depend upon you to arrange for the immediate transportation of my body on the first train to St. Vincent, where I am to be buried with the utmost simplicity."

FIGHTING SPIRIT GONE

Dr. Degennes, one of his attending physicians, said:

"The old fighting spirit of M. Clemenceau is gone. Nothing remains but a sighing, weak old man who has but one desire—sleep.

"He is not the same man. He sleeps practically all the time and he does not sleep soundly, but with troubled, moaning sighs.

"The iron will which enabled him to work miracles in the past has been seriously shaken. His jovial irony is gone. For me that is the worst sign.

"I cannot be optimistic."

The grave demeanor of the physicians told the story more eloquently than words. It seemed impossible that the aged statesman, who often declared recently that he would not live beyond the end of the year, could hold out much longer against the ravages of pain and illness.

FAMILY AT BEDSIDE

His entire family assembled at his bedside this morning. There were his two daughters, his son Michael and his grandson, George. They took over the vigil kept all through the night by Clemenceau's faithful valet Albert and Sister of Charity Theoneste.

Clemenceau had slept from midnight until 2 a. m., under the influence of the morphine when he awoke with the pain gone. He remained awake until 4, when again he dozed off until the arrival of the doctors.

Emile Pons, the French composer who wrote the music for Clemenceau's play "The Veil of Happiness," was the man who told International News Service there seemed no hope for the statesman.

"The entire family is at the bedside," said Pons. "His condition is extremely low, and if he lives throughout the day it will be a miracle."

5 DEAD, 40 HURT IN STORE BLAST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—The cause of an explosion in downtown Washington which brought death to five persons and injuries to many more was the subject today of seven different investigations.

The disaster, which occurred late yesterday in a Seventh street Five and Ten Cent store crowded with shoppers, shattered the front of the store, lifted the heavy masonry of the sidewalk outside high in the air and littered the thoroughfare with debris.

The injured numbered more than forty, with five in such a serious condition that death is expected. The victims of the explosion were mostly passersby, as the force of the blast was upward and outward and many in the store escaped through a rear exit.

All the city's first aid equipment was called into service. The injured were rushed to hospitals in ambulances and private automobiles. Walter Reed Hospital, in addition to sending its ambulances, also dispatched a detail of soldiers.

Working frantically for two hours, in the fear that the debris might cover other victims, firemen cleared away the wreckage with motor derricks and came upon what is supposed to have been the cause of the explosion, a shattered hot water boiler.

TARIFF SHELVED BY SENATE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Unable to make any progress with the tariff bill, the Senate recessed at 12:32 p. m. today until 9:45 o'clock tonight, 15 minutes before the special session adjourns sine die.

The tariff-weary Senators had failed to get anywhere on either the wool or silk schedule.

After adjournment tonight they will shelve the tariff entirely until the second or third week of the regular December session.

Senator Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, a member of the committee, proposed today's recess after saying "everybody seems to be loafing on the job."

The House adjourned sine die at 12:50 o'clock.

'Lie Detector' Wrings Out Slaying Confession

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—The Times today quoted County Prosecutor Ewing D. Colvin as having announced that Decasto Earl Mayer had confessed the slaying in 1928 of James E. Bassett, of Annapolis, Md.

The purported confession followed the use by the prosecutor of "lie-detecting devices," against which Mayer yesterday gained a temporary restraining order. Immediately after the alleged confession, sheriff's deputies began digging up a cemetery plot in an effort to find Bassett's body.

Mayer and his mother, Mrs. Mary Smith, were arrested in Oakland, Cal., in September, 1928, when found in possession of Bassett's automobile.

Seattle authorities extradited Mayer and his mother from California and charged them with theft of the automobile.

Bassett's wrist watch also was found in Mayer's possession. Mayer said he bought the car and the watch from Bassett.

Mayer's long prison record and conviction on the theft charge subjected him to a life term as an habitual criminal. Since his conviction Mayer has been in the county jail here awaiting the outcome of an appeal.

Colvin admitted having used a "truth serum" and "truth machine" on Mayer. The prosecutor asserted that if he were permitted to interrogate Mayer for another three hours with the aid of these instruments he would "soon have Bassett's body."

The "truth machine" is said to register the heart beats of a person under questioning.

MOONEY'S HOPE FOR FREEDOM WITH BOARD

California Governor Places 1916 Bombing Case Plea Before State Parole Body

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 22. — (AP.) — The fate of Thomas J. Mooney, who for years has protested from a prison cell that he is innocent of the 1916 Preparedness Day bombing in San Francisco which killed 10 persons and injured many others, rested almost entirely today in the hands of the state parole board.

Gov. C. C. Young, indicated he would let the decision of the parole board be the final word in the case when he requested yesterday that it investigate and recommend action on Mooney's pardon appeal.

Governor Young said he had been blocked in a personal investigation by the unwillingness of witnesses to give information and also said he had been unable to form an opinion after months of study.

While the State Supreme Court considers the case of Warren K. Billings, convicted with Mooney for the bomb blast, the pardon board, consisting of Attorney-General U. J. Webb, Lieutenant Governor H. L. Carnahan, James Johnson, director of the department of penology, and Wardens Court Smith of Folsom Prison and James Holohan of San Quentin Prison, will be studying the Mooney case.

Billings has asked the Supreme Court for permission to appeal to the governor for a pardon.

RECALL HINTED TO GRAND JURY

The federal grand jury, which has been sitting since November 12 for the November term of the United States District Court, when dismissed, late yesterday afternoon, was told by Judge R. M. Gibson that it would be subject to recall during the present term of court. During the session it returned 140 indictments.

The dismissal occurred after United States Attorney Louis E. Graham was advised of a temporary suspension of the film exchange probe by Attorney A. Stanley Thompson, of Washington, special assistant to the attorney general, assigned here to present the case before the grand jury.

The visiting attorney did not indicate when it would be resumed. More than 50 witnesses appeared before the grand jury, and 100 others were under subpenas. The announcement was made after a one-day visit made by Attorney Thompson to Washington.

Before the jury adjourned, it passed a resolution commending Attorney Graham and his corps of assistants in the efficient manner they presented cases for investigation, and the courteous treatment accorded the inquisitors.

ALFRED DE SAUTY EXAMINING MRS. HUNT'S HANDIWORK

Pittsburgh Woman Praised By Famous Bookbinder

By PENELOPE REDD.

Alfred de Sauty, a world authority on fine book binding, will discuss his subject tonight at 8:15 in a lecture open to the public at the Carnegie Institute of Technology. He has designed the rare book bindings for the Lakeside Press at Chicago since his arrival in America six years ago.

De Sauty has inherited the English ideal of fine craftsmanship established by his countrymen, William Morris and Cobden-Sanderson, during the Nineteenth century. In his youth, while a seaman, he encountered by chance a volume describing the fine book binding of William Morris. Thereupon, he determined to master the craft. He experienced great difficulty in acquiring even a rudimentary knowledge, since the commercial binders not only guarded their secrets carefully, but were ignorant and resentful of the ideas which Cobden-Sanderson promoted. Eventually, de Sauty secured his training; and he, in turn, became the most eminent of English craftsmen.

Penelope Redd.

From his many students, chiefly from famous English families, including several ladies-in-waiting to Queen Mary, only one woman possessed native aptitude for the patience-demanding art of book binding.

"This was not unusual," said Mr. de Sauty, "inasmuch as I have found not more than five women with a genuine talent in this medium. To my amazement, I have discovered one here in Pittsburgh in the person of Mrs. Roy A. Hunt. Mrs. Hunt has a finely balanced sense of craftsmanship. Her ability to design covers in harmony with the content of the books marks her as a creative artist. Her capacity for original invention and variation of traditional design, together with the quality of her workmanship, admits her into the small company of those who have elevated bookbinding to a fine art. Mrs. Hunt has also exercised intelligent perception in her selection of books worthy of splendid bindings."

Alfred de Sauty, who makes his first visit to Pittsburgh as the guest of John F. Casey, a distinguished collector, has lectured at the important universities and knows all of the great collections.

When asked about American interest in finely bound books, Mr. de Sauty said:

"For years before I left England, the major portion of my work was sought by American collectors. America, today, provides the most discriminating group of collectors. Many Americans now have special boxes designed rather than rebind precious books.

"I have been endeavoring to evolve designs that shall be modern and American for the modern, American book. Much of my work, since coming to America, has been devoted to preparing volumes to commemorate particular achievements. I feel that this type of work, expressing American life with sumptuous dignity, shall one day be identified as the twentieth century's contribution to rare book binding."

Weather Conditions.

The western high pressure area is now centered over the Middle Mississippi valley, and covers practically all of the middle and eastern portions of the country. It has diminished somewhat in intensity, the highest barometer reported being 30.68 inches, at Keokuk, Ia. It is snowing or raining on the southern side of the high, this condition extending from the Ohio River southward to the gulf. In the northern half of the high the skies are mostly clear. There was a further drop in temperature over the Ohio Valley states, and the central and southern plains, but over the Northwest the temperatures are rising. A low pressure area of considerable intensity developed over the Northwest, and is causing cloudy weather and rising temperatures following the high.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling. Stage at Franklin is 5.1; Lock No. 7, 14.2; Pittsburgh, 15.9; Dam No. 2, 12.4; Dam No. 6, 15.9; Dam No. 9, 16.7, and Dam No. 12, 17.1. The rivers will continue to fall.

Cold Snap Halts Child's Nightie Parade

Although Josephine Benjay, 8, of Rankin, is an escape artist of no mean repute, she's willing to listen to reason. That's why she changed her mind about running away from the juvenile detention home, 3334 Fifth avenue, last night. She had escaped three times during the past week.

Shortly after 5 p. m. Josephine decided it was time to sally forth again, but an attendant at the home persuaded her to remain. The cold weather was a good argument.

Wednesday night Josephine escaped and was found in the Schenley Theater. The night before, she was located promenading in the lobby of the Hotel Schenley. A week ago she was found in the rear seat of an automobile in front of the downtown postoffice.

Each time she made her escape attired only in her nightgown and slippers.

WOMEN VOTERS CLOSE FIRST CONFERENCE

Meiklejohn Tells Meeting College Education Lacks Connection to Real Life

"College education will be unsuccessful and mechanical until it acquires a close connection with real life," according to Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, president of the Junior Experimental College at the University of Wisconsin, in an address on "Adventures in Education," which brought to a close last night the first conference of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters to be held in Pittsburgh.

"All college education now lacks one thing," he said. "That one thing is vitality. The American college should say of education what John Dewey, the greatest American living, says of ideas: 'I will have nothing to do with your idea unless it is vitally conected with somebody's living.'"

AIM TO INSPIRE YOUTH

Dr. Meiklejohn wove his address to the league around the importance of the student having a true sense of values. He gave three reasons for education, the human need of working, the actual joy of studying and improving the mind, and the gaining of wisdom for the impovement of man's condition of life.

The problem of modern education is to bring youth to realize the need of doing away with human misery and squalor.

"How," Dr. Meiklejohn concluded, "can we best inspire youth with a fervor for human improvement? How can we show pupils and teacher the need for good living? That is the question which the colleges of today must face, which we at Wisconsin are trying to face, and which the League of Women Voters is today helping us all to face."

BIRTH CONTROL TALK

Dr. Meiklejohn's talk to the League closed the conference. The day's session was marked principally by the talk of Dr. James F. Cooper, director of the Clinical Research Bureau of the American Birth Control League.

"We advocates of birth control are working, not against child birth, but for voluntary motherhood," said Dr. Cooper. "Motherhood should be taken up deliberately and intelligently, not by chance or accident. I am pleading for an intelligent attitude toward motherhood."

According to Dr. Cooper, one-third of the national revenue from all sources is consumed in the United States in caring for the incompetent and the disabled. In Philadelphia, he stated, a budget of about $70,000,000 provides $40,000,000 for the care of dependents. Of the remainder, only $20,000,000 goes for education and general uplift of the children.

"The reproduction of the incompetent and unfit is proceeding twice as fast as the reproduction of the intelligent, physically and mentally sound population," he said. "It is because methods of birth control are not available to the former that the birth rate is so high. They have had no opportunity to use deliberation and careful planning in bringing families into the world."

SKETCHES CHILD'S CASE

Dr. Cooper concluded his remarks with the recitation of a fantasy in which a child interviews his prospective parents before consenting to be born. The child's side of the case, in debating whether he wanted these particular parents, was heavily stressed by the speaker. He repeated the need for deliberation by the parents on their ability to give the prospective child the advantages of a normal training, physical mental and normal. Such deliberation, he said, if widely practiced, would eliminate the modern state's ever-increasing problem of caring for the mentally and physically dependent.

A resolution thanked the newspapers of Pennsylvania for their co-operation in giving publicity to the convention.

TELLS OF CIVIC DRIVES

At the midday luncheon, Mrs. J. O. Miller, of Pittsburgh, recounted some of her experiences in advocating civic improvements. She especially stressed the results obtained from consulting experts in municipal, county and state government before pushing reforms. The first official auditor of Allegheny County was obtained through the league's efforts, Mrs. Miller said. She has consistently pushed legislation and ordinances for clean, well-paved streets, honest officials and clean elections.

The program of work and the budget for the coming year were adopted by the conference during the afternoon session. Expected dispute on the allegedly unfair proportion of funds asked from Allegheny County for league work failed to materialize.

S. HILLS CLUBS MAKE MERRY

South Hills business men last night laid aside business worries and attended the first annual inter-club banquet of Service Clubs, in the Dormont Lutheran Church, West Liberty avenue and Park boulevard. Clubs represented were Lions Club of Mt. Lebanon, Dormont Rotary Club and the Kiwanis Club of South Hills.

The speakers were: E. B. Goldsmith, president of the Lions Club; James A. Zewe, president of the Rotary Club, and Ben F. Williams, president of the Kiwanis Club.

The feature of the evening was the surprise stunts presented by the respective clubs. The Lions Club "Television" stunt brought forth the "Old Fashioned Hick Band," with their entertainers. The Rotary Club's gift presentation stunt to Fred Aiken, a member of the Kiwanis Club, and the alleged sponsor of the inter-club banquet, was a big success. The Lions Club real estate stunt of the rival firms of "I. Skinum" and "U. Soakum" was a continuous laugh. The radio broadcasting of a boxing bout by the latter club ended the entertainment.

The Rev. C. F. ("Cap") Lauer, pastor of the Dormont Bethany Lutheran Church of Dormont, and a Rotarian, gave the invocation. Bert Mustin, member of the Pittsburgh Lions Club, was master of ceremonies.

The purpose of the gathering was to stress "good fellowship" among the service clubs and to better acquaint the members of the South Hills major clubs.

SELLING COURSE FOR BLIND

An evening class of salesmanship has been organized at the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind by the Alumni Association of the school.

Twenty blind men and women, composing the class, meet every Tuesday and Thursday under the direction of Theodore Woodward, head of the Commercial Department of the institution.

Speakers on sales methods address the group. The first half of the course is being devoted to general salesmanship; the last half will consist of lectures on specific phases which the blind salesmen will be able to adopt.

INDICTED OVER CITIZENSHIP

George Sanky, of McKeesport, was charged in an indictment returned by the Federal Grand Jury of procuring naturalization illegally and with making false oaths. He was alleged to have declared when he appeared before L. W. Throckmorton, an officer of the Bureau of Naturalization at Pittsburgh, March 1, that he was of good moral character and never was arrested or charged with violation of the law.

According to the indictment, Sanky was fined $200 in the police court at McKeesport, on February 21, 1925, for violating the liquor law and also fined $300 on like charge December 4, 1928. It was further charged in the indictment that he was arrested December 20, 1924, for sending obscene matter through the mail, and was fined $25 in Federal Court.

EIELSON SEARCH IN ARCTIC FAILS

NOME, Alaska, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Four parties were scouting the terrain in the vicinity of North Cape, Siberia, today in search of Carl Ben Eielson, noted Arctic pilot, who has been missing since November 9, while Pilot Frank Dorbandt was waiting here ready to conduct a search from the air when the weather moderates sufficiently to make a flight feasible.

Eielson, in co-operation with Dorbandt, was engaged in transporting passengers and furs to Nome from the Swenson Fur Trading Company's ship Nanuk, icebound near North Cape.

They also were to take off passengers on the Soviet ship Stavropol, locked in the ice near the Nanuk.

Eielson's plane was sighted by a party of natives within 60 miles of the Nanuk, while the motor of the craft was heard 10 miles closer to the ship by a Rusisan trader. He said there was a mountain about 10 miles from the coast at that point, on which Eielson might have crashed.

Olaf Swenson, head of the company which owns the Nanuk, messaged from the ship that a dog team from the Nanuk should have reached the locality yesterday where Eielson was last seen.

Two Taking Whisky To Party Get Fines

William Pittler and Jack Miller, arrested in the Hill district by government prohibition agents while transporting 12 pints of whisky, were fined $100 and $50, respectively, when they pleaded guilty to violating the prohibition law.

Counsel for the defendants told the court the two men were on their way to a party.

WATSON LIBEL SUIT FAILS

HAMMOND, Ind., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—A libel suit against U. S. Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, and several other persons, seeking $100,000 damages in behalf of Ralph B. Bradford, former county official and Ku Klux Klan dragon, was dismissed in federal court a few hours after it had been filed.

The suit was dismissed by Federal Judge Thomas Slick on petition of counsel representing the defendants, who argued that the court had no jurisdiction inasmuch as no violation of a federal law was alleged, and because Otto Gresham, attorney for Bradford, who filed the suit, was not qualified to appear in this federal court.

CAR HITS TRAIN, 5 WOMEN DIE

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 22.—(AP).—Five Texas club women, prominent members of Fort Worth and Leonard families, lost their lives in a grade crossing accident near here.

Robert Guess, Negro chauffeur, only survivor of an automobile that crashed into the side of a fast traveling motor train, was taken to a hospital in a serious condition, but was expected to recover.

The victims were: Mrs. Charles Clark, 42; Mrs. A. P. Grider, 41; Mrs. G. R. Grider, 65; Mrs. H. S. Pendergrass, 65; and Mrs. E. G. King, 39. Mrs. King lived in Fort Worth; the others were residents of Leonard.

The first snow storm of the season was blamed for the accident.

SMALL GERMAN BANKS DEFAULT

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—(AP.) — A large number of small German banks suspended payments recently and fraudulent manipulations are alleged to have been the cause in many cases.

The small private bank of Otto Duerkle Company, in Freiburg, Baden, closed its doors with liabilities of several million marks. The two partners were arrested for alleged embezzlement of deposits.

Most of the clients were Roman Catholic priests, many of whom lost all their savings. The Roman Catholic Charitable Organization "Charitas" lost 300,000 marks and the St. Rudbert Convent 500,000.

In Luebeck, the bank for trade and industry suspended payments, and its entire capital of 1,000,000 marks is believed to have been lost. The manager was accused of fraudulently manipulating accounts after he had lost large sums speculating on the Bourse.

Small banks at Magdeburg, Warburg, Karlsruhe, and Scheid-Emuehl failed. The private bank of Rudolf and Bauer, at Frankfort-on-Main, was declared insolvent, and Herr Bauer was found dead from poisoning in a Frankfurt hotel.

Indict Bank Teller, Stock Losses Blamed

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 22.—Frank Harbruck, 38, former Wheeling councilman and a teller in the National Exchange Bank at Wheeling, was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury at Elkins, charged with embezzlement of funds. He is confined to the Ohio County Jail at Wheeling. He is said to have speculated in the stock market.

Theft of Chickens Causes Protest

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., Nov. 22.—Poultry raisers in Pulaski, Daugherty and Rochester townships are complaining of chicken stealing in the townships. They have appealed to State Police.

"VERY THANKFUL FOR RESULTS FROM KONJOLA"

"Gained 20 Pounds Within Short Time After I Began With This New Medicine," Says Pittsburgh Man.

Konjola is a different medicine in many ways. It is chiefly different in that it seems at the very peak of its powers when pitted against those obstinate cases of stomach, kidney, liver and bowel ailments, which have resisted every other medicine tried.

MR. OLLIE E. SMITH

It differs, too, in that it is a medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs —work together with the sufferer's food. The organs of digestion and elimination are cleansed and stimulated, and the system is purified by the release of poisons and fermentations. Konjola is not a "cure all," there is no such medicine, but Konjola does work along with nature in the building up and stimulation of the ailing organs. Read the experience of Mr. Ollie E. Smith, 1615 Brighton Road, Pittsburgh, it is but one of hundreds which come to the attention of the Konjola Man in your city, at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh. He is there to explain the merits of this new and different medicine, and to show you the records of hundreds of other sufferers who have found new health through Konjola. Here is Mr. Smith's tribute to Konjola:

"For more than three years I had suffered from severe pains in the back. Nothing I could do would relieve me of the most stubborn case of catarrh, and I had come to the point where I had no appetite at all. The slightest cold would hang on for months at a time. I would become feverish and my muscles would ache and become stiff. I often found it impossible to report for my duties as a taxi driver, and I finally gave up in despair.

"Three months ago I began taking Konjola and felt a change for the better after taking three bottles. I continued with this medicine and have now taken ten bottles in all. I gradually improved with each day until now I feel better than I have felt in years. I have gained twenty pounds during this time, eat what I want, sleep soundly every night and have not missed a day at my work in weeks. My long hours are no longer something to look forward to with dread. I am indeed thankful for the relief this wonderful medicine brought me, and urge any one suffering as I did, to use Konjola."

Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. It needs no such dangerous ingredients. It is every drop pure, and every drop works.

There is a Konjola Man in Pittsburgh, at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, where he is meeting the public and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. Konjola is also sold at all Dow Drug Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

GERMANY AIDS RUSS EMIGRES

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—The German government has decided to take up with Soviet Russia the question of repatriating the German emigres who are reported in dire distress at the border because of inability to pay for further transportation.

This decision was reached after the authorities had learned that the Soviet administration had refused to honor visas for the first thousand to cross into Germany. The cabinet had instructed the German embassy at Moscow to grant these visas.

Reports from Moscow said that several contingents of the emigres already had been started back toward Siberia despite the offer of this country to take care of them. This action causes especial surprise to German authorities as it was Russia which first pressed repatriation of the emigres on the Reich.

The combined relief agencies organized in Germany are to meet at the Ministry of the Interior today to prepare for reception of the emigres provided any of them arrive in Germany.

BROKER IN FAKE GETS 5 YEARS

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—John G. Hoshor, promoter of an investment trust whith federal investigators found to be using the mails in unloading stock at fictitiously "boosted" values, was found guilty by a jury in Federal Court and immediately was sentenced to five years in Atlanta Penitentiary.

Indicted with Hoshor on a charge of mail fraud, amounting to $40,000, the United Bankers' Corporation, Bank Stock Investors' Corporation and Market Movement, Inc., were fined $5,000 each by the court. Hoshor was admitted to bail for two weeks, under a $15,000 bond, pending an appeal.

DOCTOR'S DEATH HELD SUICIDE

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide in the case of Dr. Malcolm Smith, Grand Rapids physician, who was found dead in his office, a rifle bullet having pierced his skull from the rear.

Authorities at first believed it impossible for the physician to have taken his own life in the manner indicated and held his widow for questioning. But investigators found bullet holes in the wall opposite and a human skull with a bullet located similarly to the hole in the dead man's skull. They advanced the theory that Dr. Smith devised a method of taking his own life, which would make it appear that some one else shot him, and used the skull for practice shots.

The physician was addicted to the use of narcotics, investigators said.

When a Child is FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade-Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

CLEARWATER IN DOPE NET

YORK, Pa., Nov. 22.—(INS.)—William H. Clearwater, 61, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., former world's champion pocket billiard player, was arrested and lodged in jail here charged with illegal possession of narcotic drugs.

Clearwater, who gave his Wilkinsburg residence as 728 Ardmore boulevard, has been eking out a meager living here by giving exhibitions of the remnants of his old-time skill in local billiard parlors.

A woman who had met Clearwater recently said that when she complained that she felt nervous and run down, he gave her some white powders to "quiet her nerves."

Instead of taking the powders, the woman turned them over to friends who, in turn, notified police. An analysis of the powders revealed them to be composed of morphine, police say.

Clearwater was arrested at his hotel. In his room, police charge, they found three packages of the white powders.

Woman Involved, Old Custom of Commons Fails

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—The decorum of the House of Commons was upset by a member's use of a time-honored formula, which, however, did not fit modern conditions. Miss Margaret Bondfield, Minister of Labor, gave an answer which did not satisfy Sir Frederick Hall, Conservative member for Dulwich, Camberwell.

"May I press the right honorable lady," began Sir Frederick, when he was interrupted by uproarious shouts of "no."

Sir Frederick laughingly apologized and reframed his query.

DIVORCEE SLAIN DURING PARTY

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Gertrude Hawkins Lavine, 26, a divorcee, was shot and killed during a party in a Telegraph Hill apartment. Police announced that Laurence Tulloch, radio studio employe, who came here from New York three months ago, admitted he fired the fatal shot, but claimed the shooting was accidental.

Tulloch said he and Mrs. Lavine were in the apartment conversing after the other guests had departed. The conversation turned to firearms, Tulloch said, and he showed her a revolver. As she reached for the weapon it was discharged, the shot killing Mrs. Lavine. Tulloch had been with a broadcasting company here for three weeks. He was held by police.

SOS ASKS AID IN DOPE MUTINY

MALTA, Nov. 22.—(INS.)—Four British destroyers were steaming to the aid of an embattled wireless operator on the British steamer Baron Elcho in the Mediterranean Sea today.

Locked in his cabin, threatened with death by a mutinous crew, the operator communicated with the British wireless station here, informing naval officers of his plight.

The operator said the mutineers had drugged and imprisoned the officers of the vessel. The wireless operator, escaping the drugging at the mess table, fled to his wireless room and barred the doors and windows.

Part of the cargo, he said, is cocaine. The crew broke into the hold and are reported to have staged their mutiny while under influence of the drug.

SINCLAIR HOST AT FARM FETE

JOBSTOWN, N. J., Nov. 22.—Harry F. Sinclair, who was released from jail in Washington, was host to a number of close friends in his cottage at Rancocas Farms last night.

The oil magnate arrived here late in the evening, going to his cottage over back roads. His wife accompanied him from Washington.

The shades of the green and white cottage were drawn tight, and servants guarded the doors, but there was a light in nearly every room. A butler, the only person who would answer the bell, admitted that Sinclair was inside, but announced that he would not see any one.

It is at Rancocas that Sinclair has his famous racing stables. It was stated that he probably would devote much of his time to his track affairs, watching particularly the two fillies sired by the famous Zev, upon whom his stables pin hopes for the Kentucky derby.

Author's Wife Loses Auto Damage Suit

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Nov. 22.—(INS.)—A verdict for $20,765 damages was awarded Mr. and Mrs. William M. Grimes and the Williams Valley Motor Company, of Williamstown, Pa., in the Common Pleas Court here against Mrs. Dorothy H. Hergesheimer, wife of Joseph Hergesheimer, one of America's leading novelists. The award was the result of an auto accident here on August 17, 1928.

Former Coal Man Makes Oil Strike

CONNELLSVILLE, Nov. 22. — William E. (Bill) Rice, former coal operator of Connellsville, has struck it rich in the oil fields of Montana, according to word received here by friends.

He has made more than a million dollars in oil development it, Montana, where he located after the collapse of the coal boom.

Again?

A book full of dictation, and she must go home; what can she tell her employer? One more girl who hasn't heard of Midol. In misery at least one day of every month, and a tiny tablet now banishes such pain in five to seven minutes! Not a narcotic, mind; nothing that has the slightest effect on the natural process peculiar to women. Midol acts directly on the organs themselves, avoids the painful part—the part that is not natural. You may have tried other things for relief at such a time, but ask about Midol; purse-size metal case is fifty cents.*

*Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its ease is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

DECOY PACKAGE TRAPS SUSPECT

BEAVER, Pa., Nov. 22. — Trapped by a decoy package of $30 and stage money to represent $300 ransom demanded for the release of Mrs. Mary Komazec, 19, estranged wife of Mike Komazec, of Aliquippa, Vincent Pascarella, 29, of Aliquippa, is held in default of $1,000 to answer a charge of blackmail.

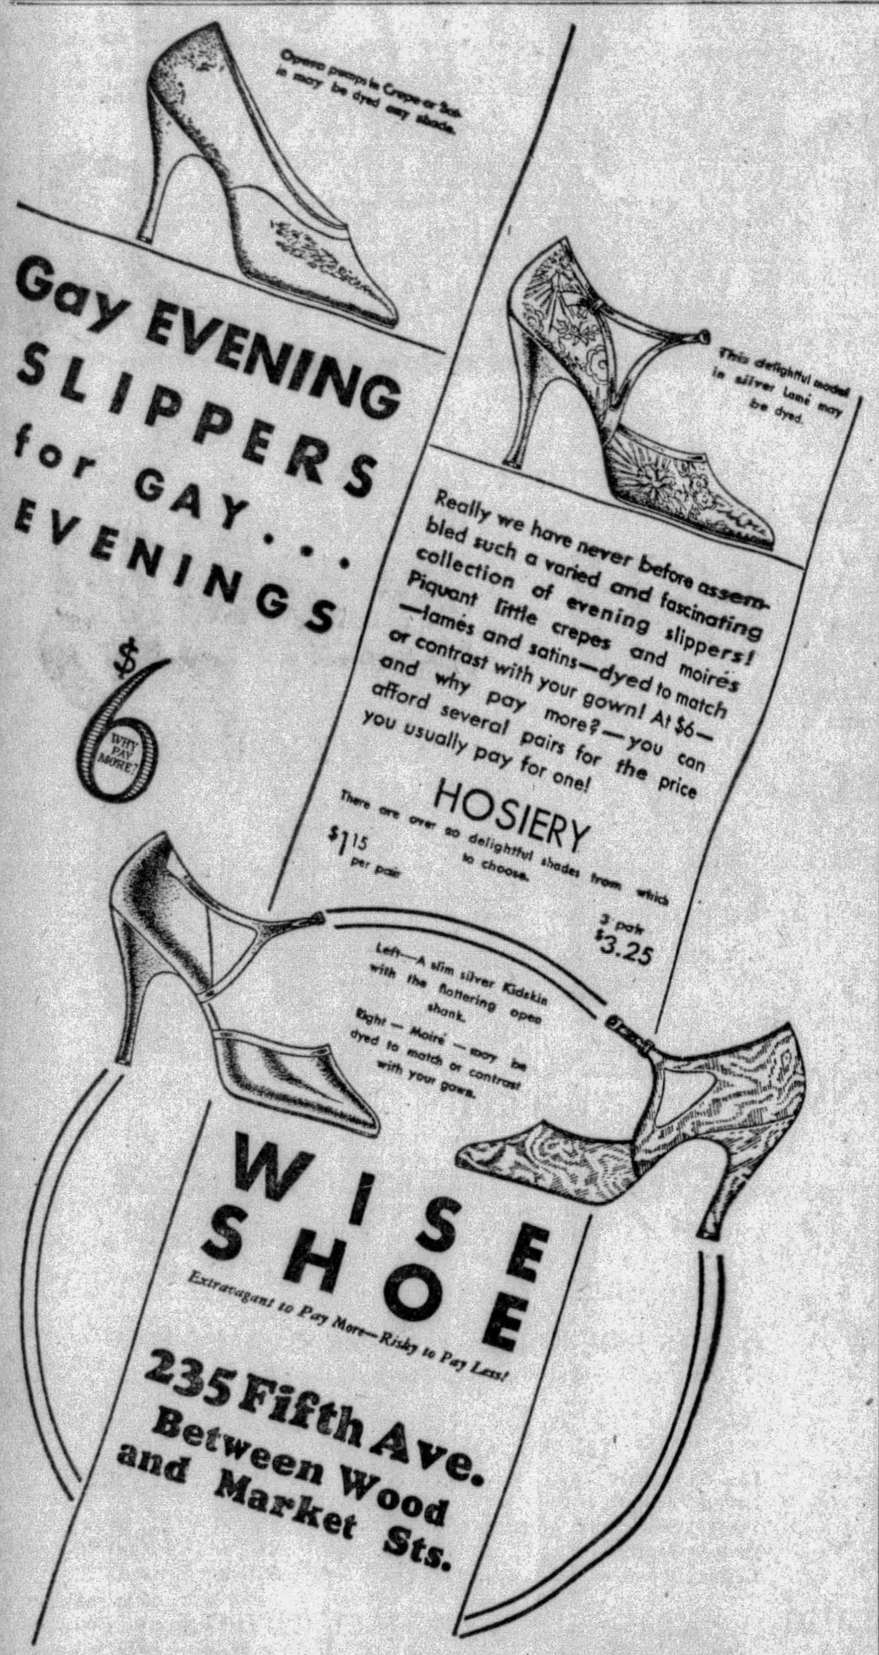
Pascarella was arrested in Ambridge by Sheriff William V. Kennedy and police where he had arranged to have the money delivered.

Mrs. Komazec told police she worked in a Pittsburgh store, and a few days ago Pascarella picked her up at the Point Bridge to take her home. He took her to his own home, she says, and kept her prisoner. He offered to release her if she could procure $300 from her husband under threat of being "taken for a ride." She told friends about Pascarella's threat, and his arrest followed.

Pascarella pleaded not guilty and says the woman took $1,400 from him when she left him in Braddock.

Driver Faces Trial For Manslaughter

BELLAIRE, O., Nov. 22. — Alfonse Rotan was held for the grand jury on a manslaughter charge by a coroner's jury, which charged that he ran down and killed Joseph Bentfield, Bellaire businessman, on November 10. Coroner J. W. Neal asked that his bond be fixed at $10,000.



STORES IN EVERY IMPORTANT CITY

95 PIANOS LOANED FREE

Ninety-five Pianos (Grands, Players and Uprights, both new and used instruments), will be placed in homes of Pittsburgh and vicinity and they may be used until we need them—which will be an indefinite time. We have discontinued eight of our large branch stores, and are placing these instruments in our "Frederick's Annex," located at 915 Liberty Avenue. Instead of storing and holding these pianos for the regular price, we are going to slaughter the prices and take our loss now. If you have ever thought of buying a piano, now is the time. We do not wish to place our instruments in storage and all Pianos not sold outright will be placed in the homes of families who are interested in owning a piano in the immediate future, and for the valuable advertising we will receive by having good families use them. We reserve the right to select the homes in which these pianos are to be placed.

Positively No Charge For Anything

No cartage, no rent or any expense whatever. You must call at the store to make your selection. There are no strings to this offer, which comes but once in a lifetime.

People who demand nothing less than the best turn to the new all-electric, screen grid

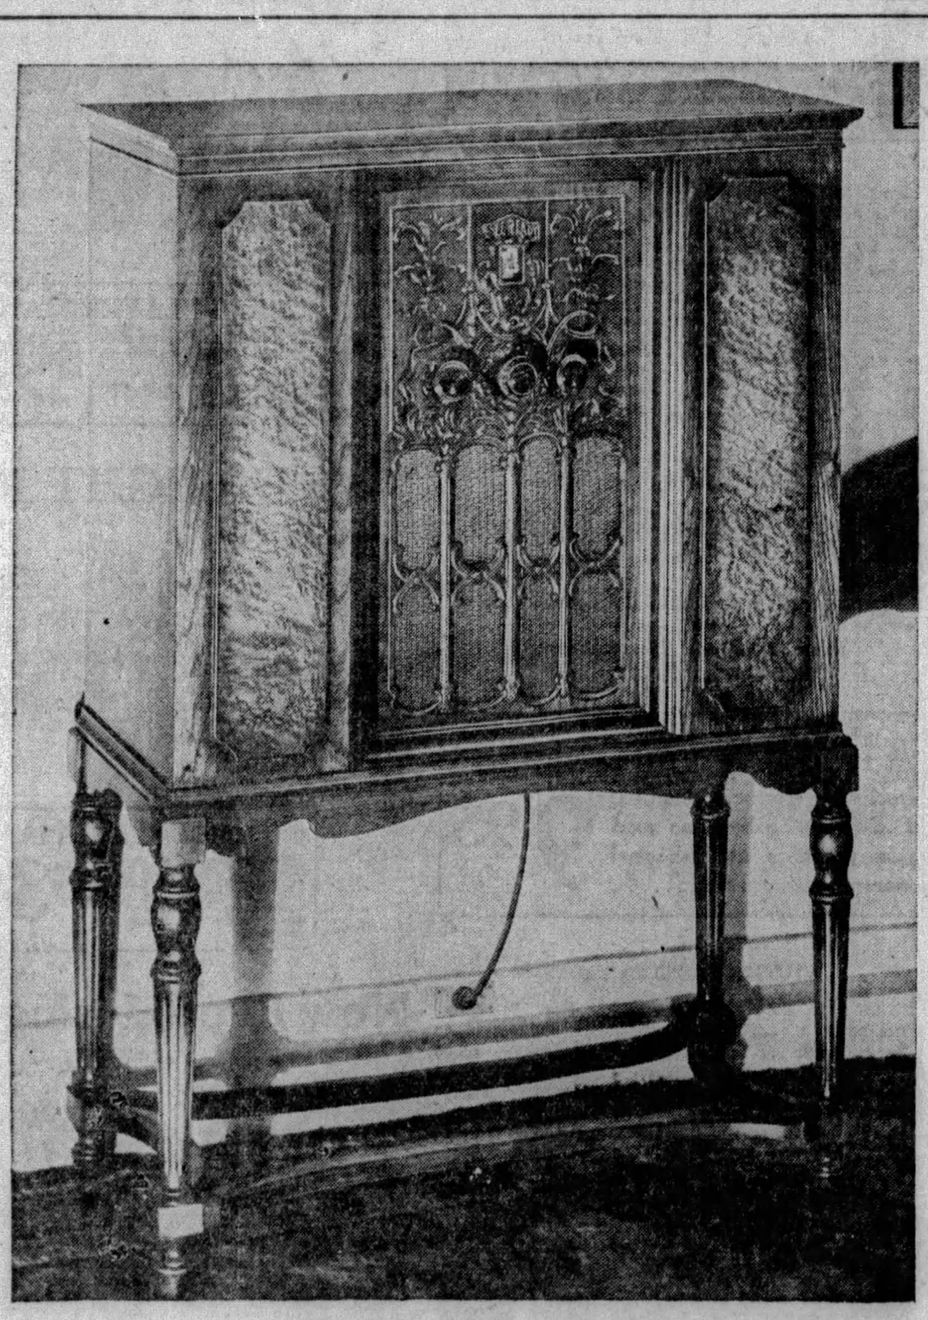
Eveready Radio

THE PRECISION INSTRUMENT

To THE MAN who supports a football team because they play a good game . . . to the man who will practice his drive fifty times a day to get good form . . . to the woman who thrills to the smartness and dash of a swift sport coupé . . . to that portion, in short, of the American public which is interested in excellence, we present something new and refreshing. . . . This "something" is the new all-electric, screen grid Eveready Radio.

Programs come in with clear, room-filling volume. The excellence of reception which you get is due to the precision with which this fine instrument is built. A fine motor-car has speed and comfort and steadiness on the road because of the careful, painstaking methods with which it is made. Think of this ideal of manufacture; then remember that here is a radio comparable in the ideals behind it—ideals of accuracy, precision.

A large scientific organization with vast resources has made this receiver possible. It is built to last, because into it is built an excellence which is not of today, or six months from now, but which is the excellence of permanence. See this remarkable radio. Hear it. Ask about the new "weather-proof" principle which assures excellent reception even on muggy nights. Compare the beauty of its cabinetwork with that of the piano in your living-room. And you will be led to the conclusion, "Yes, it's the instrument I want."



EVEREADY SCREEN GRID CONSOLE MODEL 52, $157.50 (LESS TUBES)

Model 53, a larger console, $195 (less tubes)—Model 54, the de luxe console, $225 (less tubes), using the same perfected screen grid chassis. Pacific Coast prices slightly higher.

NATIONAL CARBON CO., INC.

THE NEW EVEREADY contains eight tubes, including rectifier. Uses three of the new screen grid tubes. Last audio stage is push-pull, using two 245-type tubes. Power-detection and resistance-coupling preserve original tonal purity and fidelity.

Special built-in electro-dynamic speaker of Eveready design.

Insulation is used only for insulating—not to bear the weight of parts. Original fine adjustments made in laboratory are not affected by weather-changes. Unyielding metal used to preserve accurate alignment of parts.

A Little Girl's Dream About Dolly-Land

It happened all of a sudden . . . how she was in her nice warm bed, then something occurred, either she fell out, or . . . but there she was, ker-flop, right in the midst of DOLLY-LAND . . . and maybe it wasn't a thrilling sight. Up sauntered one bold, bad pirate individual, but he turned out quite nice, and introduced himself . . . Captain Kidd! Then Little Boy Blue, Bo Peep, and Mary and her Little Lamb. Oh, just the most thrilling folks. But suddenly she heard a voice, almost like mother's, saying, "Come to McCreery's and see us all, oh, ever so many more than you have time for tonight. But you must go to sleep now, you'll have a busy day tomorrow." But when she glanced at the place the voice came from, it was only Humpty Dumpty, sitting on her bed rail, looking wisely down, with his plain egg-shaped countenance very noncommittal.

SIX GAS WELLS WILL BE SUNK

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Nov. 22.—The latest development in the lease war waged by gas companies operating in Greene County fields resulted in the Peoples' Natural Gas Company, of Pittsburgh, making six new locations this week in the eastern section of the county. It is expected that the wells will be rushed to completion in order to meet anticipated demands for heavier gas consumption on the part of industrial and domestic consumers in the Pittsburgh district.

Locations were on the D. P. Johnson farm, near Mt. Morris, the D. L. House farm, J. W. Doty tract, Frank Watson and Dr. J. W. Sidler farms, all in Morgan Township, and two other locations on the H. L. Kiger tract, near Brock.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

WHY UNHAPPY THOUGH MARRIED?

Cause for Wedded Troubles Often a Simple One You Can Overcome.

Nearly every newspaper carries accounts of people whose marriage has been only a cause of unhappiness. Sometimes wedded life is ended in the divorce courts, often it is ended by a terrible crime, but in many thousands of cases it continues one horrible jangle of nerves, quarrels and coldness.

People in whom at one time the attraction for each other was overwhelming now literally hate the sight of each other. Why was the attraction lost? In most cases this cause is brought on by physical disability which starts from catarrh or other causes, stomach becomes bad, bowels do not work regularly, liver becomes sluggish, causes bad breath, bad color to the skin, sometimes loss of weight, other times too much fat, and mock modesty prevents our recognizing it. Let's face the facts.

A man marries a woman who is full of vivacity, attractive and healthy. He is strong and ambitious for success. Somehow the wife finds herself losing the fine edge of her love for her husband. He is becoming less attentive; more inclined to find other society. They drift apart, because each sees in the other the fading away of just those qualities that once attracted the most.

In her eyes the man appears less virile. He lacks the dominant force she admired so much. On the other hand, she has lost her magnetism, that fine womanliness that held him.

There is a reason. Both of them are rundown in vital force. They suffer from the inactivity or weakness of the system that once gave them such zest in life—those digestive organs that made people virile and vigorous, the woman magnetic and strong. Yet life will possess all its joy again if they will only heed what Nature is saying to them.

After long research and the spending of much money, there has been placed at the disposal of weakened people one of the most remarkable system treatments that is winning great commendation in many thousands of cases. It is known as World's Tonic, a new medicine that is brought from various parts of the world, and its results have been most gratifying. Your druggist can supply you with it. For sale at Dow's (formerly McCulloch's), also May's, and Mayflower stores, and all other reliable drug stores. (B-28.)

PRODUCER FORGETS HIS TEETH AND $6,000 WORTH OF SCENES GO 'ZERO'

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 21.

ANY WAY, they tell it. The yes-men of this particular lot packed together in the studio's largest sound stage and held a momentous meeting. Not be it known that the company's trademark lends itself to subtle flattery to the producer chief.

So the yes-men worked out a scheme — so the story goes — whereby the producer chief's smiling face would be presented with the trademark in Technicolor.

Alice White.

Naturally, the producer chief was pleased. A set was built to photograph him in Technicolor. He arrived to keep the appointment. The yes-men jammed in. The producer chief was asked to smile. He pressed his lips together tightly and obliged.

"No, no, a good, toothy smile," lathered the spokesman yes-man.

"I can't," snapped the producer chief. "I left my false teeth at home!"

And six thousand dollars worth of set—so the story ends—went for naught.

Eddie (Montmartre) Brandstatter may be the colony's most famous restaurateur, but he is really an actor at heart.

In Alice White's current talky effort, "Show Girl of Hollywood," Author J. P. McAvoy actions a slab of the story in the new W. K. Montmartre. This is being depicted in the picture. So Eddie was asked by Director Mervyn Leroy if he would play himself.

"Sure," agreed Eddie.

"And how are you in the flick?" I asked.

"Fine," admitted Mr. Brandstatter.

But this bureau learned through its secret channels that when Eddie's big scene was being taken,

"Marco Millions" Coming For One Performance

The great success of Eugene O'Neill's "Marco Millions" in Pittsburgh last season, and the many requests for a return engagement, prompted the Theater Guild, Inc., to arrange for a Thanksgiving Day matinee in the Nixon as a last opportunity for playgoers here to see this production. No less than 11 scenes and a company of 65 players are required to meet the demands of the dramatist.

Seats are now on sale at the box office of the Alvin for the one week engagement, commencing Monday night, of the Shubert revue, "Pleasure Bound," with its quartet of stars—Jack Pearl, Phil Baker, Allen Stanley and Shaw and Lee.

"The Shannons of Broadway," next week's offering of the George Sharp Players in the Pitt, tells a human, heart-reaching story, it is announced.

Dr. Kent Made Head Of Louisville College

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Dr. Raymond A. Kent was inaugurated president of the University of Louisville, oldest American municipal university, at which representatives of a dozen or more other institutions were present. President Louis D. Coffman, of the University of Minnesota, made the principal address.

Sardonic

ARLISS PUTS DRAMA IN GRAND

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

History admits Disraeli was a great man. The Drama admits George Arliss is a great actor. So, naturally, the combination of these two phases in the talk film, "Disraeli," which opened an engagement in the Grand yesterday, leads to a lot of expectation—perhaps, too much.

It is to be remembered that "perfection" and "the movies" are not synonymous. A great historic character and a great actor do not necessarily make a great photoplay. However, the combination on the Grand screen does make an unusual production—one that has some dramatic values not generally attained in the everyweek run of films.

The picture confines itself chiefly to Disraeli's activities as prime minister of England—activities involving the purchase of the Suez Canal and the heralding of Queen Victoria as Empress of India. The menace of Russia, personified by a certain Mrs. Travers, helps with the drama—and yes, melodrama.

Advance indications that there are any Aspasia or Cleopatra elements in the film are without basis. There is only one woman in Disraeli's love life—his wife. And she, in no way, brings influence to bear in his diplomatic career. She only stands by, trying to serve and understand. The picture also allows no cause for intimation that Queen Victoria meant anything more to Disraeli than a queen would mean to any of her high public servants. In fact, the royal lady hardly appears. The nearest approach to a good look at her comes near the end, when the doors swing open, leading the way to where she sits waiting to greet him, who won for her the title Empress of India.

Without Mr. Arliss this "Disraeli" would be just another picture. Which is another way of saying what a keen performance he gives. His is a Disraeli of many moods. But, sneering or apprehensive, happy or sad, a Disraeli that impresses as being real. Of course, such a portrayal is expected, for Mr. Arliss had a dramatic fling at Disraeli on the stage. Also this is not his first time as the historic prime minister on the screen. He appeared as such in a silent film some years back.

The Disraeli of Mr. Arliss—in spite of episodes of domestic tranquility or heartache introduced—appeals to the intellect rather than the heart. You marvel at the sharp, quick brain that works behind the picturesque face. And though some of the diplomatic cunning of the man as displayed in the film is just luck, it intrigues you. Anyway, you can't just say it is the movie way—for chance and coincidence play big parts in life as well.

Lady Beaconsfield, Disraeli's wife, gets kind treatment from Florence Arliss. This actress, the wife of Mr. Arliss in private life, has appeared in many of his stage productions. David Torrence, as governor of the Bank of England, has the same role he essayed in the stage version. Others in the cast include Joan Bennett and Anthony Bushell as principals in a youthful romance which is unraveled on the sidelines.

The production is not without faults. It lacks smoothness in continuity. It opens ineffectively and inconsequentially with a Hyde Park orator berating the Jewish novelist who became prime minister of England. And, though it reaches greatness in certain dramatic episodes, we say—recalling Disraeli's words, "There is no wisdom like frankness"—it is not, when considered in its entirety, a great photoplay.

ARMY DREDGE SUNK, 60 SAVED

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 22.—(INS.)—The U. S. Army dredge Manhattan, carrying a crew of 60, sank in the Delaware River near Edgemoor a few miles from here early today following a collision with the oil tanker Bessemer of the Atlantic Refining Company, according to reports received here. Members of the crew were rescued.

The government boat, said to be valued at several thousand dollars, was going south while the tanker was coming upstream, bound for Philadelphia.

Greta Gets Witty Then Hangs Up

GRETA GARBO pulled a typical Garbo nifty 'tother day. Trust that fem.

An advertising representative of some firm or other giving something or other away free for nothing (you get the idea) got the Garbo's telephone number. And phoned her. And accidentally got her to come to the 'phone.

Greta Garbo.

"We have something to send you, Miss Garbo," said the brisk voice. "What is your address, please?"

Greta couldn't think of a fictious address to give.

"What is it?" persisted the voice.

"We haff no address," the Garbo finally answered, hitting on a rare thought. "They haff not given us an address yet."

And she hung up!

Twenty years ago, New England merchants used to give away a banjo with every suit of clothes they sold. At least so claims an authority. Two lads who were neighbors in Onset, Mass., got a musical start from this seamy source. Curiously enough, both made good. One is Charles Farrell. The other, Mal Hallett, new orchestra leader of the Coconut Grove band at the Ambassador. Verily, Charlie and Mal should have much in melodious common . . .

Will (R K O's revue master-of ceremonies) Ahern played a round of golf with Concert Singer John Charles Thomas over the Rancho course.

"What did you go around in?" asked a tactless friend.

RIPPLE OFF TO HOOVER PARLEY

D. P. Ripple, president of the Building Trades Employers Association of Pittsburgh, left last night for Washington to confer today with President Herbert Hoover regarding the construction situation.

Secretary F. O. Reed, of the local organization, said the invitation to meet with the President had come from Secretary of Commerce R. P. Lamont. Mr. Ripple is the president also of the National Building Trades Employers' Association and is interested in promoting building construction.

The Building Trades Council here passed during the week a resolution commending the President for his action in endeavoring to bring about a business revival.

Charging Buffalo Seriously Hurts Farm Chief

HAZEL, Ky., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—A man was seriously injured by a charging buffalo here.

The animal charged into Frank Barker, a dairy farm superintendent, knocked him down, backed away and then charged again as he lay on the ground. In spite of serious injuries he managed to crawl away, and his companions assisted him to a hospital at Murray, Ky.

His hospital bill is likely to be rather a bargain, since the buffalo belongs to the hospital which had sent it to the farm. Barker and the other men were trying to pen him up.

The buffalo is one of a number brought in recent years to Kentucky where thousands of them once roamed.

ATTORNEYS ASK DAVIDSON FEES

Attorney Arnold M. Replogle presented a petition in Common Pleas Court asking that counsel fees be fixed by the court for himself and Attorney Earl F. Reed, and auditor's fees for Attorney Walter Lyon, in connection with the estate of Mrs. Eleanor H. Davidson, adjudged mentally incompetent.

Attorney George H. Calvert and former Judge Henry G. Wasson as a committee in charge of Mrs. Davidson and her estate estimated to be worth more than $3,000,000, resigned in December, 1928.

A hearing was fixed by Judge George V. Moore for December 5 on the petition.

The State Bar now has a petition before it asking for the disbarment of Wasson and Calvert.

Prisons Breeding Crime, Says Mabel

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—The federal prisons were termed "cess pools of crime," by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt last night in an address delivered here.

As a former assistant attorney general, Mrs. Willebrandt was in charge of the Prison Bureau, as well as the prohibition activities of the Justice Department.

"Every year," she said, "four hundred thousand convicts are turned loose to enter society and contaminate or influence it with a mental attitude of crime given them in jail."

FATHER SAVES 3 FROM FIRE

Daniel Armstrong, of 506 River avenue, rescued his three children, Milton, 3; Winifred, 13, and Thomas, 5, when fire broke out in the bedroom of their home late yesterday.

Milton suffered slight burns and the father's clothes ignited but were extinguished before he was injured. Armstrong's wife, Mrs. Mary Armstrong, also escaped from the burning building.

Armstrong was awakened by smoke. Hurrying into a bedroom where the children were playing, he carried the youngest son to the street and led the others out of the house.

Battalion Chief M. F. Shanahan estimated the damage at $500.

Aviator Killed in Crash, But Guy Is Found To Be Safe

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Mary Patricia Dawn, pert, young, demi-brunette, sees her little brother, Dickie, fail to rise after a dive in the lake. Pat brings up the apparently lifeless body. All hope seems gone when suddenly an airplane sweeps down out of the sky. Pat's father arrives with Guy Elliott, a tall, handsome youth as pilot. Quick action follows and Dickie recovers. Later Elliott kisses and takes Pat for an air ride. Happy days follow, with Pat and Guy in love. Then comes Barbara Bryce with the seductive lure of shadowy eyes. She is the widow of young William Bryce, whose father owns the airplane factory where Guy works. While trying out her new plane, Barbara has an accident but is saved. In the excitement, Guy forgets an appointment with Pat. Later, while airplaning with Guy, Pat has a glimpse of Barbara in another plane. Pat marvels at Barbara's beauty and wonders if Guy is moved by it. Later, Guy receives a visit from Barbara and her young son, upon whom old Bryce squanders a fortune. Tom Burns, a workman, rages about the unfairness of wealth. His invalid son is dying for want of necessities. When Bryce refuses a loan, Burns leaves swearing revenge. The next night, in the factory, Guy hears a stealthy footstep. It is Burns, who has robbed the safe. He is captured by the watchman and arrested. Bryce refuses to intercede for Burns and he is put in prison. In Pat's home preparations are being made for her to enter college. Hearing much gossip about the youth of today, Mrs. Dawn prays that Pat will remain the sweet girl she is. Pat is happy when her dad buys her a new automobile. Bryce delays business, but Guy determines to make good. Pat is terror-stricken when she sees Guy's plane fall.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XV.

THE clear blue heavens, but in all their wide expanse nothing but that plane spinning like a top—spinning downward.

"He'll jump," murmured Pat, palsied. "He'll have to jump."

She stood with glazed eyes and watched. Straining for the sight of a figure rising from the cockpit, plunging over the side, a parachute opening.

Spirals sharper, narrower. Off there to the northeast the plane seemed almost on a level with their eyes. No pilot jumped. Then the plane shot downward; shot from sight.

Pat turned to her mother with a blind look of terror. "He's crashed."

"You don't know. It may be much higher—much farther off. It may not be he!"

Pat pushed off her mother's restraining arm and went darting across the patio. She was in her car and half way down the drive as Laura came running across the garden.

"Pat—NO! Pat, wait. Your father'll be back any moment. I'll go!"

The girl looked out with white, stony face. She pleaded hoarsely: "Mother—don't. I'm all right. I just want to see. I won't speed. Don't come, Mother! I can't WAIT!"

She went down the hills. It seemed that a wind roared; that she drove through hurricanes. Off there in the levels—in the stark, desolate levels—it was about there.

She took a cross road. Somewhere down there. All at once, across a wide, level field, she noticed smoke—a little pillar of smoke. Her hands froze on the steering wheel. The car shot ahead dizzily.

"I mustn't do that," she thought distractedly. "The plane is burning."

A little farther on she came upon some half-dozen parked automobiles. So it was here—just along here.

She got out of the car and went running across the great field in the direction of the smoke. She was on the fringe of the loitering crowd.

Fifty feet distant was the smoking mass, the wings sticking out like the arms of a cross. Already the wreck was roped about.

"Wonder why he didn't jump sooner," one man was saying to another.

"Was he killed?" asked Pat, her heart thumping up into her throat.

"Was he! Mangled beyond recognition. Down 350 feet before he jumped. Trying to save the plane, I guess. I got here just as they took him away."

Softly forcing the awful word: "Who?"

"Someone from Mills Field, they think. They're checking the planes now."

Pat turned. All the blood in her body went flying through her brain. Checking up on the planes—NOW!

She reached the Flying Field. She stood for one moment shielding her eyes from the glare of all these brilliant wings. They flashed so bright—so brave. She prayed through the whistle and storm in her heart.

Then she was running. The whole earth was lost in this great yellow glow. This golden flash against which a man stood—a man who now turned—who now ran up and caught her.

"Guy, NOT YOU!" she moaned in wild relief.

She saw his face, anxious, full of love, leaning over her. She closed her eyes and smiled.

"Pat, dear—you thought it was I? But why? You're white as a little ghost."

He said it as though he were happy. She wanted to see if this were true.

When he found her eyes seeking his he gave a deep laugh and caught her to him. And he held her like this, sitting in the little plane.

He smoothed her hair. It was music going over her—happy music.

"From the garden you saw it falling? It's a bigger plane than mine. And you went dashing there alone, thinking it I? Pat, if it were?"

She shuddered against him.

He said with that queer, catchy laugh: "You love me, Pat?"

"Yes."

"But, Pat, do you really love me so?"

"More."

"But you had to fear me dead before you knew you cared?"

"I've known. But I did not know how terrible—how desolate love can be. And if you should not care for me, Guy . . ."

"I do—Pat, you cannot love me more than I love you—want me more. You CANNOT. Oh—little Pat—"

An hour later Pat was sunk very blissfully in her little car, the dark young man at the wheel looked down and winked at her.

She said pertly: "Ah, but if you really cared, would you be driving me home now to go flaunting off with another?"

"You dare not flaunt with another, Pat. There's no escape for you in this world or another. Be sure you do not change."

"No—I will not. Be equally sure for yourself."

"Then you can tea with a thousand of them, Pat, until the teaing days are over and you come home to ME."

For the next two weeks a certain dark, ambitious young man worked flamingly. The world was his, so he thought, if he'd but put a pair of gallant hands forth and reach for it. He WOULD! He saw dear, frantic eyes looking into his, felt soft arms clinging to his neck and lips crazy with relief, sobbing:

"NOT YOU—Guy—not you!" He worked like a man made of flame—brilliant blue flame.

One afternoon he went into Bryce's office with some beautiful sketches.

Two or three women were crossing the outer office. They walked firmly. They seemed very quiet and set.

Nancy Brack raised an eyebrow and smirked:

"Clubwomen! They've got Tom Burns' parole set for the middle of January. Want him," pointing to the inner office, "to use pressure with the governor and get him off for Christmas? Want us to give him the job back? Fat chance."

Bryce was in truculent mood. He paced back and forth before speaking to Guy. He gave one swift glance at the sketches and shoved them aside.

"Isn't it enough," he flung, "that he gets off with a six-months' sentence for attempted murder?"

"But Christmas time," said Guy, instantly disturbed with the memory of a face—brave white little kid's face beaming with joy as the tiny model airplane was given him; "guess the little fellow wants him home for Christmas."

Bryce champed at his mustache. Finally he came up to Guy. "That day he was in here. Burns cursed me. Hoped I'd live to see the day my grandson was gasping for breath; hoped I'd see him wasting in a living death and all my money powerless to save him.

"That's what he wishes me. Why? I never harmed him. Only advanced him hundreds of dollars I knew he couldn't pay.

"The DOG! Let him rot. Fiend that wishes agony to another man's child because his has suffered. No! Let him rot!"

Tom Burns was to be paroled on January 11.

Christmas Eve, the newspaper that had championed the case ran a picture of little Tommy . . . "Dying Boy Begs for Father's Return."

The paper urged that the prisoner be released; that he be given a chance to see his son alive. In this season of good-will, cannot this rich state mark off a few days' punishment and do this Christly sweetness to a dying child?

The day after Christmas the same paper printed another picture—"Little Boy Goes Out to Search for Dad Who Didn't Come."

"Tommy Burns is dead. All Christmas a little boy waited. All the happy holiday a dying boy prayed for one glimpse of a dear face—the face of his dad. Little Tommy didn't know his father was a convict. Tom Burns was no sinner to that lad. He was the great fellow—the adored big fellow. And surely in the Christmas time he'd come. Come and lift him in kind arms as he used to do.

"So from early morning Tommy waited. And all the long day an anxious mother promised.

"'Be brave, Tommy—maybe he'll come—'

Tommy waited beyond his strength — beyond even his shining trust. At midnight, he lay back in his mother's arms. He said with his eyes on the half dozen candles gleaming on the little tree—on these and on the door — 'Oh, make him hurry—hurry—' It will be too late now when Tom Burns comes home."

Two days after Christmas, Pat was driving with Guy. They took a short cut from the factory. Before Guy had thought, they were in a narrow street approaching a row of dingy cottages.

Machines were parked before one of these. But it was too late to turn.

Guy stopped his car and took off his hat. The door of the cottage opened. A little coffin was borne out—the coffin of Tommy Burns. Three women followed.

"They didn't let him out—even for the funeral," said Guy. "Isn't it awful—"

They sat very quiet, holding each other's hands, until the little cortege was gone.

Fay King Tells Why Goodness Is Better Success Than Riches

By FAY KING

MANY parents, otherwise good and worthy, make a great mistake by constantly preaching success to their children.

Some fathers, perhaps a little disappointed in their own careers, seem to find some consolation in continually pointing out to their sons how little the sons have accomplished with better education and greater opportunities.

Mothers inspire their sons to grow up to be very rich and very successful.

No wonder some children, chided to desperation, take unworthy chances to accomplish the success that seems so much expected of them at any price

To grow up to be good means greater happiness to parents than to succeed in ways that sooner or later bring tears and shame.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

The Journey to the City Starts

LILLIAN turned from her dressing table at my truculent question, and put her arms akimbo in the burlesqued indignation which she often finds effective in dealing with unexpected situations.

"Aha!" she said. "What has happened to your alleged mind?"

But I stood my ground.

"Nothing has happened, especially," I answered, sternly choking back the laugh which I usually give to Lillian's nonsense. "But my alleged mind is in an inquiring mood this morning, and it wishes to know why I should be selected to go in the Veritzen car."

"Yes, it does look a bit pointed," she said. "You and old Phil, chaperoning his dear son and son's fiancee, the Princess Olina. Quite a family party. The Dicky-bird will be tearing out his feathers and scattering them along the road to New York."

"Which will not make it any pleasanter for me after we get there," I retorted.

"But which will be quite salutary for the Dicky-bird," she contered, "and may be distinctly conducive to your later mental comfort. But that, as it happens, has nothing whatever to do with the arrangements for this journey. Don't you know me well enough to realize that if nothing but your own affairs were concorned, I would not presume to dictate your traveling companions."

I nodded, with sulky reluctance, but honestly.

"Look here, old dear." She faced me with sudden sternness. "If you have to have this explained to you in words of one syllable, or thereabouts, I'll do it. Any danger in this ride is going to center in the car containing Princes Georges and Mary. Those thugs in the employ of Georges' cousin are not interested in anyone else—you may be sure they have made up their minds that Mary is to be Georges' bride and a possible Queen of Trees. The other people in that car must be the ones most capable of defending it if necessary. We have decided to center all danger and all defense in that car. Therefore Mary and Georges must be in it. There must be one woman with Mary. Now this is no time for mock modesty. Which is the better used to emergencies, to the use of a revolveror—other weapons—" she hesitated curiously, "if necessary compels them—you or I?"

I looked at her in fascinated horror, my own petty problem driven out of my mind by the picture. But I did not forget to answer her question.

"You, of course," I said, and added tremulously—"You—you really expect those men will try to kill or capture Georges and Mary on this journey."

"I don't expect anything of the kind," she retorted. Stressing the verb impatiently. "The chances are a hundred to one that we shall get to the hotel without any trouble, although you may be sure they will know every step of the journey we take. But it is the hundredth chance which Harry is preparing for, and I, for one, am not willing to be responsible for any change in his arrangements."

"Nor I," I agreed promptly. "I didn't realize, or I never would have spoken of it."

"I knew that," she returned, all impatience gone from her voice. "You never fail to play up, my dear. And—I shall take care to let the Dicky-bird know that it is compulsion not election which gives you a place in Phil Veritzen's car. But this I do, beloved, against my better judgment—I'd like to keep the Dicky-bird hopping from twig to twig—but simply to ease your Puritan conscience. And now let me remind you that tempus is fugitting all over the place. . . ."

I fled upon the word, and dressed frantically to make up for lost time. I had nothing else to do, however, for I meticulously had finished every preparation for the journey the night before. Katie served us a delicious, if hurried breakfast in what she called "chop-house fashion," for not more than two of us came to the table at the same time. I had arranged that Philip Veritzen and the chauffeur, Otto, should also be given breakfast, for our departure was scheduled too early for any hotel meal, but to my great thankfulness his arrival at the table was synonymous with that of Lillian, and I did not have to share the meal with him. Indeed, when I saw that she was at the table and keeping his attention occupied with her usual lively chatter, I retreated to the kitchen, and under pretense of being in a tearing hurry, I ate my breakfast—to Katie's great delight—at her own table.

And then—after a last look at my small son, sound asleep in his bed, and hurried good-byes to my father and my mother-in-law, Katherine, and faithful Jim and Katie, I entered the Veritzen limousine, thankful that Dicky was already in the Underwood car ahead and could not see the impressment with which Philp Veritzen handed me to my place.

Otto started the motor and followed the other car out of the gate. We had gone less than a quarter of a mile when the putt-putt of a motorcycle sounded behind us. I caught back a frightened exclamation only by determined will power. Had the espionage of which Lillian had spoken already begun?

For Vase Painters

If you are painting glass jars or bottles for vases, you will find this an easy method of transferring the design: Select the flower, scroll or initial to be used from any hot iron stamping pattern. Cover the surface of the design with glue and put in its position inside the bottle. Follow the pattern, and when the paint is thoroughly dry remove the design with warm water.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The General Usage of a Word

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

May I ask a ruling, please, upon the following point? My wife refers to a "pair" of beads, contending that beads hanging in a string from the neck on either side form a "pair." I contend that a pair means "two," as in a pair of scissors, and that beads as we refer to them are a "string" of beads.

There is no friction over this matter, but rather one of education and the desire to be correct. Please advise.

ENQUIRER.

I AM so grateful that you are both right, for now I can come into your home as a "neutral" rather than a taker-of-sides. Usually, as you say, the word "pair" is used of two persons or things of a kind, as a couple, a pair of horses, shoes, gloves, scissors.

But formerly the word "pair" was also used to mean a set of like or equal things making a whole, as playing cards, organ-pipes, chessmen or beads. This use of the word is now restricted, and one does not often hear it used that way. It is much better to say, as you suggest, a string of beads, since this usage is more widely accepted. And "usage forms law of language" as we used to learn when we went to school. Now am I still a friend of the family? I hope so, for I liked your letter and admired your handwriting. "Come again."

Greeting New Sister-in-Law

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you kindly inform me what to say to an intended sister-in-law who is to pay me a visit? I met her once. Also please inform me what to say if she comes as a sister-in-law.

CONSTANT READER.

GREET her in your first sentence as you did when you met her before. Then, as a matter of form, quickly ask her if you may call her by her first name. Assure her of your pleasure in having her as a new member of the family. Say, "How do you do, Miss North? But now I may call you Mary—mayn't I? We are all delighted to greet you as a member of our family. We are proud of Jack's choice."

If she comes as a sister-in-law, you should at once call her by her first name. "Mary, it makes me so happy to have my new sister come to see me. We are all proud to welcome you into the family. We all know you so well through Jack's letters."

The Farewell Notice

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Would you please print once again the letters standing for a farewell notice, placed in the corner of one's card, as you had in the newspaper some time ago? S.

GLADLY. The letters are P. P. C., and they stand for pour prendre conge (to take one's leave). It is very polite to send or leave our visiting card with these initials in the left corner when we are leaving town, either for a few weeks or months, say, or to change our residence permanently.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Mrs. Solomon's Sayings

VERILY, my daughter, the heart of a woman accordeth not always with her judgment; but in one thing they are agreed. That a good husband and a perfect lover are not always identical.

HELEN ROWLAND

Go to. A woman may endure many failings in a husband that she would not abide in a lover. For, a husband is a matter of personal preference, even as the light and the dark meat of the turkey.

* * *

But, the Perfect Lover hath been standardized. Yea, in all things, he is authentic! He runneth true to TYPE.

And, whether she be damsel or matron, blonde or brunette, high-brow or frivolous, every woman carryeth the same Ideal in her heart.

* * *

Behold, the way of the Model Lover is strewn with conquests and garlands and flatteries and dinner invitations. For, whether he be brilliant or subtle, plain or pulchritudinous, ascetic or athletic, he possesseth the Winning Manner, which is the passkey to the heart of all women.

* * *

Lo, he remembereth a woman's preferences and forgetteth not her pet abominations. He is more quick to divine her wishes than a good butler and more thoughtful for her comfort than a trained nurse. But a boor considereth first his own CONVENIENCE.

The Perfect Lover flattereth every woman with his eyes, but only one woman at a time with his lips. All his compliments are definite. For he knoweth that a woman preferreth an itemized acount of her charms to glittering generalities.

But a novice feedeth all women the same brand of applesauce, and springeth his "line" at the first opening.

The Model Lover hearkeneth unto a woman's words and greeteth her opinions with gravity and her wit with applause. But a bungler seeketh to dazzle her with wisecracks and repartee. He delighteth in his own voice. He is SO clever!

When he escorteth her upon the street, the Perfect Lover is more gallant than a doorman and more protecting than a policeman on a busy corner. But an amateur saith, "Hurry up!"

The Perfect Lover is full of tenderness, and the impetuosity of the caveman is not IN him. For he knoweth that a woman, like unto a kitten, preferreth gentle stroking to a crushing caress.

Verily, verily, so subtle are his ways that, though there be seven times seven women present, each woman shall think in her heart, "LO, I am IT!"

And no woman whom he hath once loved shall ever forget him.

For, she that hath known one Perfect Lover in a world full of tyros is indeed to be envied amongst women! SELAH.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, November 23.

CONFLICTING planetary configurations bearing rule on this day, there may be many complicated and perplexing conditions. While there will be a breaking up of chystallized states, yet there are many perils, especially of deception and fraud, attendant upon new ventures. Be on guard and sign all writings cautiously.

Those whose birthday it is, while likely to reap preference and reward for past industry and fidelity, may find peril, deception and subtlety in employment and in all new undertakings. They should be on guard and sign all writings with great care.

A child born on this day may be steady, industrious and faithful, but may need all its prudence and faculties to circumvent deception, betrayal and ill-will in its career.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Food in Containers and Your Health

THIS article was written on a railroad train between Detroit and Washington. In the dining car I looked over the menu to find out how many of the dishes served came in cans, bottles or other packages.

DR. COPELAND

It is surprising how many do come in that form. Let me enumerate: Orange marmalade, strained honey, pineapple, figs, preserved strawberries, clam bouillon, Boston brown bread, cookies, grape juice, tomato juice, doughnuts, maple syrup, coffee, cocoa, milk, malted milk and yeast cakes.

Practically everything served is received on the car in the original wrappings. Even the bread comes this way, I assume. The fish, eggs, meat and potatoes are almost the only articles purchased in bulk.

The other day I was thinking about Commander Byrd and his gallant boys at the South Pole. They couldn't be there at all without processed and packaged foods, could they?

Napoleon said, "An army travels on its stomach." An explorer does, too. No exploration could succeed without some sure and safe manner of carrying its food supply. The commercial canners and food merchants make possible such trips, far from sources of daily supply.

It is not alone the traveler to the poles, or the traveler on trains who depends on commercially prepared foods. Mr. Average Man today would be greatly inconvenienced without them.

It is not fair to say that the average family would die except for the can opener. It has not gone that far by any means. But much of the labor of food preparation has been taken from the home, and I'm glad of it. Household work is hard enough without demanding of the housewife that she spend needless hours in the hot kitchen. Her life is lengthened by this modern advance.

Many of our foods, perhaps most of them, can be prepared just exactly as well, and in some instances better, by quantity production. Fruits and vegetables are processed where they are grown. They need not be pickled green and transported long distances for home preparation. At the field and orchard they are made ready for our use.

There can be no question of the wholesomeness and digestibility of such foods. The best of chemists and bacteriologists are in the employ of these commercial concerns. Every check and balance needed for safety's sake are employed. The relationship of the given food to health is never overlooked.

Answers to Health Queries

D. L. Q.—What can I do for liver spots?

A.—As this condition is due to more or less poor intestinal elimination, the first thing to do, therefore, is to correct constipation.

A READER. Q.—I have had trouble with my throat for a long time. Can you suggest a remedy?

A.—Consult a throat specialist for treatment.

D. A. R. Q.—How much should a girl weigh who is thirteen, five feet three and one-half inches tall?

2—Will she grow much taller?

A.—She should weigh about 112 pounds.

2—Probably not.

* * *

MRS. McG. Q.—What can I do to rid my little girl of sties? She is 18 months old and has a great many, filled with blood and is hardly over one before another appears.

A.—The digestion often has a great bearing on disturbances of this nature.

A. E. Z. Q.—Would the teeth be affected in any way by handling celluloid? I work in a celluloid plant. I am a girl of 21 and give my teeth careful attention.

A.—This should not affect your teeth.

H. H. Q.—Would excessive smoking affect the complexion and cause a heavy cough on arising in the morning?

A.—Excessive smoking affects the nervous system and this in turn would naturally have a bearing on the health in general.

M. D. Q.—What can be done for an itching scalp and gray hair in a girl of 19?

A.—The itching is probably due to dandruff. Nothing can be done to restore the color to gray hair with the exception of using hair dyes, which are not advisable. If the hair and scalp are kept in good healthy condition and immaculately clean there is no reason why the color should be a detriment.

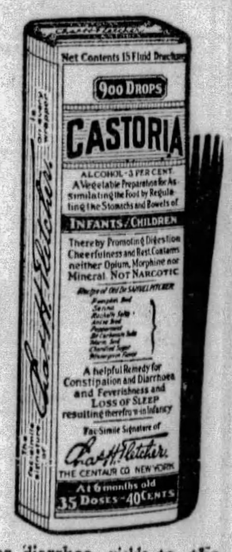
The upsets of Children



All children are subject to little upsets. They come at unexpected times. They seem twice as serious in the dead of night. But there's one form of comfort on which a mother can always rely; good old Castoria. This pure vegetable preparation can't harm the tiniest infant. Yet mild as it is, it soothes a restless, fretful baby like nothing else. Its quick relief soon sees the youngster comfortable once more, back to sleep. Even an attack of colic, or diarrhea, yields to the soothing influence of Castoria.

Keep Castoria in mind, and keep a bottle in the house—always. Give a few drops to any child whose tongue is coated, or whose breath is bad. Continue with Castoria until the child is grown! Every drugstore has Castoria; the genuine has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

MAN SHOT IN ARGUMENT OVER GIRL

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

SIDEWALKS has been trying to think up something which would remind you to kick in to the Welfare Fund and the best point we can make is that even we gave the price of a balcony seat for a musical . . .

The city payroll's most famous horse, "Georgie," will be retired on pension in two years, when he'll be 10, according to his handsome master, Alex Thompson, who once passed up a chance to nail the late Whoopee McGurk . . .

We have a confidential report that Sleuth Bill Egan's only ambition is to dress up in silk hat and swallowtails and ride down Fifth avenue in a lavender limousine with a Negro chauffeur in gold braids . . . and possibly eating an ice cream cone . . .

MISS KATHLEEN DOUGHERTY, a former Connellsville girl who is making good in this big city, is a cousin of Adolph Menjou, whose father once ran a restaurant here . . .

Mike Shortley, who used to run back punts for Duquesne U., is now what the boys call a Big Shot in the Veterans Bureau and has 25 stenographers . . . In one of the biggest downtown cafeterias smoking has just been prohibited because the stuff gets in the eyes of the broccoli customers . . .

We had to go a long way for this one (Newark, O.) but it's true that Master Robert Harvey, 7, has nothing to live for . . . On his first trip to the range of the Newark Rifle Club he smacked 10 out of 10 . . . Add vital statistics: The William Penn has 36 telephone operators . . .

The Hill Negroes failed to rave over Josephine Baker, who was at the Elmore in a sound picture in which she did six dances which a million colored chorines can do as well . . . Darrell Martin, the radio man, knows a photographer who plays the harmonica to make the kiddies laugh for the camera but he doesn't know why a crowd congregates to watch a demonstrator cut hair with a razor blade . . .

The Jack Donahue-Lily Damita show which pleased Pittsburgh as "Carry On," will go into New York as "Sons O' Guns," which is much more interesting . . . And our guess is that it will run no more than 13 weeks.

Sidewalks and the gentleman himself have figured out that in the 23 years Restaurauteur Klein, of Smithfield street, has been in the business, he has fed—well, a lot of people . . .

Beginning next week, Sidewalks will inaugurate a sweeping change for the benefit of its readers . . . Instead of three dots, there will be four . . . .

A COLUMNIST'S idea of a scoop: Nat Moll, who used to sing bass at Forbes Field, has raised a mustache . . . Nat and mustache are doing nicely . . . "Lucky Ring 13," which is what the Pittsburgh magicians call themselves, will cause a chicken dinner to disappear tonight before the very eyes of the Great Leon, who is at the Penn this week . . .

If Josephine, the little girl who escaped from the detention home three times in a nightgown, makes it four, they ought to give her permanent possession of the cup . . .

SPEED URGED IN WELFARE CRUSADE

Total Now $725,810, Chief Spurs Workers to Top Goal on Scheduled Time

With the amount of the Welfare Fund pledges thus far registering $725,810.63, an urgent call was made to the workers in the second annual campaign last night for renewed efforts in order to close the canvass on Thanksgiving eve with the goal of $1,168,055.

"Unless we put more steam into the campaign and reach the people who desire to give there will be a margin short of the amount we need on the closing day," said Joseph Dilworth, general chairman.

PEOPLE EAGER TO GIVE

"Too much praise cannot be given the great majority of the workers," he continued, "but in the opening days of the canvass the weather was against us and in some cases the organization was not complete or was not functioning properly and valuable time was lost. Now we are obliged to speed up in order to hold to our schedule. We cannot afford to fail. Thirty-one of the leading welfare agencies in Pittsburgh look to us to provide the sinews for their work next year and we must bend to our task with new zeal.

"The people are giving liberally, but great numbers of them have not been called on. In many instances the people have come forward and volunteered their contributions. This shows us that our cause is flourishing and failure will be due to a weakening of our ranks."

The reasons for Chairman Dilworth's trumpet call were not apparent in yesterday's reports, which showed $70,000 for the day. Practically all the teams returned marked increases in their totals, but the deficiency, it is pointed out, is in the number of contributors. It is on this estimate that the need for more "steam" is required.

EMPLOYE SUM GROWS

In the employe division the total is $92,688.20, representing 15,881 subscriptions. The first returns from public offices came from the Federal Reserve Bank and the Courthouse. Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell is captain of the county employes' team and turned in a substantial report. Workers in Dilworth, Porter & Co., the Bridgeville Glass Works, the Dravo Contracting Company, the Iron and Glass Dollars Savings Bank and the Oliver Iron and Steel Company were among those reporting yesterday.

Teams of the following captains in the Central Division were awarded extra credits for 100 per cent attendance at the luncheon meeting: Mrs. E. L. Benedict, Mrs. Delacy Hyde, Mrs. Stewart Johnston, Mrs. Joseph Dilworth, Mrs. W. B. Trainer, Mrs. Felix B. Snowden, Mrs. J. B. McKillips and D. M. Craig.

The final luncheon will be held in Pirate Hall, William Penn Hotel, at 12:15 p. m. Monday, and the closing dinner will be held at the same place at 6:15 p. m. Wednesday.

VICTIM NEAR DEATH, 4 HELD

Two Women Among Eight Arrested for Questioning; Witness Gives Self Up

An argument over a girl was responsible for the shooting of Peter McGann, 30, of Reed street, in a Soho poolroom last night, city detectives reported today.

McGann, a bullet in his abdomen, was reported in critical condition in Mercy Hospital today.

EIGHT ARRESTED

Police had arrested eight persons in their investigation and released five, two of them women.

Held until developments in McGann's condition was James Kelly, 32, of Soho street; Pat McGinnis, former prohibition agent, and Francis Connors, 19, of Reed street.

McGinnis was arrested at McGann's bedside when detectives reported learning that the wounded man had told him the name of the assailant.

Connors took part in the fight that preceded the shooting in Harry Schwartz's poolroom at 1334 Fifth avenue, according to detectives.

ARGUE OVER GIRL

Detectives said McGann and several friends had argued with Kelly over a girl.

A fourth prisoner was added to the list when David (Cockie) Brown, said to have witnessed the shooting, gave himself up today and was held for a statement.

Purse snatchers robbed two women within five minutes in the East Liberty district last night.

A bag containing $2.50 was stolen from Louisa Reinhardt, of 6708 McPherson boulevard, by a man as she was waiting for a street car in Fifth avenue, a short distance from her home.

Loses Life Saving Train Pilot In Mine Crash

DENVER, Col., Nov. 22.—(AP).—Samuel Quick, 40, paid with his own life for saving another. He died from a broken neck.

Quick was working at a hoist in a mine near Idaho Springs, west of Denver, when he saw 11 cars loaded with ore headed for an open switch at the same time an empty train piloted by George Gartel headed toward the same switch. Quick succeeded in stopping 10 of the cars, but the coupling on the eleventh broke and smashed into him, breaking his neck. Gartel saw the cars in time to stop his own train and escaped injury. He did not see Quick.

NAME GANSTER IN TOWNSHIP

The dying wish of Henry Ferla, township commissioner of the Seventh District of Shaler Township, that Frank X. Szyper be appointed his successor, failed of realization in Quarter Sessions Court.

Szyper and William R. Ganster both filed petitions for the appointment and a hearing was held presided over by Judge Thomas J. Ford. Attorney R. B. McGuiness represented Szyper and George P. Langfitt, Ganster.

McGuiness put Mrs. Ferla, widow of the commissioner, on the stand. She testified it had been her husband's wish that Szyper continue his work. Several witnesses lauded the abilities of each of the candidates after which Judge Ford appointed Ganster He will serve until 1932.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: An Illinois judge, in a recent decision, intimated that a woman should be permitted to perjure herself in court to save her reputation. Do you think this is ethical and right?

MARGARET GROGAN, Center avenue, food checker: "It's hard to give an intelligent answer to a question of this type without knowing all the circumstances in the case. Circumstances alter cases. Each court trial has it's own aspects. I believe if a judge makes an intimation that a girl should perjure herself on the witness stand to save her reputation, then she should not be punished or censured for doing so."

M. Grogan.

MANNY STRAND, Baum Boulevard, orchestra leader: "Yes, I believe that in a case of this kind a girl should perjure herself to save a good reputation. Most of the reputations destroyed in a court room are done so without forethought. A lot of them don't do a thing to expedite justice. Only when justice is impeded by such action, do I say that a girl should refrain from such tactics."

Manny Strand.

MARY BRYAN, Sieaforth avenue, Mt. Lebanon, secretary: "I think that honesty is the best policy. A lot of persons have found that such an outlook pays big dividends in the end. I believe, however, that in certain trials, circumstances alter cases. While I realize that the truth should be told at all times, especially in a court room, it's pretty tough for a girl not to tell a lie when she knows that such action may enhance or break her reputation. A reputation is a girl's most valuable asset."

Mary Bryan.

JOHN ARGUS, Locust street: "When a girl is on the witness stand and she knows her reputation is at stake, it's pretty hard to determine what she'll do or say. Lots of times girls are placed on the stand and under cross-examination from some sure-fire lawyer, are shown up in an unfavorable light even though they may be innocent of any wrong doing. It's up to the individual to decide what she wants to say in the court.

John Argus.

MARIE JONES, Sixth avenue, entertainer: "Yes, I think a girl is justified in perjuring herself to save her reputation. The world is a hard task master and a woman without reputation is scorned. The only trouble connected with the thing, is whether or not the girl will get away with it on the witness stand. Most courts are not as liberal as the Illinois one. Nine out of ten judges would throw her in jail for lying to save her reputation."

Marie Jones.

DEL ROSE AYRES, Dearborn street: "Before one passes on such a question he should take into consideration that a girl has her honor to lose in this specific instance if she tells the truth. Remember this is only in certain cases. She will do almost anything in a desperate effort to save honor and reputation. A girl whose reputation has been destroyed has a pretty tough time of it. If justice is not impeded by her falsehood, then I say let her protect herself by lying."

Del Rose Ayres.

Gill Robb Wilson

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Nov. 22.

While Mr. Hoover had all the prominent male financiers of the East "restoring confidence," I rode hard on all the female industrial giantesses of the West and restored the following "confidence":

Texas Guinan (the General Motors of night clubs) said: "I will put branches of my industry in every town that Sears Roebuck are;" Clara Bow—"I will be glad to help out the President and Secretary McAdoo in this financial jam that talkies have got us into;" Elinor Glynn—"The trouble with this country, it's got confidence, but it hasn't got 'it', and some money is lost;" Fanny Brice—"I'll buy stocks, but not at the top."

Aimee McPherson—"Have just fired two lawyers and one of my deacons for buying on margins. If the worst comes to the worst with Wall street, I will take up a collection."

Yours, WILL.

Boxer, Injured by K. O., Asks Compensation Relief

William Johnson, pugilist of Everett, Pa., who was knocked out and then sent to the hospital during a benefit bout in that town last Novermber, appeared before the workmen's compensation board here yesterday, seeking a cash award for his injuries. The Stuckey Brothers, operators of an Everett boxing arena are the defendants.

Johnson claims that he was kept at the hospital for two weeks, having suffered a fractured skull. As a result, his eyesight has been impaired and he has been disabled. The reason the case is being heard by the compensation board instead of the boxing commission is because there is no question of fouling at stake, but the problem of determining who was Johnson's employer at the time he was injured.

A decision will be made later.

MADDAS, SEVEN OTHERS, INDICTED IN MALT CONSPIRACY

BREWERY FIRM ACCUSED BY DRY AGENTS

Greensburg Concern, Its Officials and Distributor Face U. S. Court Trial

The Greensburg Brewing Company, at Greensburg; its president, F. A. Maddas, J. S. Dietrich, E. S. Gerard, H. T. Malley, Edward Roberts, Charles A. Luebbe, Frank M. Winters and Alois S. Gruber, were indicted by the Federal grand jury for alleged unlawful sale of "wort" and conspiracy to violate the national prohibititon law.

The indictment alleges the "wort," a malt extract, was sold for the purpose of making beer of more than the legal alcoholic content.

Robertts is a bookkeeper, employed by the company, and Luebbe, who has a store at 2210 Jane street, South Side, is an alleged distributor.

The plant of the brewing company was seized recently by prohibition agentst, who also confiscated 79 cans of "wort" at the Luebbe warehouse.

SLEUTHS GOOD MARKSMEN

Criminals hereabouts had better watch their step!

The old contention that county detectives "couldn't hit the side of a barn" has been disproved. They can, and, what's more, they did. The side of an abandoned building at Parkview was the target, and they gave a brilliant exhibition of marksmanship, jointly and individually.

Twenty husky defenders of public life and property sallied forth yesterday under the leadership of Chief George W. Murren. They packed their pistols, machine guns, rifles and riot guns and blazed away.

"Pistols at 100 feet," came the chief's first order.

"Mike" McDermott hauled out his hip-pocket cannon.

"Bang! Bang!"

The brick walls shook, or maybe just shuddered.

"Enough!" the chief yelled above the din. "Haul out the machine guns."

Al Shedlock led the way. A worn-out coupe was the target. One after another, the detectives manned the weapon, sending bullets tearing through the machine in rapid fire. Rifles and riot guns followed, W. O. Alexander sending spray after spray of scattered lead into the bullet-torn auto with the newest-type riot gun.

"A very enlightening affair," commented the chief. "Fine stuff, this getting together and giving the guns a warming-up every once in a while.

"Sort of keeps the trigger finger in shape," he concluded, "just in case—you know."

FIGHT POLITICS AT MT. LEBANON

A movement of Mt. Lebanon citizens to eliminate politics from the board of township commissioners has been started. A nonpartisan group began organization of the Mt. Lebanon Civic League. They are seeking a thousand or more members.

This movement is the result of the recent election and its chief object is to have commissioners elected from the township at large rather than the respective wards. When organized, the new league will urge all first class townships in the state to seek legislation which would eliminate the ward representation plan.

The body also intends to take an active part in the affairs of the township. Delegates will attend all meetings of the township solons, suggesting improvements, and other matters pertaining to the welfare of the township. The organization also advocates better street car service and lower bus fares.

As the league's first step, a portion of the body will attend a public hearing on December 16, when the commissioners will discuss the changing of the township zoning laws.

DRY 'LIFE' CASE HELD 'FRAMED'

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—A statement here today quoted Frank Eastman, former Lansing, Mich., policeman, as saying Fred Palm and Mrs. Etta Miller, known as Michigan's "life for a pint" prisoners, were convicted on evidence improperly obtained.

Eastman and William Knapp were the plainclothesmen who arrested Palm and Mrs. Miller.

Possession or sale of liquor in Michigan is a felony, and under the state's habitual criminal code, as it then stood, a person, upon fourth conviction of a felony, was automatically sentenced to prison for life.

In the Palm conviction, Eastman said the third and fourth convictions were for the same offense—an arrest on July 27, 1927, for possession of liquor. Palm, the story continued, forfeited his bond and when arrested again for the same charge on a bench warrant, a pint of liquor was found in the Palm home.

In explaining the Miller convictions the statement quoted Eastman:

"Mrs. Miller's fourth conviction was bad enough, but the liquor in the third one was planted in her house and I can prove that."

IF BACK HURTS FLUSH KIDNEYS

Drink Plenty Water and Take Glass of Salts Before Breakfast Occasionally.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

Suffragette

CHRISTABEL PANKHURST

EX-SUFFRAGE HEAD HERE

Miss Christabel Pankhurst, one of the founders of the British suffragette movement, will speak in the Central Presbyterian Church, Sandusky street, above Ohio street, at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. In the evening she will talk in the Calvary Presbyterian Church, Wilkinsburg.

Her topic is "Why I Turned from Women's Suffrage to Biblical Prophecy."

With her late mother, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, she created agitation for the freedom of women prior to the World War. She was imprisoned several times and finally fled to France, so that she could direct the movement from there without interference.

She is in this country lecturing and predicting the second coming of Christ. She claims that the second coming of the Lord will be personable and visible.

JOINT MEETING BRINGS FORTH PETITIONS

Pittsbugh District Joins in Movement Indorsed by 100 Organizations Within State

One hundred per cent support was given by Pittsburgh district Kiwanis Clubs yesterday to the movement for the revision downward of the federal tax on earned incomes.

At a joint luncheon of the Kiwanis Club of Pittsburgh with visiting Kiwanians from Wilkinsburg, Homestead and the South Hills, every member present signed the petitions which are being forwarded to Congress urging immediate action in reducing the tax on the incomes of professional men and women, salaried persons and all wage earners.

In putting their names to the petitions the individual members ratified action by the executive board of the Pittsburgh group in unanimously adopting a resolution favoring tax reduction as proposed by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers.

Thomas F. Ashford III, president of the Pittsburgh club, presided at the meeting yesterday in the Fort Pitt Hotel, where the visitors from Homestead, Wilkinsburg and the South Hills joined in support of the income tax campaign. Assisting in this work were Vice President Edward E. Ludwig, William F. Burress, secretary, and William L. Phipps, treasurer.

More than 100 Kiwanis clubs in Pennsylvania have signed petitions or have them in circulation in assisting in the income tax campaign. In the majority of instances the signatures represent every member of the respective clubs. At the same time club boards have acted formally in indorsing the movement.

In connection with the consideration of the income tax problem, the Kiwanians heard an address on business conditions by Floyd A. Allen, of the chief executive offices of the General Motors Corporation. He declared that, while some persons may regard this as a low income tax year, there nevertheless is a hopeful outlook as a result of the common-sense attitude of the government and its understanding with the leaders of the country's leading business enterprises.

Court Orders 52 Gallons Restored Upon Learning Raiders Had No Warrant

A 52-gallon barrel of wine seized on the third floor of a building at 1742 Eckert street, North Side, the residence of Charles Stipkovic, Sr., by prohibition agents on September 30, was ordered returned to Stipkovic by Federal Judge R. Today...see and hear this marvelous instrument...compare it with even the most expensive models and you'll understand at once why Radiola 33 is the fastest selling radio in America.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Exchange to Hold Sale Wednesday

AT Christmas time Pittsburgh children come down town to see Santa Claus, but on Wednesday they're coming to the William Penn Hotel ballroom to meet Peter Pan.

The arrival of Peter Pan, in a moving picture to be shown continuously, is a part of the children's fete the Woman's Exchange is conducting in connection with its annual sale, to be held on the same day, Wednesday, beginning at 11 o'clock in the morning, in the William Penn Hotel Urban room.

Every year the board of managers holds this sale of articles for Christmas gifts and of foodstuffs for Thanksgiving dinners. And the proceeds help pay the expenses of conducting the Exchange, Penn avenue, where the work of deserving women is sold for a nominal commission.

An interesting display of negligees may help solve Christmas shopping problems. Debutantes will serve as models, I understand. In charge of the negligees will be Mrs. Harry Darlington, assisted by Mrs. William Penn Snyder, Mrs. George Grier Coolidge, Mrs. Harvey Norton Van Voorhis and Mrs. Leslie Johnston.

In charge of the art display will be Mrs. J. P. Penney, assisted by Mrs. Horace Forbes Baker, Mrs. D. D. Gill and Mrs. Donald Bakewell.

There'll be a Santa Claus corner with toys and infants' apparel for sale under the direction of Mrs. T. Howe Nimick, Mrs. C. C. Heard, Mrs. W. C. Robinson, Mrs. Albert Wells and Mrs. Birney Hawkins.

Household linen will be under the supervision of Miss Neil Stewart, assisted by Mrs. Wallace H. Rowe, Mrs. Moses Atwood, Mrs. E. B. Scull and Mrs. W. C. Moreland.

Selling children's frocks will be Mrs. William Larimer Jones, Mrs. W. S. Heron, Mrs. J. T. Brown, Mrs. Samuel A. McClung and Mrs. William Moorehead.

And Thanksgiving goodies will be supplied from the home baking department under the direction of Mrs. Gordon Fisher. Mrs. Fisher will be assisted by Mrs. Dorwin J. Donnelly, Mrs. W. B. Trainer, Mrs. A. Rex Flinn and Mrs. Herbert DuPuy.

Injured by Door, Woman Gets $1,200

Mrs. Mary Carroll, 60, of 111½ Muriel street, was awarded a verdict for $1,200 by a jury in Federal Court, against the Western Union Telegraph Company, because of injuries sustained April 25, 1928, by being caught between the revolving door and its frame work, in the Carnegie Building, Fifth avenue. Mrs. Carroll testified she was about to enter the revolving door when a messenger boy employed by the telegraph company pushed the door and she was caught between it and the framework.

BROWN AND BLACK MOST POPULAR AUTUMN COLORS

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—We are being done brown this season—and we like it. Which is just to inform you that brown in all its fascinating variety and shades is about the most popular color here at the moment, and in nearly every case, endeavor is made to complete the color scheme with brown accessories. There is not a doubt about it in our minds, the name of the mode just now is Brown. It is admitted as the alternative to black and so has become a stock color with all the designers, instead of just a vogue that was content to achieve a sporadic success.

WE SAW a very smart woman wearing the model shown here, a frock from the old established and conservative house of Redfern. It is of brown and beige tweed in a light weight texture. A belt at the normal waistline and a skirt reaching well below the knee mark it as one of the typical models of the Autumn. The trim tailored effect of this frock is stressed by the narrow applied bands that mark the bodice and the circular skirt. The color scheme is completed by a brown fox scarf, a matching felt hat and very dark brown antelope gloves with a moderately deep wrist.

THE evening ensemble continued to be popular. They are seen in all sorts of fascinating color schemes in harmonious rather than contrasting effects. Both the long wrap and short coat lend themselves gracefully to the assembling of the ensemble. The story of the ensemble is well illustrated by the drawing of a new and charming model from the showrooms of Mme. Jenny. The knee-length coat sumptuously furred with skunk and the long draped gown are of almond green velvet. Wide wing-like pieces set along the outer edge of each sleeve are an unusual detail and relieve the plain effect of an otherwise straight sleeve. The drapery at either side of the gown reaches quite to the floor, and so completes a well-balanced effect.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

Oyster Cocktail.
Beef, Toulouse.
Pink Potato Scallop.
Tiny Creamed Peas.
Head Lettuce with French Dressing.
Date Whip. Coffee.

WHAT could be more tempting for Sunday dinner than beef, Toulouse, one of those prized French recipes combining fruit flavors and giving beef a new goodness? The French are wondrously skilled in economic cookery, and this recipe is proof.

Use 5 pounds chuck roast, 1 tablespoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 2 cups bread crumbs, 1 cup currants and 1 cup chopped apples.

Sear the roast in a hot oven (about 500 degrees) until brown on all sides; sprinkle with salt and peper. Reduce heat to moderate temperature (350 degrees) and bake 1 hour. Mix bread crumbs with currants and apples and ½ cup meat juice. Remove surplus fat from roasting pan; then place dressing around meat. Cover and bake for another hour, or until the roast is tender.

PINK POTATO SCALLOP looks as lovely as it sounds, and it's as delicious as it looks. Use ¼ cup diced onion, 1½ cups boiled diced potatoes and 1½ cups tomato soup or pulp.

Parboil the onions 15 minutes, put with potatoes in layers in a baking dish. Pour soup over potatoes and onions. If tomato pulp is used, season it with salt, pepper and celery salt as for soup. Bake in a moderate oven for 30 minutes.

AND, of course, the whole family will enjoy date whip, made with ½ cup sugar, ½ cup chopped dates, ½ cup water, ½ cup chopped walnuts, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 tablespoon butter, 3 egg whites, 1 teaspoon cornstarch.

Cook sugar, dates, water and cornstarch 3 minutes. Add the chopped nuts, flavoring, butter and fold in beaten whites. Pour into a shallow, buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven, 300 degrees, for 45 minutes. Serve custard sauce with the date whip if you like.

A CHEESE OMELET makes a good luncheon dish; and when it is bordered with a cream sauce, it make an even better one!

To 1 cup of white sauce (you remember the time-honored proportions for a white sauce, don't you? One cup of milk, 2 tablespoons each of flour and butter) add ¼ pound of cream cheese, a teaspoon of salt and ½ teaspoon of paprika. Beat the yolks of 4 eggs well and add to the sauce. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites.

Melt a tablespoon of butter in a pan, pour in the egg and allow to brown on the bottom. That will take about 8 minutes, lifting the edges and shaking the pan to loosen.

Set the omelet in the oven for a minute or two, to dry. Serve garnished with dainty sprigs of parsley; and remember that an omelet, to justify its existence, must be served very hot.

NOW, how would you like a royal cheese medley? The recipe insists on ½ cup of haddock for one of the ingredients, which makes it a very suitable dish for Friday. Here's how you prepare it—combine 2 cups of rice with 2 hard-cooked eggs and ½ cup of flaked, cooked haddock.

Melt ¼ cup of butter and stir it, very hot, into the mixture with 5 tablespoons of finely chopped or ground cheese.

Sprinkle a goodly portion of finely chopped cheese over the top of the dish; dot with butter, and brown in a quick oven so as not to dry out the mixture. Serve hot.

RICE PUDDING—One-third cup of rice thoroughly washed and to the rice add 4 cups milk or 2 cups evaporated milk diluted with 2 cups of water, 1-3 cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt and the grated rind of half a lemon. Mix well and pour into a buttered baking dish, set in a pan of hot water and bake in a slow oven for 3 hours, stirring the rice several times during the cooking at first to prevent sticking. This recipe will serve eight.

BAKED RICE—One cup rice 1 cup broth, 2 cups boiling water, 2 eggs well beaten, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons grated cheese, ½ cup minced ham and ½ cup minced veal.

Cook the rice until tender in broth and boiling water to which salt has been added. Add the hot milk which has been combined with eggs and cheese. Stir well and add ham and veal. Turn into a mold, cover and bake 1 hour. To remove from mold dip in hot water, then cold and invert on a platter.

SLICES OF HAMBURG STUFFED TOMATOES—Select large, firm tomatoes; cut a slice from the top and scoop out the center. Fill with a highly seasoned hamburg mixture. Place on a greased baking dish and bake slowly for 55 minutes or until the hamburg is well cooked. This will depend on the size of the tomatoes used. Remove from the oven, partially cool, with a sharp knife cut into slices ¾ inch thick. Replace on the greased baking dish, top with crumbs and dot with butter and place in the oven until a delicate brown. Serve at once.

BANANA CAKE—Cream ½ cup of butter, and blend with 1½ cups of sugar, 2 well beaten eggs and a cup of ripe banana pulp which has been mashed through a sieve. Add 4 tablespoons sour milk in which have been dissolved 1 teaspoon soda and 1¾ cups flour into which you have sifted a teaspoon of baking powder and a pinch of salt. Beat well and add 1 cup chopped walnuts and bake in a tube cake tin in a moderate oven for 40 minutes.

* * *

ORANGE BREAD—Dissolve 1 yeast cake in ¼-cup of lukewarm water; add 1 egg, well beaten, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1 tablespoon melted lard, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, the grated rind of 2 oranges, ¾ cup orange juice and 3 cups flour. Beat until smooth, adding more flour if necessary; knead until

A new style colored glass cake plate with the purchase of two packages of Pillsbury's Cake Flour

A million women have found the flour for perfect cakes!

When more than a million women adopt a new cake flour within a single year, you may be sure that this cake flour will do some surprising things for you!

Here, at last, is a cake flour which women pronounce perfect. Baking tests show that Pillsbury's Cake Flour possesses three distinct superiorities: (1) It makes a cake that rises higher—a lighter, fluffier, more delicate cake. (2) It makes a cake with a soft, fine texture, the sort that really melts in your mouth. (3) It makes a cake that stays moist and fresh longer.

No matter how expert a cake maker you may be, you'll find a new pleasure in using this improved cake flour. Pillsbury's Cake Flour is made from a new blend of certain rare types of wheat, unusually soft, milled to a silky fineness. Test it for yourself—try it with the most delicate, difficult recipe you know—it will prove its value before you have used the first package!

Look for the above display on your grocer's counter tomorrow

Here is a new idea in cake plates—and a most sensible idea. It stands up from the table, on three little legs—you can slip your fingers under the edge, and carry your cake without touching the frosting. Also, it is perfectly flat on top—your cake cannot sag in the middle, as it sometimes does when placed on an ordinary curved plate. It is made of delicately colored glass, in a graceful, attractive design. The top carries a beautifully traced figure, worked out in light lines. It is extremely ornamental—and just as practical as it is good-looking. Your grocer will give you one free with the purchase of two packages of Pillsbury's Cake Flour.

JELLIED HAM SALAD—To 1 pint hot stock add 1 bay leaf, 1 slice onion and 2 cloves and cook for 10 minutes. Soak 1 tablespoon gelatine in 2 tablespoons cold water and dissolve in the hot stock. Cool until the gelatine mixture begins to congeal and then add 1 pound cold, boiled ham, dice, and 1 can pimentos, cut fine, and 3 tablespoons minced pickle. Turn into individual pumpkin-shaped molds that have been rinsed in cold water. Chill thoroughly. When firm, unmold on lettuce. Mask with thick mayonnaise dressing.

STEAMED BROWN BREAD—Mix and sift together 1 cup graham flour, 1 cup corn meal, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda and 1 teaspoon baking powder. Then add 2 cups sour milk and ⅔ cup of molasses. When well mixed fill buttered molds half full. Baking powder cans may be used for molds. Cover tightly and steam for 3 hours. Health Qualities Make Cheese Valuable Food

I doubt if we appreciate the protein value, the body building value of cheese. Milk and all the milk products are extremely valuable to the human family. Next to milk itself, I regard cheese as the most valuable.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Former Health Commissioner of New York City; United States Senator From New York.

IT IS to be hoped the consumption of cheese in the United States will never grow less. If I had my way we should be eating much more than we do at present.

The average American has no idea what an enormous industry the cheese business really is. How many separate and distinct varieties of cheese are there?

Before you read further please make a guess as to the number of the different kinds. How many? Ten? Twenty? Thirty? What is your guess? I really want to find out what your knowledge is in this line.

I am sure you will be amazed to know the number. I was unprepared to find that 287 varieties are described. Just before starting to write this article I read a revised bulletin of the United States Department of Agriculture and it records and describes this many varieties of cheese.

VALUABLE MILK PRODUCT

We do not begin to eat cheese in the United States as they do abroad. We consume about four pounds per person. In Switzerland it is 23 pounds; more than 13 pounds in each of the countries, Holland, France and Denmark; 9½ pounds in Germany, and about 9 pounds in England.

I doubt if we appreciate the protein value, the body-building value of cheese. We eat more meat probably than they do in the countries where cheese is more largely consumed. They get from the cheese what we get from meat.

Milk and all the milk products are extremely valuable to the human family. Among these, next to milk itself, I regard cheese as the most valuable. I do not overlook butter in saying this, and nobody could possibly have a higher regard for the fool value of butter.

Minerals, vitamins and protein substances are found in all the chesses. It is worth while for you to recall these facts.

STRENGTHENS BODY

Next time you go to the grocers take a look at his cheese supply. You cannot but become interested in the different forms, attractive packages, jars and pots of cheese. This foodstuff comes from every part of the world.

I shall be glad when the American producers do more in the cheese lines. I have been convinced for years that this is one foodstuff that we neglect. We should take a lesson from the experience of our neighbors in Europe.

For the repair and upbuilding of the body, the supply of heat and energy, the strengthening of the bones and teeth, for the good of all our tissues, indeed, cheese is capable of rendering valiant service. Think about cheese and study the different flavors and varieties.

ator to chill. Whip the cream, add lemon juice, and continue beating until the mixture is very thick. Ten add orange juice very slowly to the whipped cream, cutting and folding lightly but thoroughly as the mixture is added. Turn into cold freezing pan immediately and place in the refrigerator.

JELLIED MEAT SALAD—Two cups cooked veal, ½ pimento, ½ green pepper, ½ cup cucumber slices, 1 cup diced celery, 1 cup mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 2 tablespoons gelatin, ½ cup green peas or beans, 2 cups well seasoned stock, salt, pepper, paprika, ¼ cup cold water, 1 tablespoon minced parsley. Soak the gelatin in cold water and dissolve in hot stock. Arrange thin stripes of pimentos, rings of green peppers, and cucumber slices in the bottom and sides of a wet mold. Combine the rest of the ingredients and pour in the juice and rind of ½ lemon, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ¾ cup ground pecan meats. Line a bowl with waxed paper. Place lady fingers flat on the bottom, forming a layer. Stir butter and sugar together, add lemon juice and rind, yolks of eggs and nuts. Spread half of this mixture on top of the first layer of lady fingers, then add another layer of lady fingers. Spread another layer of the mixture, then lady fingers. Put in a cold place for several hours to mold. Turn on a serving plate, remove paper, and heap with whipped cream.

BAKED OYSTERS AND MACARONI—To 1 pint of oysters, you will need 1½ cups cooked macaroni and 1-3 cup bread crumbs. Put a layer of macaroni in the bottom of a baking dish. Cover with a layer of oysters. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, flour and dot with small pieces of butter. Repeat with another layer of macaroni and a layer of oysters. Cover the top with bread crumbs. Bake for 15 minutes in a hot oven.

APRICOT NOG—One-half cup of the juice of canned apricots mixed with 2-3 cup of top milk and a teaspoon of sugar, and the mixture beaten with a rotary beater until foamy.

This is a delicious cooling drink. The flavor is somewhat changed and improved by the addition of ½ teaspoon lemon flavoring.

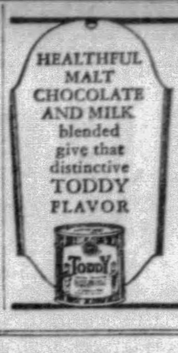
STUFFED TOMATO GALLATIN—First remove the skin from the tomato and slice tomato 1 inch thick. Cut some shrimp in small pieces and to the shrimp add equal amount of crabmeat. Marinate the crabmeat and shrimp in vinegar for about ½ hour. Squeeze the vinegar from the crabmeat and shrimp and place in a bowl. Now add finely chopped pickles, finely chopped shallots, finely chopped parsley and mix well with mayonnaise. Place this mixture loosely on top of the tomato, add just a little more mayonnaise on top and decorate with small strips of pimento.



Meal time—bed time—any time—good for the whole family. You'll enjoy it—children love it—hot or cold. Make with milk. In cans at grocers and druggists.

HASKELL MENACES BLUFFITES' RECORD

WITH Pitt and Carnegie Tech resting up for their respective meetings with Penn State and New York U. next Thursday, Duquesne University will have exclusive possession of the college football stage in Pittsburgh tomorrow afternoon, and the battle between Elmer Layden's charges and the Haskell Indians at Forbes Field promises to be worthy of the position it will occupy as the local standout of the day.

Lone Star Dietz.

It will be the first appearance here of a team representing Haskell Institute, which is located in Lawrence, Kan., but the Indian gridders are well known by reputation to football followers in this region, and the record made this year under Coach Lone Star Dietz, former Carlisle star, against North Dakota, Baker, Butler, Friends, Creighton, Loyola, of New Orleans and Kirksville Teachers, attests that the 1929 eleven is one of the best developed at the school in recent seasons.

THE game would be an unusually attractive one in itself, and it takes on added importance in the eyes of Duke followers by reason of the fact that it looms as a possible stumbling block to the success of the Bluffites in going through the season undefeated. Layden's lads have not been beaten since October 27, last year, when they lost to Geneva, 7 to 0.

Since that reverse they have played 12 games—eight of them this season—and the only one of the dozen that they failed to win was a 7-to-7 tie with West Virginia, which might well be termed a moral triumph. They will have a tough job on their hands tomorrow to keep up their great winning record against Haskell's deceptive style and to cope with the sensational Capt. Louis Weller, who will not start but who will be called in later if needed, and the other star backs who have been running wild, aided by a strong line. If the Dukes can get away with that, and at the same time save something for the hard closing game with Waynesburg next Wednesday night, they will have given their greatest performance of their greatest season.

NOTRE DAME has one more Mid-Western hurdle to clear before the Army game and a possible undefeated season. Though Purdue plays Indiana, Michigan meets Iowa, Chicago opposes Washington, and Wisconsin encounters Minnesota, Notre Dame's clash with Northwestern at Evanston will be by no means the least feature in the Middle West tomorrow.

Coach Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, who is said to be slated to succeed Charley Crowley at Columbia next year, has made a creditable record with his team this year in spite of injuries to valuable regulars.

Dick Hanley.

NORTHWESTERN has lost two games thus far, bowing to Minnesota and Indiana, but against these defeats it has beaten Ohio State, Illinois, Wisconsin, Wabash, Butler and Cornell College. That record would appear to presage trouble for the Irish tomorrow, yet there is hardly any doubt of a Notre Dame victory. Hanley will be without his best player, Hank Bruder, and besides he lacks the reserve strength boasted by Notre Dame. Knute Rockne is likely to pull his old trick of wearing down the foe with his shock troops and then rushing in the regulars to slip over the knockout.

THE East's gridiron feature tomorrow will, of course, be the forty-eighth annual tussle between Yale and Harvard at Cambridge. It doesn't mean anything in a championship sense apart from the so-called "Big Three" honors, yet it will command a lot of attention as a hard football fight and by reason of its ranking as one of the sport's oldest fixtures.

For the entire period of competition, which began in 1875, Yale holds a big lead, with 27 victories against Harvard's 14, six games having resulted in ties. Since the World War, however, Harvard has won five times to Yale's four, with one contest ending in a draw. Yale looks like the probable winner tomorrow, particularly if Albie Booth is able to play.

OUT on the Coast tomorrow there will be a possibility of an upset that may or may not affect the decision of the Tournament of Roses committee as to what Far Western team shall be selected to meet an Eastern or Mid Western opponent (perhaps Pitt) at Pasadena on New Year's Day.

California and Stanford are to meet in Palo Alto. Southern California beat Stanford, 7 to 0, and then California trimmed Southern California, 15 to 7. In consequence, California has been looked upon as the coast's best, but you know Pop Warner. He can generally win almost any game that he sets his heart on winning, and it wouldn't be at all surprising if his Stanford team were to turn around and spill the dope by downing California.

Harry McCurdy.

SOME local football men who watch things closely during a game, and who are still discussing the features of last Saturday's Pitt-Carnegie Tech event, declare that three plays about which little has been said, really ought to go into the chronicles of the meeting as standouts. One came just before Carnegie's first touchdown, when the Tartans had the ball on third down about four feet from Pitt's goal line. Morbito hit at about the position of his own right guard, but was stopped right at the line of scrimmage by none other than Joe Donchess, Pitt's left end, who broke through and nabbed him by the leg, from behind, as the lines met.

ANOTHER high spot followed on the next play, on which the Plaid scored. Carnegie's generalship on this play, with Quarterback Harry McCurdy, Monongahela boy, directing the movement, was splendid. With the ball little more than a yard from the goal line, Pitt expected nothing save a line buck, but McCurdy crossed up the Panthers with a lateral pass to Thayer Flanagan on a fake buck, which resulted in a score.

The third play pointed out is Toby Uansa's interception of McCurdy's forward pass in the first quarter, which is praised as the prettiest interception of the local season. The prospective receiver was far down the field, with no one but Toby, playing safety, between him and the goal. Uansa timed his spring and his leap to a nicety, went up into the air between the assigned receiver and the ball, grabbed the leather and made a nice run-back.

IN New York tonight they're going to make another attempt to bring out the logical fighter to meet Mickey Walker for the world middleweight championship. They do that rather often in the East. Bringing out the "logical contender" is the easiest part of the undertaking.

The tough end of the job comes when they try to get Mr. Walker

TEAMS PRIMED FOR CITY TITLE GRID GAME

The Lineup

Schenley.	Pos.	South Hills.
Slusser (C)	L.E.	Riske
Webb	L.T.	Craig
Rembert	L.G.	Sell
Smith	C.	Brown
Boyd	R.G.	Macellaro
Kholos	R.T.	Bloom
Bankowiski	R.E.	Ganter
Mawhinney	Q.B.	Regan
Powell	L.H.	Garnham
Donohue	R.H.	Ladley
Mihm	F.B.	Jones

Officials—A. L. Walsh, Paul Johnson, Howard Dosey.

The City League football championship hangs in balance today as the rival forces of Schenley and South Hills clash in the Stadium, carrying the banners of Section I and Section II into the annual city classic.

Today's attempt to capture the title is South Hills' second in as many years, the Section II champs having battled Westinghouse last season for the gonfalon—with little success. On the short end in that game, the Hillsmen are back in the fight again today, again the under dogs but conceded a better chance of coming through on top against the Bellefielders than they had against Westinghouse.

EXCELLENT RECORDS

Schenley toppled Westinghouse from the Section I running last week by beating the Silver Lakers, 12-0. The victory ended the regular season for Coach Gross' eleven, which came through the campaign with four City League victories and one tie. Dormont, Oliver, Fifth Avenue and Westinghouse were beaten and Peabody tied.

South Hills, tied by Carrick, won over Perry, Langley, Allegheny and Oliver. Carrick gave the Majeskiemen a stubborn fight and came within a few yards of pushing a touchdown across in the final period. South Hills' defense tightened and thwarted the attempt of the Carrick team to end its rule in Section II.

Today's game may develop into a duel between two fine fullbacks, Joe Mihm of Schenley and Dickie Jones, South Hills ace. Schenley has two other backfield threats considered superior to any men in the backfield of the Hillsmen, Jackie Powell, elusive and fast stepping little halfback, and Donaghue, a big fellow and a hard runner.

AVALON AT BELLEVUE

Stars of the caliber of Riske, last year an all-scholastic halfback; Jones, Garnham, Ladley, Macellaro and Craig, are expected to give the Schenley offensive a lot of trouble . . . and may turn the tide of battle in South Hills' favor.

The game will start at 3 o'clock.

The annual Bellevue - Avalon game, a North Boroughs classic, will be fought out this afternoon on the Bellevue gridiron. The kick-off is slated for 3:30.

A pair of South Hills district rivals will clash this afternoon in a game offering much promise in the way of stirring action as Dormont and Mt. Lebanon battle on the Dormont gridiron. This kick-off is slated for 3 o'clock.

McKeesport meets Elizabeth at McKeesport.

RANGERS WIN OVER MAROONS

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—The New York Rangers outfought the Montreal Maroons last night to score their second 2-to-1 victory of the year over their Stanley Cup rivals of two seasons ago.

Two brilliant bits of individual skating and shooting gave the Rangers their narrow margin in the struggle between two perfectly matched teams. Paul Thompson, took the puck down in the middle of the first period to beat Walsh for the opening score. Leo Bourgeault, chunky little defense star, tallied the winning goal in the second period, after Babe Siebert and Nels Stewart had combined to tie the count for Montreal. The lineup:

N. Y. Rangers.		Montreal Maroons.
Roach	G.	Walsh
Bourgeault	R.D.	Dutton
Johnson	L.D.	G. Boucher
P. Boucher		Phillips
W. Cook	R.W.	Ward

Ranger Spares—Thompson, Murdoch, Keeling, Foster, Queeneville, Vail, Goldsworthy.

Maroon Spares—Munro, Smith Stewart.

YESTERDAY'S ANSWERS—THE MAN WHO FOUND HIS OWN GRAVE: John F. Bartells, of Alma, Neb., returned home to find his own grave. The headstone bore his name, but the buried body was that of another. It seemed that Bartells disappeared 28 years ago after a family disagreement and returned only recently. In the meantime, his wife had thought him dead and was mourning another in his grave.

THE AGELESS SOUP: The mastodon roamed our globe in prehistoric ages upward of about 50,000 years ago. It is the ancestor of our elephant, chiefly distinguished by its dentition. It fed on trees and assuaged its thirst by emptying a small brook each time. The paleonthogist Gimbernat redistilled the ancient ingredients which the mastodon had assimilated.

SHOCK TROOPS NOT TO START FOR DUKES

By JESS CARVER.

The wild and wooly Haskell Indians kicked the lid off the football whoopee pot here today, putting in an early appearance in this city, a day in advance of their meeting with the Duquesne University Dukes. The Injuns and Dukes have the local field all to themselves for their battle at Forbes Field tomorrow, both Pitt and Tech being idle.

Jim Grant.

Lone Star Dietz, colorful mentor of the Indians, led his braves into the burg at 8:15 this morning, established 'em in their hotel and then, after breakfast, took them for a short sight-seeing trip about the city. I don't know whether or not the sight-seeing was for the benefit of the Indians or the folks of Pittsburgh. Probably both.

With the advent of the Indians here, eleventh hour interest in the game is expected to mount. They won't sell out Forbes Field tomorrow, but with a good day, should put close to 25,000 into the stands.

TEAM BOASTS STARS

Haskell is bringing something beside a colorful squad here. The Indians are real football players, have an honest-to-goodness record and boast two men who have been mentioned in the past on all-America teams.

The offensive ace of the team is Lou Weller, a Cadd brave, with a tribal monicker of Little Rabbit. Jim (Buggsy) Grant and Gene Fritz (Long Knives), a Cherokee, are powers on the line. Grant plays an end, Fritz a tackle.

Coach Layden of the Dukes has decided not to start shock troops tomorrow, which makes this correspondent look very, very bad (I said yesterday he would) and will use his regulars. He is figuring on having Murphy and Pratt at the ends, Skender and Kemp at tackles, Clark and Kelleher at guards, Lally or Silverstein at center and McCarthy, Benedict, Kovalcheck and Capt. Donnelli in the backfield.

PIRATE-RANGER TILT TO MAKE FRIENDS FOES

By CARL W. SHATTO

It won't be a case of biting the hand that's feeding you, but it will be a case of a man trying to flatten the gent who brought him to the front when New York Rangers meet the Pirate icemen at Duquesne Garden tomorrow night.

Les Patrick

Back in 1920, a tall, sturdy young man appeared at the headquarters of the Victoria Club of the Pacific Coast Hockey League and asked to be given a tryout with the Victoria skaters. He said that he had shown considerable promise as an amateur, and thought that he was ready for faster company.

GIVES ROOKIE CHANCE

The Victoria manager, a middle-aged man with a very pleasing personality, heard the young amateur's plea, gave an approving glance at the rookie's physical makeup, and told him to don his skates and do his stuff.

In the workout that followed the young amateur showed so much promise at center that the Victoria manager decided to tender him a contract.

For five years the veteran manager, one of the smartest in the history of the ice sport, taught his young center the fine points of the game and encouraged him in his climb to the top, and when they parted company the center was generally regarded as the most skillful performer at his position in all hockeydom.

FRIENDS NOW FOES

HEAVIES TOP MOOSE CARD TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

The first heavyweight main bout ever to be put on by Promoter Francis Flynn in his two seasons at the Moose Temple is scheduled for tonight, when he has Johnny Ryan, of Lawrenceville, formerly known as Johnny Urban, in against Young Jack Dempsey, of Conneaut, O., for 10 rounds. Dempsey also he is known as Tiny DeBolt, and, indeed, 'tis said he does his best fighting as DeBolt. This, however, may be merely imagination.

Ryan, a brother of Jack Burke, the former national amateur light-heavyweight champion, and later sparring partner of Jack Dempsey, will be making his first appearance as a professional in his home town, although he has fought in many spots around the country. He has acted as a sparring partner for Jack Sharkey, and among the notables he has fought are Young Stribling, K. O. Christner, Pietro Corri, Ted Sandwina, Harry Fay, Yale Okun, Tom Roper, Clem Johnson and Benny Touchstone. Dempsey has fought throughout the Tri-State territory and scored a knockout in his lone appearance in the Meyers Bowl during the outdoor season. Among his knockout victims has been big Jack Wells.

Flynn has one of his best preliminary cards of the season arranged for tonight. Allen Beatty is in with Johnny Piai in the semi-final, Nick Polis with Chuck Zelnack in the second bout, and Bus Hardy with Red Hartley in the opener.

BIG DISTRICT LEAGUE SOCCER TILTS CARDED

CLAN DOUGLAS MEETS ROVERS TOMORROW

By TOM BIRKS

The outstanding soccer battles tomorrow will be played in the Pittsburgh District League. Inasmuch as the American League has proved a flop, it is evident the followers of the kicking code will have to follow the District League and cup ties this season for real games. The games will be flashed at Leslie Park, Homewood Playgrounds and the Swissvale field.

The league-leading Douglas eleven will do its stuff opposed to the Pittsburgh Rovers, and, seeing that the clan aggregation was bumped off at Leslie Park in the cup ties against the Celtics, there is a chance that the Rovers will step out of their trance and give the Mincher team a good game.

DOUGLAS READY

The defeat of Douglas at Leslie Park was the surprise of the season, and Douglas hardly will be caught napping again. Douglas has perfected a wonderful defense. The league standing shows that in six games only three goals have been scored on the clan. The forward line also is functioning, having scored 11 goals.

At Swissvale, Union Switch makes another effort to go into the league leadership, which they will do if they win and Celtics and Douglas lose. Hennigan and Angus McNair are getting goals, and Jack Thomas has a good defense, so Switch should win.

SOCCER IN BAD WAY

Soccer must be getting in a bad way locally. The fact that Heidelberg is not operating and bringing shekels into the coffers of the local governing body does not appear to worry them in the least. But soccer men who have more than a passing interest in teams are having a tough time with two elements playing against each other. Not one league schedule for the season has been printed, and soccer managers are faced with a revision of games each week.

The element supporting the District League will not announce the Chartiers Valley League games, and the element supporting the Chartiers Valley loop, to keep up their end of this political playing game, will not announce the District League games, aside from the club it is interested in.

In this game of battledore and shuttlecock, the managers are investing their hard-earned coin and holding the bag.

Possibly the next announcement will be that no league games will be played either Turkey Day or Christmas Day. Both days will be held over for the playing of the semi-final games of the cup ties, so that a generous percentage of the gate goes to organized soccer.

PILOTS LIKE IT

Meanwhile, most of the clubs depending upon these games to pull them out of the hole in their league will be told to lay off. Yes, it is a merry game, and the managers are keen about it.

Steve Horlick, soccer booster in the Ohio Valley, states that the Beaver Valley League is going over in a big way, and that the entrance of the Midland Club into that loop was a good break for the league. Crucible Steel is playing great ball and giving Beaver Falls a real battle for honors. Horlick believes Ambridge will be in the race before the season is much older.

Club, of Lawrenceville, and Al Sands A. C., of Uniontown. Fred (Fritzie) Zivic, young brother of Jack and Pete Zivic, makes his bow to the public against George Derogi in a special 106-pound bout. Other bouts on the program, with the Willow Club boxers named first, are: 112 pounds, Lou Sampson vs. Sammy Julian; 118 pounds, Mose Butch vs. Frank Rossans; 126 pounds, Harold Taylor vs. Don Asto; 135 pounds, Bob McCormick vs. Jimmy Giannatti; 147 pounds, Al Becker vs. Paul Sloboda; 160 pounds, Manny Letsch vs. Carl Cesko; 175 pounds, Mike Chomyak vs. Alvin Turner, and heavyweight, John Och vs. Swift Yelonosky.

Between Rounds

Jack Zivic is training diligently for his battle with Tiger Joe Randall in the windup at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. He wants to get past the Negro puncher and re-establish himself as an attraction here. These are busy days for the Zivic brothers. In addition to Jack's bout at the Garden, Pete boxed Pee Wee Kaiser at St. Louis last night, while Fritzie is on the Keystone Club amateur card tonight.

Joey Katkish injured a hand in his bout with Romeo Pacelli at New Castle last Monday night and will not be able to go through with his match with Johnny Haggerty in the second bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night.

There will be no boxing show at McKeesport next Thursday night. A Thanksgiving night dance is scheduled instead in the Palisades arena.

In suspending Young Jack Thompson indefinitely for his poor showing against Billy White at Motor Square Garden last Monday night, the Boxing Commission exonerates White, believing that the latter did his best but figured to be outclassed by his opponent, who began to hold him up after a rousing opening round. Thompson merited punishment, for his showing didn't do the game here any good.

The Tony Canzoneri-Jack (Kid) Berg bout in New York's Madison Square Garden, has been re-scheduled for January 17.

A bout with George Hoffman, former national amateur champion, on the Christmas fund card in New York, December 9, awaits the winner in tonight's Emmett Rocco-Marty Gallagher heavyweight battle in Boston.

Willie Davies' bout with Steve Rocco, in the Canadian flyweight tournament at Toronto, has been postponed from tonight until December 2. Black Bill, who recently eliminated Davies from the New York tournament, boxes Gene Huat, the French star, in the semi-final round of the latter elimination in Madison Square Garden tonight, on the same card with Rene DeVos and Harry Ebbets.

Battling Gizzy, of Washington, and Ray Collins, of Erie, have been matched to box the windup at Washington, Pa., next Monday night.

to consent to a title meeting, though Mickey did go along last time by meeting and beating Ace Hudkins twice after the latter had defeated Rene DeVos for the challenging rights. At present Walker is under suspension in New York, but the promoters hope to get him reinstated for a bout with tonight's winner.

Rene DeVos.

THE principals on this occasion will be DeVos again and Harry Ebbets, one of the hardest punchers in the game. It's a case of sink or swim for DeVos this time. Many concede that he was jobbed when he lost to Doc Conrad, an obscure New Jersey battler, last week, but without counting that affair his work has been far from impressive. If Rene loses tonight's 10-rounder it will mean his elimination from the championship field. He has the edge in all-around class and experience, but Ebbets carries a terrific slam that will give him a chance all the way if he can ever land it fairly.

LIGHTHORSE HARRY has been recognized as a real hitter ever since his lightweight days. As a middleweight he has knocked out Izzy Grove, Johnny Burns (who stayed the limit of 10 rounds with DeVos) and Nick Testo.

A promising 10-round bout on the same program tonight will bring together in one of the flyweight series semi-finals Black Bill, who defeated Willie Davies, and Eugene Huat, who handed such a beating to Izzy Schwartz that the latter quit the ring.

BUCS MAY SWING DEALS AT BIG CONFABS

MANAGER ENS LOOKS TO NEW MATERIAL

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

The annual winter meetings of baseball's vast domain will get under way at Chattanooga, Tenn., one week from Tuesday.

Jewel Ens.

The Tennessee city will be hosts to the hundreds of minor league officials who will have set December 3, 4 and 5 as the dates for their yearly convention. Scores of major league operatives also will attend.

At the conclusion of this meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, an even larger number will head for New York where the bigger events will take place. The National League will hold its annual meeting December 10 and 11 and will then get together on the following day in the joint major league gathering, with Judge Landis in the chair.

BUCS TO ATTEND

The Whitehead-Work combination of the Pittsburgh club will attempt to finesse a few grand slams through the guards of others sitting in on the big winter game. Manager Jewel Ens and Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss expect to be in the front row at Chattanooga and New York when the trade talk begins to pop.

Ens and Dreyfuss have hopes of doing business in the widely-seperated cities. They seek one or two Class AA performers, whose employers will be close by. Perhaps the minor conclave will bring something to a head.

The Pittsburghers also are anxious to do some business on a straight major league basis. Manager Ens has designs on several players and the pilots of many other teams are just as eager to attempt a "David Harum."

Trades and trade talk are likely to take the play from everything else that is accomplished at the sessions, although other interesting developments are predicted. The matter of the schedule is almost sure to be the subject of a warm controversy.

SCHEDULE CONTROVERSY

The major league drafts of last season caused a lot of adverse criticism, the complaints being chiefly directed at the idle dates. The change to a later opening date seems to have general approval but there is a wide difference of opinion on the time of closing the season.

Those magnates who argue for a late close appear to have scored a point in their favor as a result of the fine weather that prevailed in Philadelphia as the last three battles of the world series were staged. The climate was delightful. True, the atmosphere was too cold for comfort in Chicago, but it might have been the same a week in advance in the windy lake city.

AINSMITH STOPS OFF

Catcher Eddie Ainsmith and Pitcher Leon Cadore, former major-league performers, passed through Pittsburgh this week en route by auto to New York. Ainsmith let it be known to his friends that he will umpire next year in the Southern Association.

JONES PICKS HARVARD TO TRIP YALE

FORDHAM, IOWA AND ILLINOIS FAVORED

By CAPT. (BIFF) JONES
Head Football Coach, U. S. Military Academy.

Tomorrow finds most of the college football teams winding up a hectic season. Practically all those which do not finish are resting for the final assault on Thanksgiving Day.

In the east all eyes are focused on Cambridge, where Harvard and Yale play their traditional game. Both of these teams have been beaten this year, but this does not detract from interest or popularity of the game. Both of these teams this year lean decidedly to the offensive rather than the defensive. Spectators will see a lot of fireworks. Harvard leans more to the open type of game, being adept at both the forward and lateral pass. Yale's lateral pass is not nearly so dangerous as Harvard's, nor can Yale produce a forward passer of the caliber of either Wood or Putnam.

Capt. Jones.

On the other hand, for sheer power, Yale has shown to better advantage, and in Albie Booth has a fast, shifty back who likes inside plays as well as flank plays and handles both very well. All in all, I consider the two teams extremely well matched. I think Harvard's chances in the game are slightly better than Yale's, due to the fact that Yale had a harder game last Saturday than Harvard.

Another traditional game in the East is Lafayette-Lehigh. Lehigh has one of its strongest teams in many years, but does not look good enough to win.

FORDHAM PICKED TO WIN

N. Y. U. is too strong for Rutgers. Fordham should have difficulty with Bucknell, but should win by a touchdown.

Army is likely to catch a tartar in Ohio Wesleyan. The westerners are bringing practically the same team that beat Michigan and Syracuse last year. Army is expecting a battle.

The hardest game of the day in the Western Conference appears to be the Wisconsin-Minnesota game at Minneapolis. Wisconsin, of whom so much was expected, this year has won only one Conference game—Chicago. Minnesota knocked them out of a Conference championship last year in a close game. This is the game for Wisconsin to play with abandon. They laid off last Saturday, so should be in great physical trim. I think Wisconsin will play its best game of the year, but I do not think this will be good enough to beat Minnesota.

Illinois should beat Ohio State. The latter has not shown enough consistent attack strength to bother the strong, experienced Illinois defense. If Illinois has a defensive weakness it hasn't been found this year. And there is plenty of offensive strength with Timm, Peters, Humbert, Yanuskus, et al. behind the line for Illinois.

PURDUE, IOWA FAVORED

Purdue, with Harmeson and Welch, should experience little trouble with Indiana.

Iowa after raising more or less trouble with its conference foes this year, seems due to finish off a very satisfactory season by trimming Michigan.

Northwestern, having completed its conference schedule, closes its season by playing Notre Dame. Northwestern, although it has made a remarkable showing in the conference after disheartening handicaps, does not have enough to stop the Notre Dame outfit this year.

Washington makes the long jump to Chicago. The work of the former has been inconsistent, while Coach Stagg's team has shown steady development. I pick Chicago by a close score.

Detroit should beat Oregon State by several touchdowns.

A crucial battle involving the Coast championship will take place at Palo Alto. California has had a great year, but I do not figure their stout defense to hold Stanford. The latter should win.

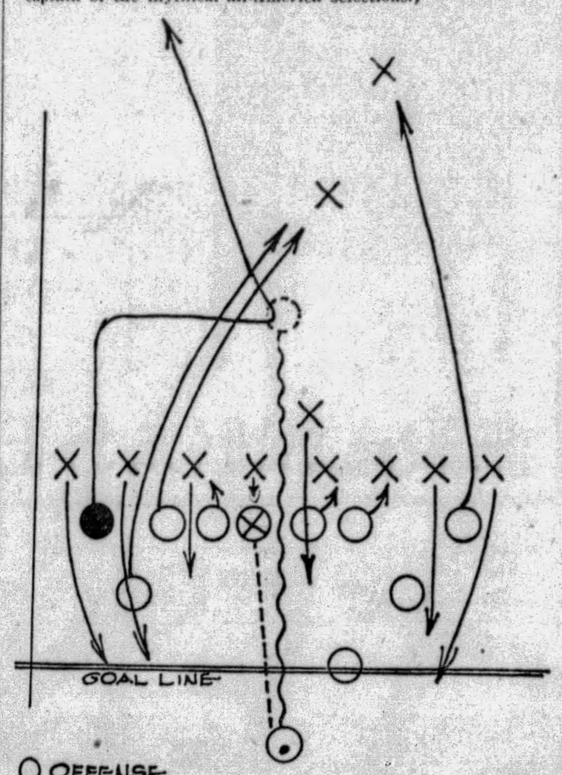
Football Strategy

By Howard Harpster

All-America Quarterback, 1928

(Note.—Harpster, as the quarterback of the Carnegie Tech eleven last fall, gained national recognition as one of the most brilliant leaders of all time in the football realm. Experts hailed him as "the player with the mind of a coach." He captained the All-East team that defeated the All-West team in California at the end of the season and was generally picked as captain of the mythical all-America selections.)



NO. 23—MOST FAMOUS FORWARD PASS OF 1920

THIS play was called from behind the goal line by Penn State in its game with Pitt in 1920. Hess, who was back in kick formation, threw the pass and Bob Higgins, State's great end, caught the ball and ran for a touchdown. The Pitt team had been told by scouts that Hess never passed and was caught out of position on the play. The scouts were right, for this play was Hess' first attempt at a forward pass.

PIRATES AWAIT RANGERS

young center his chance back in 1920 is Lester Patrick, now manager of the New York Rangers, and the young center who achieved stardom under Patrick's guidance is Frank Frederickson, now player-manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Frederickson and Patrick still are close friends, but they will not permit their friendship to influence their actions when they lead their clubs into battle against each other tomorrow. Ranger-Pirate battles in the past ever have been fast, keenly-contested duels, and tomorrow's contest probably will be an engagement of the same nature.

Indications are that the Bucs will be without the services of one of their stars when they meet the New York puckmen. Jerry Lowrey's sprained ankle has become so badly swollen that Dr. Wuerthele, club physician, has advised that he remian off the ice for an indefinite period.

YOUNG RUDY VICTOR OVER WOLGAST

Despite the fact he scored two knockdowns, both for counts of nine, Young Rudy, of Charleroi, had a tough time with Al Wolgast, of Holland, Mich., brother of the famous Ad Wolgast, last night in the main bout of 10 rounds at the Palisade, McKeesport. Rudy grabbed off the unanimous decision of both judges, only because of an early lead that he piled up over his mid-west opponent.

TAKES EARLY LEAD

A beautiful one-two to Wolgast's head early in the second round floored the Michigan battler for a count of nine and it looked like curtains for him. However, glassy-eyed and dizzy from the effects of the knockdown, Wolgast lasted throughout the remainder of the session, although he absorbed plenty of punishment. He continued to stay on the short end throughout the third, fourth and fifth rounds, going down for another count of nine from a hard left hook to the jaw in the fifth.

During the early rounds, Rudy kept punching away to Wolgast's head with his right, but he did not appear aggresive enough to impress the fans with his ability.

Aside from the knockdowns, Rudy did not appear to have much on Wolgast. He weighed 147¼, while the Michigan boy came in at 144.

In the semi-final of six rounds, Young Angelo, of Swissvale, won the decision of Referee Jimmy McLaughlin over Tony Leone, of Dover, O., after the judges, Jock Simko and Frank Ferris, had disagreed. Simco voted for Angelo, while Ferris cast his ballot for Leone. Leone excelled in the earlier rounds by his body blows, which caused Angelo no little amount of worry. In the late sessions, Angelo became the aggressive slugging type and punched his way to the lead. Angelo weighed 128¼, while Leone scaled 128.

CERTO STOPS BAKAY

Matty Bakay, of McKeesport, attempted a comeback in the second bout against Stanley Certo, tough Monessen slugger, but went down three times within one minute and 10 seconds and the bout was stopped. Certo weighed 154¾ and Bakay 157¼.

Sporting a 6½-pound weight advantage, Jimmy Thomas, Pittsburgh Negro bantam, knocked out Johnny Edwards, of Huntington, W. Va., after two minutes and 10 seconds of fighting in the third round. Thomas weighed 116 and Edwards 119½.

WITH THE BETTORS

The boys are betting close to even on Harvard and Yale; odds on Notre Dame over Northwestern; Bucknell to beat Fordham; New York U. to take Rutgers and Western Maryland to sock St. Francis. If you had a grand out in California, you'd bet it at about 10 to 9 against Stanford—or you wouldn't bet.

CHAMPION JOE QUINN DIES

Champion Joe Quinn, 30 years ago a popular figure in amateur boxing circles, highly respected in Canada as well as this country, died Tuesday night at the National Military Home in Dayton, O., and will be buried from the Flannery mortuary at 8:30 and the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church here tomorrow morning. Interment will be in the Calvary Cemetery.

Born April 30, 1873, in Philadelphia, Quinn came to this city with his parents when still a youngster. He is survived by two sisters, Anna R. Quinn and Mrs. W. W. Pfabe, both of Washington, Pa., and four brothers, John H., Peter F., Robert C. and George D., all of Pittsburgh.

Thirty-six years ago Champion Joe held the amateur lightweight titles of the United States and Canada. He retired from the ring without a single defeat marring his career. He was a member of the old Bedford Club, organized by him in 1893, after he left the Emerald Club of the South Side.

Schradertown Band Fan Among Radio Features

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

GUS has his horoscope read by the mysterious Madame Zabo in tonight's episode of the Schradertown Brass Band. There will be more about the string of pearls and the Widow Biddle when WCAE takes the air at 9:30 p. m.

Continuing their high - class programs featuring the best radio artists in the city, the Retail Credit Bureau will present Virginia Harmon, soprano, as guest soloist. Howard Harpster, all-American quarterback last year will talk. Miss Harmon will sing "Love's Old Sweet Song," "I'll Close My Eyes to the Rest of the World," "Painting the Clouds with Sunshine" and "Where the Sweet Forget-Me-Nots Remember." The program will be broadcast by WCAE at 7:30.

"Thank God for a Garden" and "Turkey in the Straw" will be included in the Interwoven program at 9 through KDKA. Half an hour later the Philco cast will do the last scene of "Mlle. Modiste."

We Now Present

RADIO RALPH'S PERSONAL KOLUM:

Robert M. Lloyd, of 175 Allegheny avenue, Emsworth, reports that he has established daily short wave communication with Commander Richard Byrd and his crew in Little America.

Back in town after a business trip to the big city, Frederick G. Rodgers handled the Komble and Mills program last night.

Elsie Breese Mitchell will sing for WCAE this Sunday.

Dick Powell is all paint and feathers preparing for his Pow Wow stage show next week, dedicated to the radio audience.

Helen Douglass, "Ma" in the Singing School, is a sweet lass of not many summers.

Jim Hughes is planning to revive his German Band for WJAS.

We think No. 3 was Esther Edmundson and No. 24 was Julius Huehn in the Atwater Kent Audition.

"Art" Brown, operator at WCAE, takes an individual interest in every artist before the microphone He studies their technique and often gives valuable suggestions

FODAY'S TID BIT:

Fifteen thousand letters protesting the change in time of Amos 'n' Andy were received in one day by the sponsors of the blackface comedy team. Western fans get the feature at 5 and 6 o'clock, too early to be interesting, they say.

Enchantress Captures King.

How the Marquise de Montespan captured the heart of the grand monarch, Louis XIV of France, will be dramatized.

The Marquise de Montespan, whose beauty was called faultless even by her enemies, set out at the age of 27 to attract the king. She chose the psychological moment to flash her dazzling beauty and brilliant wit before him, for as his prestige throughout Europe increased, he became more proud and cared less for true affection. Before Louis discovered that the Marquise was resorting to black magic to retain his love she had cost him more than any royal mistress.

He clothed her in filmy cloth of gold, he levied heavy taxes to pay for the festivals given in her honor, and finally he presented her with a country house which was an exact replica in miniature of the luxurious palace of Versailles.

Near Nashville, Tenn., an accident to the car in which Mary and Bob are riding leaves them stranded near a rambling farmhouse in the foothills of the higher Alleghenies in which an old-fashioned wedding celebration is in progress.

The story told Mary and Bob at this time concerns one of the world's unsung heroines. A cripple, she had battled for happiness against a most disheartening physical handicap, and fought the fiercest of enemies, an unkind father. How she won her happiness provides thrilling inspiration to all who find life discouragingly difficult.

French Cook Surprises.
The detective story radio serial based upon the schemes of underworld thieves to possess the famous Denby Diamonds, finds Sally, Margot Hemingway and young Robert Brooke struggling under the influence of a hypnotic gas as this episode opens.
Prof. Montegle, the leader of the crook gang, has released the gas to get the group in his power. Bert Hanrahan, attempting a rescue, is overcome also and the absence of Emerson Renwick, great criminologist, is keenly felt.
Little Alice Denby, heiress of the Denby fortune, is held prisoner by Fragoni, Montegle's henchman, and it appears that the professor's schemes are about to succeed. However he has failed to reckon with Bob Brooke's new cook, an eccentric Frenchman calling himself Pierre Lamartine Savarin. He has interested himself in his new master's fortunes. The cook is revealed in a strange role just as another fiendish device of Prof. Montegle is called into play.

The story of Phil Klipp, chief wireless operator, S. S. Pres. Harding (1923)

"Remember the horrors of Russia back in '22? Well, the lives of 30,000 people depended on my Brandes head phones. At that time I was aboard the S. S. Bellingham, discharging relief cargoes of grain for the city of Theodosia on the Black Sea. Telephone wires — cable wires — the Bolsheviks had destroyed them all. Our only means of communication with the American Relief headquarters in Constantinople, 450 miles away, were my wireless and Brandes head phones. In 12 days, I sent 185,000 words. If my Brandes head phones had gone dead on me — for only a day — ! Well — now you know why anything that carries the name of Brandes stands aces high with me. That new set is a wonder — and such a low price!"

Coughs

ACTIVE, frisky little bodies—bubbling with stored-up energy—heedless of cold—indifferent to small discomforts—it seems incredible that they should ever tire—or lose zest for play—or become a prey to any kind of germ.

Yet how easily even these same healthy, resilient little bodies are exhausted by a cough! How quickly they lose weight—their rosy color leaves them.

That is why mothers are so fearful of a cough. For coughing uses up her youngsters' energy more quickly than almost any other bodily exertion.

And doctors advise: Check Coughs At The Start. Don't Let Them Weaken You. Pertussin brings quick relief because it gets at the immediate cause. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritation and quiets the cough, yet it is entirely harmless. That's why it is safer to use Pertussin.

Unlike many other cough remedies, it contains no dope or harmful drugs. Doctors have prescribed Pertussin more often than any other advertised cough remedy.

NEVER TOO TIRED!

REMEMBER: Don't let a cough hang on. Keep a bottle of Pertussin handy at all times. It will bring prompt and safe relief for the coughs of every member of the family. It will not disturb digestion or upset the stomach. Sold by all druggists.

Rail Efficiency Helps Stabilization

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

INCREASED railway efficiency is proving to be one of the greatest factors in business stability. In these days of shattered confidence, students of the situation agree that if business is falling into a depression it is not likely to be exceptionally severe or of particularly long duration. The fact that inventories are small is the basis for this belief. Good rail service has made low inventories possible.

In the past, business disturbances were invariably accentuated by huge stocks of materials and finished products. These supplies had to be moved into consumption before production could take a new lease on life. The shutting down of production cut buying power and made the liquidation of inventories increasingly difficult. The action of such a vicious circle resulted in falling prices. Corporations had to write off huge losses on the contents of their warehouses.

Not only were past depressions more severe than those of the future are likely to be but they were more lasting and the losses and business failures were far greater.

Carriers Responsible

THE big inventories of the past were not altogether due to shortsighted policies. It took so much longer to get freight shipments and the movement of commodities was so often interrupted by car shortages and railroad embargoes that business was compelled to carry heavy stocks of both materials and finished products.

But recent years have seen an abrupt change. Car shortages seldom occur. The time needed for transportation has been cut from weeks to days. The railroads have made hand-to-mouth buying possible. It was first deplored by many businessmen, but more recently it has been hailed as a blessing.

The lesson of 1920 and 1921 made business quick to take advantage of fast transportation. Besides supplying a good amount of depression insurance the railroads have saved business millions in interest charges. With less money tied up in stocks in warehouses and on freight cars industry has needed less credit. Ten years ago nearly all large corporations were heavy borrowers from banks. Today the use of bank credit by the leading corporations, except for short periods, is an exceptional rather than a general practice.

Efficiency Greater

AT present the railroads of the country are being operated at the highest level of efficiency ever achieved. This follows a progressive increase in efficiency for the past seven years, according to a report of the Bureau of Railway Economics submitted to the annual meeting of the American Railway Association in Chicago yesterday.

"Railways of the United States," according to the report, "have greatly increased the effectiveness of their operations since the close of the federal control period. Their general efficiency has shown a progressive increase, year by year, since 1922, and stood at a higher level in 1928 than in any previous year. Further advance has occurred in 1929, the first nine months showing an improvement of more than 3 per cent over 1928.

"An index of railway operating efficiency, based on 13 commonly utilized factors of performance, shows that, compared with the average for the period from 1920 to 1924, taken as 100, the index figure for the nine-month period this year was 121.6.

"In respect to 11 of these 13 factors, the performance shown for the first nine months of 1929 was the best on record. The two sole exceptions were the percentages for serviceable freight locomotives and the percentage of serviceable freight cars.

Reserve Motive Power

"DESPITE the apparent retrogression in the physical condition of locomotives, assigned to freight service, the carriers during the same period maintained a large surplus of reserve of motive power. From the beginning of 1929 to the end of September, for example, the railways had in reserve a daily average of 5,459 locomotives of all types, in serviceable condition and ready for traffic whenever the demand should come.

"The railways also had in reserve during the same period a daily average of 227,433 freight cars, showing that both motive power and freight car capacity was well protected against sudden or emergency demands. Car shortages remained, as in recent years, at a negligible minimum.

"By speeding the wheels of their locomotives, by converting car shortages into surpluses, and by improvement in many other factors of operating efficiency, railway performance has quickened the pulse of industry, has helped to stabilize buying and selling, has enabled producers and merchants to reduce inventories, and has made a vital contribution to the economic progress of the nation."

Business Sound In New England

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—Soundness of New England's economic and financial structure and confidence in its ability to continue in its present prosperity were stressed in speeches made before the fifth New England conference at its first general session held at the Hotel Statler here. Satisfaction at prosperity of New England industries generally during the past year was the keynote of the session, and members were urged to co-operate in every possible manner for continuance of its well being.

The year 1929 has been a record of achievement in Rhode Island, according to Gov. Norman S. Case, of that state. He expressed confidence and approbation of New England Council's New England farm marketing program.

Missouri Pipe Line Starts Oil Delivery

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Delivery of oil by Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company to the Ohio Oil Company was begun in Kentucky from two new wells on a 1,000-acre Missouri-Kansas tract in Muhlenberg County. Frank P. Parish, president, stated that geologists have advised him deliveries from this lease alone eventually will reach 2,000 barrels a day. The oil, a good grade of "sweet" and of higher than 36 per cent specific gravity, is bringing approximately $1.85 a barrel at the presentt time.

The Missouri-Kansas oil property in Kentucky is near the town of Greenville. Drillers topped pay sand at 1,650 feet and after drilling in six feet, oil filled the hole 1,400 feet.

COPPER MARKET IS QUIET

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Outstanding in the market for nonferrous metals in the past week was the activity in lead, the sales volume of this metal for the period being well above the average, Engineering and Mining Journal reports. Copper, zinc and tin remained quiet. So far as prices were concerned, no important changes took place. Copper producers were firm in maintaining the market at 18 cents. Lead is in a strong position. Zinc sold in a small way at a decline of 5 points, although the price reduction was by no means general.

Although copper demand was dull throughout the week, producers feel that they have the market well in hand and that business will pick up shortly, especially for export. The better feeling in Wall Street, coupled with constrctive developments in Washington, helped matters considerably, but the improved sentiment has not resulted in a resumption of buying. The appearance of some resale copper at slight concessions attracted widespread attention. The second-hand offerings, however, were not sufficient in volume to bring about a change in the general situation.

STOCK PRICES MIXED AFTER EARLY RISE

Profit-Taking in Recent Strong Issues Gives Market Irregular Tone

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—The recovery in stock prices was resumed at the opening of today's market under the stimulus of an unexpectedly large decrease of $585,000,000 in Federal Reserve brokers' loans. Underwood Elliott Fisher jumped 4 points on the first sale, Western Union 3, St. Louis Southwestern 2¼ and American Tobacco B. International Telephone, National Cash Register and American and Foreign Power advanced a point or two. Westinghouse Electric dropped a point.

The market turned irregular soon after the opening when heavy profit-taking developed in a number of recent strong spots. The selling apparently was based on the belief that the market was entitled to a technical reaction after three days of steadily advancing prices and restricted short selling.

Air Reduction, which ran up nearly 18 points yesterday, quickly fell back more than 5 points. United States Freight dropped 4½ and Union Pacific, Atchison, Mack Trucks, Union Carbide and Standard Oil of California yielded a point or two.

J. I. Case jumped 6½ points and Standard Gas and Electric, Louisville Gas and Electric, Safeway Stores, United Carbon, Lambert and New York Central sold 2 or more points higher. Among the many issues to advance a point or so were Erie, General Electric, North American Company, United States Industrial Alcohol and Public Service of New Jersey.

Foreign exchanges opened steady, with sterling cables unchanged at $4.87⅝.

Stock Exchange Topics

Chain Store Stocks Are Showing Upward Price Trend.

CHAIN store stocks as a group are showing an upward trend in prices. This is particularly so of Woolworth, which is at present around 75 and about 23 points above the low. This sharp advance in the leading five and ten store common stock is said to be the effect of rumors that there is a possibility of Woolworth's dividend rate being increased. At present it is on a $2.40 annual basis. Moreover, Woolworth is reported to be showing encouraging business increase during the current month. Reports of the company's sales for the 10 months of present year showed a gain of more than 7 per cent over those of the corresponding period last year. The additional Saturday in November this year will undoubtedly add considerable volume to company's monthly report, and go a long way in aiding Woolworth to approximate the sale total estimated for the company for the full year.

Munsingwear at current levels is selling 25 per cent below its comparatively recent high and at present prices yield over 7½ per cent. Estimated earnings for 1929 should parallel last year, when net income equalled $7.31 a share on the present capitalization, or more than 2½ times dividend requirements. Financial position is strong and company's good trade position for remainder of the year is assured. Stock now pays $3.50 with an extra, and there is good authority for belief that stock will be placed on $4 basis early next year.

THERE has been some good buying of Granby Consolidated Mining around current levels, reported to be for account of those close to the company's management. It was pointed out that earnings before depletion applicable to dividends would reach nearly $10 a share for 1929, and that at current level of about $60 a share the $8 dividend is yielding better than 13 per cent. It is interesting to note that the present price of the stock is only slightly above that at which it was selling a year ago when dividends were only being paid at the annual rate of $4.

The upturns of the past few days have done much to strengthen many of the margined accounts in commission houses. A large number of clients of leading firms were able to hold on to their long positions through the break, but a few more days of sharp reactions would have brought forced liquidation from these interests. The higher prices prevailing have permitted reductions in the long positions, thus reducing debit balances and putting accounts in much better shape.

SENTIMENT in conservative quarters has not changed despite the better tone in the market. The general tendency is to continue advising the reduction of long holdings during the favorable opportunities which are presented when stocks are moving ahead. Profit-taking is also recommended to those who bought stocks speculatively during the extreme weakness of last week. Many are looking for a technical setback again before the end of the week.

New York Central has an uninterrupted dividend record since 1870 and the earnings for the current year assure the current $8 a share dividend rate, with some interests contending that an increase could be decided upon. The road serves approximately half the population of the United States, including the principal industrial cities in the East and Middle West. Rapid strides were made in developing earning power since the war.

HOUSEHOLD FIN. NOT HIT BY SLUMP

Small Loan Companies Have Little Interest in Securities Speculation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Business of Household Finance Corporation is not likely to be influenced in either direction by the decline in stock prices, said L. C. Harbison, president.

"We know from 50 years' experience on the part of this company, and I know from 30 years' experience in it, that the stock market crash will neither increase the number of small loans nor cause them to decrease," said Mr. Harbison. "Eighty-five per cent of the people will not be visibly affected in any way.

"Throughout our entire history we have gone through financial crises and industrial depressions with no substantial effect upon our business," Mr. Harbison said. "Perhaps as much as 15 per cent of the population is affected by stock prices. Many of these people will have to abandon luxurious modes of living and readjust their living expenses. But there will be practically no readjustment among the rest.

DELINQUENCIES LESS

"In fact, we had slightly fewer delinquents last month, after the crash started, than in any other month this year.

"Our customers come from the people of the United States who have no bank credit and do not speculate. I say this with full knowledge of the facts. With 116 branch offices in the 12 chief industrial states, we have our fingers on the pulse of conditions affecting the working man of the nation in nearly every principal industrial center from 30,000 up.

MASSES UNDISTURBED

"Financial requirements and the daily habits and mode of living of the great mass of the American people will go on undisturbed by the declining stock prices. Their credit is unimpaired and their earning powers unchanged.

"We have on our books 235,000 active accounts representing every fundamental industry. We know that these people will continue to work just as they always have," Mr. Harbison said.

LOANS TOTAL $30,000,000

Household Finance Corporation is the largest small loan company in the United States, and is the only one of its kind listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Loans are made at approximately one-third less than the legal maximum permitted under the uniform small loan act.

One year ago, before it voluntarily reduced its interest rate, it had 114,000 active accounts on its books and about $13,000,000 out in loans of $300 or less. Today it has 235,000 accounts and more than $30,000,000 out in loans.

Household Finance and its subsidiaries for the nine months ended September 30, 1929, showed consolidated net income of $2,371,392 after all expenses and taxes, equal to $3.54 a share on the 180,000 shares of participating preference stock and to $3.59 a share on the combined 77,655 shares of class A common and 402,298 shares of class B common stock. These earnings were in excess of those for all 1928, when net income after all charges amounted to $2,309,406.

EARNINGS COMPARED

Following table compares earnings for the first nine months of 1928 and 1929:

	1929.	1928.
Gross oper. income	$8,222,020	$3,486,780
Operating expenses	5,156,868	1,463,040
Net oper. income	3,065,152	2,023,733
other income	38,311	13,623
Total income	3,103,463	2,047,357
Income charges	292,709	82,225
Federal taxes	439,371	241,624
Net income	2,371,392	1,723,508

"The small loan business, unlike many other lines of industry has very small seasonal fluctuations," Mr. Harbison said, "and is very little affected in profits or losses by periodical expansions or contractions in business of the nation."

Pennsy Terminal Ready Next April

Announcement was made today that the first unit of the Pennsylvania Railroad's new rail-to-keel terminal at Jersey City will probably be ready for use in April, 1930. Contracts have been let and construction started on the whole pier and warehouse project and changes in tracks, piers, bridges, etc., necessary to make way for the new construction are well underway. Practically the entire development will be in operation next year and it is expected to aid materially in lessening congestion in the port of New York.

The new facilities will cover more than nine acres and five city blocks adjacent to the Jersey City exchange place station.

Paderewski's Tour To U. S. Postponed

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—George Engels, American manager for Ignace Jan Paderewski, pianist, announced that the musician's continued illness had forced postponement of his American tour until next season.

Paderewski was operated on in Europe for appendicitis on September 23. He was well on the way to recovery when phlebitis set in, causing him to send word that his tour, scheduled to start early in November, would have to be postponed until January 1. His recuperation, however, has been much slower than he anticipated, according to a cable which Engels received.

The net profits included $2,757,177 representing earnings of subsidiaries during the period, but prior to the date of their acquisition. The figures represented an increase of 744.6 per cent over net profits of $2,044,841 reported for the year ended August 31, 1928. The 1929 profits included those for the Stanley Company of America and First National Pictures, Inc., subsidiaries.

Pacific Petroleum Stocks Take Jump

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—American Petroleum Institute announces total stocks of petroleum products in the Pacific Coast territory increased during October 4,659,722 barrels to 184,844,544 barrels. This compares with an increase of 5,133,154 barrels during month of September.

Total production of crude oil in California for October was 26,895,160 barrels against 26,104,264 barrels in September and 27,233,353 barrels in August.

During October there were 55 wells completed with an initial daily production of 50,563 barrels and during September 68 wells were completed with an initial daily production of 114,991 barrels.

The present curtailed production will not be reflected until the November report.

Auburn Increases 1930 Program 50%

AUBURN, Ind., Nov. 22.—Auburn's 1930 production program calls for a 50 per cent increase over 1929, E. L. Cord, president, announced.

An expansion program involving several million dollars is being rushed to completion to meet this increase, Mr. Cord added. Commitments for materials involving several millions more already have been let.

In making the announcement, Cord expressed his confidence that 1930 will again see new records in automobile production for those manufacturers who best meet the demands of motor car buyers.

STUDE SELLING UNDER BOOK VALUE

Present Range of Shares Approximately $2 Below Stated Worth on Sept. 30

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—At the recent low of 38¼, Studebaker Corp. common shares represented the lowest valuation for the corporation since 1924.

At this level, the market appraisal for the 1,940,877 shares totaled $74,238,545. At the low of 41¼ in 1925, the 1,875,000 shares of Studebaker common outstanding at that time were valued at $77,343,750. During the current year, Studebaker common also sold at its highest valuation, around $180,000,000.

During the five-year period, 1925-29 inclusive, Studebaker will have earned a total of around $68,000,000, annual average of $13,600,000, equal to $7.01 a share on the prsent outstanding common stock.

STEADY DIVIDENDS

It will have paid in dividends on its common shares a total of $47,468,750, an annual average of $9,493,750, equal to $4.89 a share on the present outstanding common.

Prospects are that Studebaker's earnings this year, including its equity in Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Corporation, will approximate closely the average results for the past five years. On this basis the low price for the stock yielded an equity return on current year's as well as the five-year average earnings of 18.3 per cent. Its yield on the current $5 annual dividend was 13.0 per cent and on the average five-year dividend was 12.7 per cent.

OPERATIONS STABLE

During the five years, Studebaker's operations have maintained a fairly stable level. In none of these years have profits reached the peaks attained in 1922 and 1923 when earnings averaged above $18,000,000 a year. Nor has the volume of sales reached the peak level of $166,153,683 and 145,167 units recorded in 1923.

Book value of the common shares on September 30 was $49.57 compared with $48.85 at the end of 1925. Recent low for the shares was equivalent to 77 per cent of the book value and the average price at which the shares sold in 1925 was equal to 112 per cent of the book value. Currently stock is selling around 47.

BUSINESS CHANGES

During the current year, Studebaker's business has undergone a decided change. First nine months reflect a concentration of sales in the higher-priced eight-cylinder models and a sharp decline in sales of its lower-priced models on which the margin of profit has always been relatively small. So far as the corporation's earnings are concerned, the gains in one direction practically have offset the declines in the other.

PIERCE ADDS TO NET

For the first nine months of the year corporation reported unit sales of 83,650, compared with 115,895 in the corresponding period of 1928. Net earnings for the nine months amounted to $11,469,198, equal to $5.72 a share on the common, against $12,730,732, or $6.58 a share, in the corresponding period of last year. Another factor which also entered the situation this year was the acquisition of a controlling interest in Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company. Studebaker's equity in the earnings of this company during the first nine months of this year amounted to $1,950,672, bringing the corporation's nine months' profit, including equities, to $13,419,871, or $6.72 a share.

In connection with the acquisition of Pierce-Arrow, there have been issued an additional 22,660 shares of Studebaker common and the balance of the increase in the outstanding Studebaker stock has been due to the payment of common stock dividends this year.

POSITION MAINTAINED

Studebaker's position in the motor industry during the past five years has been well maintained. Relative stability of its earnings is in marked contrast to the changes in the corporation's business which have taken place during this period. Possibilities of still further expanding its earnings with a relatively small investment are suggested by the acquisition of Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company and the results which have been shown on this investment in less than a year.

Corporation also has greatly improved its manufacturing efficiency through concentration of operations at the plants in South Bend. While this has been an unusually expensive step, it is expected to justify itself by increased economics amounting to several millions of dollars annually. In addition, corporation's present position as largest producer of eight-cylinder cars should benefit from a greater public acceptance of this type of motor vehicle in the future.

PLATE GLASS PROFITS UP

An official estimate of $12,000,000 net earnings for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company for the year ending December 31, 1929, shows an increase of approximately 50 per cent over the earnings reported for the year 1928. Diversification of its products has enabled the company to report increased earnings, even at times when the plate glass industry outlook is not so bright.

The estimate is the first one ever made by the company. It was made at this time to assure the stockholders of the company that the company is in a good condition, and that earnings are at higher levels this year than they were the year previous.

The company's statement follows:

"While the company recognizes that there will undoubtedly be some curtailment of business next year, it is optimistic as to its own future and is going to carry forward as rapidly as possible its building program which involves further expenditures of at least $8,000,000, in anticipation of enlarged business opportunities as soon as the present depression is over."

The company declared an extra dividend of $1 a share in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 50 cents.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

THAT Greta Garbo, who was always pounced on for displaying "poor taste" in clothes for street wear, has been wearing those stylish long dresses which have just come into vogue.

That it takes 36 hrs before you know you've caught a cold.

That The Lampoon, Harvard's funny paper, is the oldest illustrated comic sheet in these United States.

That Lupe Velez's real name is Guadalupe Villabolos.

That Oliver Sayler is plotting a new syndicate proposition which will feature a weekly contribution from a former New York columnist of national repute, who has been Satevepost-ing it.

That Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., is an excellent amateur fortune-teller (and an excellent amateur newspaperman, for that matter).

That in New York every theatrical season (nine months) about 12,000 pair of theater passes are given away to pests.

That in Katherine Brush's serial in the SEPOST she has her hero, a sport writer, typing a date-line and then his by-line (signature) on a football story. That's wrong. Sports writers write their names first.

That C. W. Beall, of 56 William street, N. Y. (he is the Vice Pres of Harris Forbes investment brokers) is an elephant fancier. He has a herd that he captured himself and of which he is inordinately fond. But he won't let anybody go near them or photograph them and he personally writes the menus for their diet. He won't even tell their winter quarters.

STILL CUTTING

THAT if he knows it, Dr. William Mayo, of the Rochester, Minn., Mayos, will not attend a play about his profession.

That at Sixth avenue and Thirty-second street in New York are the only five superimposed railroads in the world. Viz—bottom, the Penn R. R.—next, the Hudson Tubes, then the subway, the surface lines and on top the "L."

That Chinese laundry tickets now contain Arabic numerals as well as Chinese characters because the majority of Oriental laundry workers can't ever read their own language.

That no matter what you've heard, the N. Y. Times started the new form of directory advertising for the theaters. And that they are willing to sacrifice a little in revenue in the interest of helping people find the New York playhouses, now listed alphabetically.

That the Boston censors (who are funny that way) inspected "Porgy" again when it played a return date, passing up "A Night in Venice," which is pediculous with double-entendre.

JUST AS IN POKER

THAT an admission is charged to see the buried Kings of England in Westminster Abbey, London, which is in Britain. Really!

That smart guys won't make fun of a feller because he places his hands on his hips. All great quarterbacks stand that way when their teams are on the defensive.

That the revolving stage is not a modern piece of stage machinery, but dates back to the ancient Japanese dramas.

That when they were stage-door Johns, David Belasco and Charles Frohman fought in a theater alley over Minnie Maddern Fiske, with Belasco getting the decision and Frohman getting the gal.

DIPLOMACY AGAIN

THAT a photo of Jessie Matthews, of London's "Wake Up and Dream" show, was displayed in the Selwyn Theater foyer the night "Condemned" opened. Miss Matthews is the lass who now is wooed by Sonny Hale, husband of Evelyn Laye, star of "Bitter-Sweet."

When the Selwyn management learned that Miss Laye was coming to the premiere the Matthews photo was taken down.

That Vincent Youmans is producing a drama with the money he got for the "Great Day" scenery.

That the Ehret Brewery special calendars feature a mourning border around the date that prohibition became a law.

That it takes eight years before the orchid seedling blooms into the flower, which accounts for the cost.

AS JUDGE PARODIED THIS DEPT

(in their "Broadway Number")

THAT a feller named Klotz was arrested for chasing a naughty word around the Times electric bulletin board.

That Mr. Nedick personally squeezes each orange.

That Childs Restaurants save $7,000 a year by not using an apostrophe.

That the word "nerts" cannot be sent via Western Union.

That Helen Kane has been hired by the Klaxon company to invent a horn that goes Phffoop.

And that Times Square was bought from the Indians for three seats to "Strictly Dishonorable."

DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d." to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

"Even cockroaches show some traces of intelligence."—Major R. W. G. Hingston, M. C.

And does not try such stupid stunts
As contradicting human nature
By an act of legislature.
He worries not, nor tires his head
On futile plans to get ahead.
He does not feed from out a can
Nor live on the installment plan—
In progress he is far behind.
Which shows he has a brilliant mind;
True, he does naught to raise the lot
Of cockroaches; but still, in what
He does not do he shows acumen
Which is so charmingly inhuman.

Charges Against Police Should Receive Airing

Authorities of Allegheny County and Pittsburgh are charged by John D. Pennington, local prohibition administrator, not only with failing to aid in the enforcement of the prohibition law but with actually protecting the bootlegger, "up to the point of murder."

The wrath of Mr. Pennington had been aroused because of the alleged clubbing of one of his agents by a Pittsburgh policeman during a federal raid on a saloon. He also charged that Pittsburgh police recently stood by while thugs fired upon a car occupied by enforcement agents following a raid on a North Side saloon.

Mr. Pennington, doubtless, has good reason for his heat, and we are sorry there is nothing in official activity to indicate things are otherwise than he states. The trouble, we believe, is not that the rank and file of police are in sympathy with lawlessness but in the attitude of their superiors that the prohibition law is no concern of their's but the special field of Mr. Pennington and his force.

The police, of course, have plenty to do, but they are sworn to support all laws. It is their duty to aid in keeping order. Of course, charges made against individuals cannot be expected to convict the entire department, even if proven, but the public would like to see the heads of the police force try a little more diligently to see that its ranks are not contaminated by men who should not be there.

What is the police trial board for, if not to look into these things? Why do not the superiors of the men involved in the incidents cited by Mr. Pennington bring charges against them so that the facts can be made a matter of record? It is allowing such things to pass unnoticed, or to drag along if charges be made, that causes the public to think that there is more truth than heat in what Mr. Pennington has had to say from time to time about the police.

Completion of Highways Would Add to Prosperity

President Hoover and his administration have certain opportunities for increasing prosperity by widespread employment entirely within their own hands.

Conferences with the leaders of industry throughout the country are admirable; encouragement of activity in railroad development and all other lines of industry is most admirable; but why not also encourage the government to do the things which it ought to do and the things which it has the authority to do?

The government is far in arrears with its road construction. It can at least perform the work which it has actual authority from Congress to perform. It can go further, with authority from Congress, which it can get for the asking, and complete the unfinished links which now exist in the various national highways—links which are likely to remain unfinished for some time unless the national government acts, on account of lack of funds in some of the sparsely settled states.

The completion of these highways would not only have the advantage of giving employment and distributing wealth in wages, but it would have the very definite advantage for the country of making these highways immediately available for the purposes for which they were planned.

In addition to the completion by the federal government of highways now under construction, a delegation of Congress urges legislation looking to the establishment of a national system of express motor highways on which faster and more direct traffic would be permitted than is possible on existing highways.

A similar proposal was made some time ago in a bill introduced by Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, which has already received the indorsement of the Hearst newspapers.

If President Hoover will combine the best features of these two proposals in a recommendation to Congress for prompt adoption of a national highway program, public sentiment in every section of the country will rally to its support.

Here is a prosperity builder that will unite the East with the West and the North with the South.

And its benefits will be shared by the whole American people for generations to come.

It has been estimated by experts who have made a careful study of the subject that motor transportation in this country is less than 25 per cent efficient because of congested traffic and the lack of improved highways.

These experts agree that this traffic is growing at such a rapid rate that it cannot be provided for on ordinary highways.

And the lack of express motor highways is holding up transportation and costing the American people tens of millions of dollars every year through the congested traffic conditions that now prevail.

Unless the federal government takes the lead in the formulation of a program in the carrying out of which the several states and municipalities will co-operate, private enterprise will press their claims before state legislatures to give to special interests authority to construct, operate, and control this new means of transportation.

A transcontinental system of express motor highways linking up all the geographical regions of this vast country and meeting the demands of swifter transportation between the great centers of population would promote national prosperity in time of peace and fortify the national security in time of war.

But the program must be truly national. It must be based upon sound engineering and sound economic principles. And it must be carried out under the ablest supervision that the nation can provide.

That is why federal leadership in the formulating of this program is essential.

That is why the American people have a right to look to the President and the Congress to take the lead in starting this great project as soon as the necessary surveys can be made.

A Modern Shrine

Miracle Working in Massachusetts.

At Malden, Mass., a Catholic priest, the Rev. Patrick Power, was buried 60 years ago.

Now it is announced that miracles are performed at his grave. More than five hundred thousand have gone there, some hoping to witness the miracles, many, ailing, expecting to be cured.

At one time it was necessary to remove the priest's tombstone to prevent crowds destroying neighboring graves.

Little girls have gone to the tomb limping and walked back apparently HEALED.

Cardinal O'Connell, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Boston, visited the grave of miracles, but declined to say anything except "All we know is what we see with our eyes, and you can see as much as I can."

It was pathetic to see scores, inspired by hope and faith, digging up soil near the dead priest's grave with their hands and carrying it away in the hope that they might take the power of miracle-working with it.

THIS flat-poled world will never have another war. So we are figuring out the way to fight the next one.

President Hoover's plea for foodships falls on one tube ears.

Mr. Hoover is against the economic blockade which forces women and children to starve while nations are playing leapfrog in trenches.

Europe resents any philanthropic gyrations on the part of America. We can help 'em to win wars but we cannot get on the board of directors.

If the children want animal crackers let 'em learn how to use the bayonet.

The women can go out and toss six-button hand grenades at the grocers.

President Hoover is powered with the finest brand of philanthropy when he asks that foodships be unmolested during times of international tournaments. This will make war humanitarian and more popular.

But it would also rob European admirals of the pleasure of defeating a load of refrigerated herring.

If Hobson could get famous for sinking a load of coal before Castle Morro was equipped with oil-burning furnaces, why can't a European admiral get the order of chain groceries of the third class by torpedoing a scow stuffed with anchovies?

Think how dreadful the 18-day diet would be if you had to knit sox at the same time.

The object of war seems to be to turn the other guy's bread sour, poison his wells and train crows to eat his corn.

When President Hoover implores pure milk for the babies he robs Mars of his niblick and his putter.

The foraging detail is the most important squad in the army. These intrepid scouts pillage the granaries and the hen roosts of the enemy. The battle cry of the A. E. F. was, "When do we scoff?"

The high-lights of Lausanne, Geneva and Versailles were not diplomacies, but eats and drinks.

Those peace conferences would have been over years ago if some smart lobbyist had established a food blockade.

Paris points out that President Hoover's foodships would destroy the economic blockade, which is the League's strongest weapon.

This is the first news we have of the League's armory, which seems to be a treasure-trove of distilled hate, corrosive charity and legalized atrocities.

In case of war the League of Nations refuses to be a stag affair. Let the women and the babies earn their citations.

CRABBING THEIR ACTS

By Herbert Kaufman

IN back-stage parlance, the stock market break has crabbed so MANY acts, expecting to be INDEFINITE headliners, that most of us have forgotten pretty much everything else but tariff tangles, Senate wrangles and disarmament angles.

Meanwhile, Habibullah, the Water Boy of Kabul, is consoling himself for a lost throne and head, with his allotted houris in Paradise.

If Edward Knoblauch and Marmaduke Pickthall hadn't fore-imagined his lurid performance, in the respective adventures of "Hadj, the Beggar," and "Said, the Fisherman," playwrights and novelists might well have turned that grotesque situation to gorgeous account.

And yet, only a comic opera plot would dare compel a king to abdicate and yield succession to the meanest subject in his realm, because he sought to introduce the wearing of Paris frocks and London toppers.

THE closing of this episode removes at least one thorn from the Lion's paw; but Britain has plenty left to keep Downing Street wincing.

For instance, unspoiling the Egyptians wasn't such an easy job as anticipation pictured. And it will take all the diplomatic genius in the Foreign Office to conciliate the interests of British investors, with the aspirations of the different Nationalist groups Oliver Twisting for STILL more concessions from His Majesty's Government.

Briand's fall, and Tardieu's rise, should also complain of cavalier treatment from an otherwise engrossed American press.

Signor Mussolini may likewise accuse the cables of temporarily neglecting his importance.

And for all that's been lately printed on the subject, the Chinese-Russian imbroglio seems wiped from the slate, together with the civil wars of Cathay and Jugo-Slavia's political mess.

Even Bishop Cannon finds it difficult to squeeze a scold into the front page.

EDITORIAL comment would ordinarily have required columns to marvel PROPERLY at Juanita Hansen's recovery of $168,000 damages for a shower bath scald; not to mention its normal reaction at the announcement of a $300,000 fee, paid to a single alienist by the guardians of the mysteriously afflicted Stanley McCormick.

We've grown used to calculating by billions, that these sums seem small change.

So does the Prince of Wales—who apparently can't devise better use for his time and talents than to employ them at knitting neckties.

The heir-apparent to an empire beset by Colonial problems, staggering under the burden of chronic doles, and generally embarrassed by idle mines and spindles, is hardly qualifying himself for international confidence by indulging in such tomfoolery, when economic crises and fiscal depression should engage his fullest thought and energy.

NERO fiddled while HIS Rome burned. Louis, the Purblind, tinkered with locks as Revolution sharpened secret pikes. And Edward, the Playboy, blithesomely crochets while a Labor Ministry tightens its grasp upon authority and daily increases its supporters.

When the desperate folk of France cried for bread, Marie Antoinette brightly suggested that they try CAKE.

And after the starving colliers exhibited their gaunt estate to young Mr. Windsor, he sent bouquets as an earnest of his sympathy.

When England hopefully looks to the Royal House for leadership, the incumbent of St. James Palace weaves a hand-knitted what-not.

VERY much, besides the ups and downs of the ticker and the tariff, to think about, gentle reader!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

BACK at the old job again . . . whanging away at the same old tread mill . . . with the smell of the campfire dying out of your nostrils and the sound of the waves fading from your ears . . . yes? Sore that vacation's over? Sorry for yourself, a little? Then perhaps you'll like to hear about my room.

It's a long, low room . . . the whole interior of a log cabin, three thousand feet up in the California Sierras. The cabin is set deep in pines, on a ridge that looks down and out over a small clearing which rises into the forest again. It's late, as I write, nearly evening. The pines have become very dark . . . peacock blue . . . and the sky is a delicate, bright glaze, almost without color. All the color seems to be flowing down, gathering in the clearing.

The clearing is lined with sunburnt grass and russet ferns. Now they are drowned beneath an amber flood . . . a glowing, heavy light . . . sweet and heavy as desert honey. The light rises . . . spreads . . . passes between the trunks of the trees. The ground seems tiled with little plaques of beaten copper and bright gold. And presently, my table stands in a deep ruddy pool.

It is a heavy table . . . ten feet long, roughly made of two thick planks of sugar pine.

As I write, there are various things on the table. (I suspect they're the sort of things YOU'D put on a table like that.) A big, yellow bowl, piled with the last peppers and tomatoes and lettuce . . . a blue and white pitcher, filled with milk . . . a box of flea powder . . . a basket of apples . . . a ragged pile of books . . . a tray of drying herbs . . . a pick head, to be sharpened at the forge . . . a 45.

The room is still and glowing with that golden dusk. Through the shadows there come bright glints from pots and kettles—the smell of rosemary and thyme . . . the little clicking noises that seem to live within any friendly room.

In a little while now I must go away from this place and work in cities. I will travel in cars and eat in hotels. Eat at white tables under glittering lights. Tables without flea powder or 45s. But always I'll feel homesick . . . homesick for this simple, friendly room.

I never met a successful man who didn't think back to the days when he ate in the kitchen and fried his own trout with a strip of bacon . . . . or who didn't wonder how his smart, Parisian wife would look in one of those old-fashioned gingham dresses, like Ma used to wear.

And I never yet met a worldly woman who didn't, at some time, wish she was back in Centerville, making her first party dress again out of pink-dotted swiss . . . and waiting, with pounding heart, for Jim, the grocery boy, to come up the walk.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THE speed of the circulation as a whole depends on the output of the heart, the pump which keeps it all in motion, and any widespread dilatation of the capillaries would result in a slowing rather than a quickening of the circulation, unless the output of the heart were augmented at the same time. The two factors work together.

The disastrous effects of capillary dilatation unsupported by the heart are seen in the condition called "surgical shock" which follows any extensive tearing of the flesh.

H. G. Wells

It appears that torn flesh pours a substance known as histamine into the blood and that histamine causes the capillaries to relax completely without having any effect on the heart output.

The result of an extensive production of histamine, since the total volume of the capillaries is enormously increased (about seven hundred times more than normal) and the heart is only pumping just enough blood for a normal resting circulation, is that blood stagnates in the bloated capillaries, and the whole blood stream becomes sluggish.

When, during exertion, the capillaries enlarge a similar condition would be produced, were it not for corresponding changes in other parts. Of the most important is an increase in the output of the heart.

Besides changes in capillary volume and heart output, there are yet other changes in the circulation during exertion; among them it is interesting to note a compensatory mechanism, only very recently brought to light, which involves the most mysterious organ in the human abdomen—the spleen.

The spleen is a purple organ, roughly oblong and about five inches long, lying behind the stomach and receiving copious blood supply direct from the dorsal aorta. Its minute structure is curious, for in its substance the blood is not confined within definite vessels, as it is in any other organ; the arterioles and vessels have open ends, and instead of passing through a capillary network the blood flows freely in the spongy tissue and directly bathes the spleen cells.

The spleen has long been a puzzle to physiologists, partly because it is an organ with many functions; probably, for example, it is concerned with the breaking down of old and worn blood cells and with manufacturing new ones to replace them.

But at present we are concerned with another aspect of its activity, which depends on the presence of a well-defined system of muscle-fibres, forming a capsule round the organ and sending interlacing strands through its substance.

During rest the heart is pumping just enough blood to keep it circulating at an effective speed through the partly-closed capillaries. If, as a result of exertion, the capillaries suddenly open up, the blood-stream will evidently be slowed unless the heart labors strenuously to keep up its speed.

But if at the same time some other part of the circulation which normally holds a considerable volume of blood reduces its own capacity and ejects its contents into the general circulation, then the expansion of the capillaries will be compensated for. Now, there exists in the body certain blood reservoirs which have precisely this function, and of these the spleen is chief.

During rest the muscle-fibres of the spleen are for the most part relaxed; they are rhythmically contractile, beating slowly and indolently, like a very lazy heart, and so keeping a sluggish flow of blood through that organ.

In its distended tissue spaces it holds about a litre of blood—about one-fifth of the total volume in our bodies. During exercise, on the other hand, the muscle fibres are permanently contracted and its capacity decreases to only about one-third of the resting value.

The reserve blood in the organ is therefore driven out into the rest of the circulation, and in this way the blood supply to the muscles is increased.

The spleen, then, is essentially a blood reservoir, and during moderately severe exercise the contribution which it makes to the muscular blood supply is sufficient. During very severe exercise, when every resource of the organism is called upon, the blood in the spleen may not be enough, and in this case the process is carried a step farther—blood is taken from other organs, such as the digestive organs, and sent to the toiling muscles, the activities of the former being temporarily suspended.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Thoughts while strolling: Wonder if fish merchants ever eat fish? Sign on a blind man's hat: "Cheer up—it might be worse!" A 5 and 10 grocerteria. The melancholy wail of river tugs. Jane Cowl's dreamy languor. Male flappers with eyebrow mustaches. Few of us are as well to do as formerly, heigh ho!

Gil Boag, former king of the night clubs. Now a Broadway producer. Two-dollar jellies in gold-leafed jars. And sold by clerks in braided coats. Barber shop sign: "Our manicure girls are beauty prize winners." Joe Williams, the sport writer. Clay Morgan of the French Line.

The white taffy blondes featuring heavy black eyebrows. Near-society chatterers who call each other "Old Dear." And rush up and down theater aisles waving at people between acts. Mrs. Fiske's mincing walk. And the bird-like flirts of her head.

Those snooty imported cars without an identifying name anywhere. The melancholy placidity of a curio shop. A playwright wearing patent leather spats and a red lapel rose. Phil Plant, the young millionaire sportsman. The real countess who is housekeeper at a fashionable hotel.

The venerable East Side hags with discarded baby carriages who hunt kindling. Always blooming flowers in Helen Gould's window boxes. The little girls who used to roll hoops now drive roadsters. Henry Blackman Sell, a Chicago, Ill., boy who made good in the city.

Cream-colored overcoats with dazzling polka-dot handkerchiefs. Nothing looks so utterly bored as a stretching dog. Unless it is a stretching cat. Dice-shaped hats for girls. A new drink—beet juice. "Duke" Herrick, the park commissioner, who looks like the Mayor.

The silver-haired twins who promenade Fifth avenue wearing gray derbies. The grim look of back-seat motorcycle riders. Billie Burke wears her hair in a little knot in the back. Night watchmen who sit on chairs backward and lean on the backs. Who remembers when a chateaux was a house?

A department store has an all-night telegraph service. If a customer wants something after closing, a wire order will bring it on the first morning delivery. Thus making it dandy in case you should run out of book-ends or something.

Scandal does not always affect property or trade values. The hotel where Rothstein was murdered and the apartment house in which he lived have had a greater prosperity since his mysterious murder than ever before. And the little Broadway cafe from which he was called to his death is usually packed to capacity.

* * *

On the other hand, a West Side apartment house in which a deflowered Broadway rose was found garroted several years ago proved such a heavy financial loss it was finally torn down and is now occupied by a garage.

A great theatrical producer now in ripening years and very rich has a household keyed up to royal pretensions. His insatiable vanity is fed with all the flattery and complete servility of noblesse oblige. Even his bed is that of a dethroned ruler in a small European principality. He usually dines alone and with great pomp—and perhaps with a sly chuckle. He says he has always lived in a world of illusion and he wants to continue the regal manner until the end. It might be added, too, his name is not David Belasco.

Many of us appearing so prosaic are nursing romantic repressions. Since boyhood I have dreamed of being the swashbuckler with flashing lance, hip boots and jangling spurs. The nearest I came to it was to don chaps and a six-shooter on a far-away Mexican ranch, and at last reports the boys around the bunk house were still hysterical.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

AREN'T you trying to cultivate too many friends?

Spending too much time and money which you cannot afford in an effort to associate with too many persons?

For this reason your social obligations are burdensome.

You are flattered to be a part of different crowds. You feel that your popularity is something which bespeaks you as possessing more than ordinary charm and accomplishment.

You can afford the time and expenditures which one or two sets of friends might entail. But can you, with peace of mind and comfort, maintain a worthwhile place in the number of circles that claim your attention?

Demands on your income cause you many uneasy hours. Would you not be of more use to yourself, your family and your employer if you cut out the unnecessary causes of anxiety and weariness? To be in fit physical condition is of prime importance.

You realize you can't keep up your present pace, but you haven't the nerve to give up certain cliques with whom you spend much time, isn't it so?

How long will you continue to try to fool others?
